Household Hints

Put in a shaker equal parts of ground allspice, cloves, mace and nutmeg and use to season baked apples, puddings, pies, coffee cakes.

Try using green peppers as a dish by themselves. Slice them, season with salt and pepper, dredge with flour and saute until tender.

Catsup is an old favorite with scrambled eggs and can be added before the eggs are cooked in the proportion of one tablespoon for three eggs.

A good cider cocktail can be made by combining two cups of sweet apple cider and three cups of sparkling water. Chill and serve.

Stuffed peppers make a nutritious and flavorful main dish. Stuff them with rice, lentils, scalloped tomatoes or with left-over vegetables when there is no meat on hand.

The amount of fat in stuffing should depend on how much natural fat the bird contains. Ducks and geese generally have more fat than chickens and turkeys.

All dressings on hand have been completed and the chapter has discontinued requests for dressings at the present time. Due to the splendid work of the Red Cross volunteers throughout the county, the army has enough dressings for several months. Mrs. McCoy states that she will notify the women of the county as soon as this program is resumed and feels that she can depend upon them to meet the need as soon as a new quota is assigned.

EPISCOPAL SERVICES

Services at St. Anne's Episcopal Church next Sunday, January 22nd, being Septuagesima. Sunday, are church school at 9:45 a.m., and morning prayer and sermon at 11 o'clock. Subject of the sermon: "Making the Church Known Through Christ."

Septuagesima Sunday marks the beginning of the Pre-Lenten season of the church year and serves to prepare our people for a proper and effective observance of penitence and self-denial in commemoration of our Lord's forty days fasting and temptation in the wilderness. The Lenten season proper will begin Ash Wednesday, February 11, with a celebration of the Holy Communion on that day at 10:30 a.m., and the Penitential Office, service, and sermon at 7:30 p.m.

Plans are also being made for the traditional "Three Hour" service on Good Friday this year along the same lines as held last year, and the splendid cooperation of the community manifested then will be welcomed again.

Victory Menus

By CHARLOTTE ADAMS Special Stuffing for Fish Baked Stuffed Mackerel Parsley Potatoes

Succotash Hard Rolls Cottage Pudding (Recipes serve four) Baked Stuffed Mackerel 2 lb. mackerel 1 1/2 cups soft bread crumbs 1/2 teaspoon salt 2 tablespoons melted margarine 3 tablespoons chopped dill pickle 1 small chopped onion 1 tablespoon chopped parsley 1/2 tablespoon chopped capers 1 tablespoon chopped celery

Have the fish prepared for stuffing by splitting. Wash and dry fish and rub inside with salt. Combine all other ingredients listed above and toss lightly. Stuff fish and sew edges together. Place fish on a greased rack in a baking pan, sprinkle with salt and bake uncovered at 375 F. for 30-40 minutes. Serve on a hot platter garnished with parsley and wedges of lemon.

Succotash 1 cup whole kernel cooked or canned corn 1 cup cooked or canned lima beans 1/2 cup milk 1/2 tablespoon margarine 1/2 teaspoon salt 1/4 teaspoon pepper

Combine corn, beans and milk and simmer for two minutes. Remove from flame and add margarine, salt and pepper.

STILL GROWING Camp Blanding, Fla. (AP)—A batch of newly-arrived trainees here, at work on that commonplace Army task of "polishing the area," were told by their sergeant to "pick up everything you find that isn't growing."

Just then a pretty civilian employe of the post ambled by on her way to work. Eager beams brightened the faces of the rookies. "Never mind about that," belted the sergeant. "It's still growing."

A dash of salt will make egg whites whip more easily and help form a stiffer foam.

Onion, celery and parsley will carry their flavors more evenly through stuffing if they are chopped and cooked in fat a few minutes before being mixed with the bread crumbs.

NOTICE Regular Communication of Lafayette Lodge No. 83, A. F. & A. M. on the first and third Tuesdays of each month, 8 p.m., Masonic Hall, over Johnson's Drug Store, R. C. Warlick, W. M.

HOLLYWOOD Let's Go Back Sixteen Years And Look At Hollywood

By ROBBIN COONS Hollywood—it was only yesterday.

A husky guy with the stubby whiskers of a western "heavy" was shaking hands, grinning, on a desert location. Most of the visitors were ogling Bill Boyd, the hero, but I heard one little lady say "My, oh my!" looking at this fellow. It was probably the first sight in a mass ecstasy that was to sweep the feminine fan world—over a fellow the movies first rejected because his ears were too big. Clark Gable.

She was dashing out of the Hal Roach studio, and someone observing from a window grumbled, "Just another dizzy blonde—she'll never get anywhere." But where Jean Harlow might have gone ultimately, as a comedienne and a warm, human character, will never be known now. Like Carole Lombard, who was to meet her own death equally early and tragically, Jean was a favorite of the "little people" of the lots.

She was a beautiful girl, her English halting and slow. She was newly from Germany—shy, aloof, distrustful. Her next picture made her a star and she rode high, suspicious, "difficult," often ungracious. She was Queen Glamour—the beautiful legs. Today she's a changed woman, still beautiful but a pretty good egg, and always what we call "good copy"—whether she's starting a fad like masculine trousers for women, talking about how to make German pastry, or entertaining soldiers as she's doing now, Marlene Dietrich.

They were two little girls, about the same pre-teens age, and one sang but and one sang sweet. M-G-M let the sweet singer go, and would have dropped the other except for a lucky loan-out Judy Garland and Deanna Durbin.

There was a cocky little kid, a towhead, playing ball with his dad.

on the Universal lot. "Let's skip by here fast," said my guide. "It's one of those movie brats. They're bad enough when they click but if they're just hanging on they're a menace." The cocky kid grew up—Mickey Rooney.

He was a tall, handsome, easy-grinning fellow, ambling by the studio cutting rooms. When we shook hands he said, "Me, I've just played a corpse. My first and only picture work. Don't suppose I'll stay around here long." That was Errol Flynn—before "Captain Blood" and his headline days.

The blond, intense girl across the luncheon table wasn't talking like an ingenue. She was making sense. She had ideas, and expressed them pointedly. She still makes sense, does Bette Davis.

They were girls in the showgirl line-ups... Betty Grable, Paulette Goddard, Lucille Ball, Virginia Mayo, Lynn Bari.

And he was an obscure comedian from the stage, a fellow with an oversized mouth and a sort of hopeless outlook on pictures which would have none of him—Joe E. Brown. Only yesterday.
