Washington Report

By BILL WHITLEY
Secretary To United States Senator W. Kerr Scott

Washington.—Sen. W. Kerr Scott recently introduced legislation that would provide for a system of graduated price supports on cotton and wheat patterned along the same lines as Federal income taxes.

In offering the legislation on the Senate floor, Scott said that under the plan, "the larger the farming operation, the less assistance it receives from the government."

The bill Scott offered specified graduated price supports on cotton and wheat only.

"Although the bill includes only cotton and wheat," Scott said, "I feel that the same approach to the other basic commodities can be easily worked out."

Under the Scott proposal, price supports would begin at 100 per cent of parity for small farmers. Supports would decline to 60 per cent of parity as production increased on individual farms.

"If we expect to bolster our farm economy by putting additional purchasing power into the hands of the farmers," Scott said, "then we must increase the support prices for small family size farmers."

Scott, a farmer himself, said he favored the soil bank approach toward reducing over-production.

"But," he said, "that is a long range approach that will take several years to have any real effect. We have not received any recommendations from the administration that would cause any immediate increase in farm income, and that is the Number One job to do right now."

Under Scott's bill, cotton support prices would start at 100 per cent of parity for farmers who produced up to 15 bales per year. The next 15 bales would be supported at 95 per cent of parity. The next 20 bales at 90 per cent of parity. The next 50 at 85 per cent; the next 50 at 80; the next 50 at 75; the next 50 at 70; the next 50 at 65; and all over 300 bales at 60 per cent.

In the case of wheat, Scott's measure provides for 100 per cent of parity on the first 1,000 bushels; 95 per cent on the next 500 bushels and 90 per cent on the next 500; 85 on the next 500; 80 on the next 500; 75 on the next 500; 70 on the next 500; 65 on the next 500; and 60 per cent on all over 4,500 bushels.
