Upon my refusing to allow the doctor to amputate it, I was told it would be impossible to heal the wound. I have tried all kinds of salves and had many doctors in the past 20 years, but to no avail. THE HOME FOR LARGE FAMILY

Attractive Stucco House Has Eight Good Rooms.

IS ECONOMICAL TO BUILD

Up-to-Date in Appearance and in Interior Arrangement, With Ample Sleeping Accommodations.

By WILLIAM A. RADFORD.
Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 1827 Prairie avenue, Chicago, Ill., and only enclose two-cent stamp for reply.

In this day when the tendency of architects is to design homes with few rooms and to plan those rooms so that they do the maximum of duty, the man with a large family does not have so large a range of home building plans to select from. Until some ten years ago few homes containing less than seven rooms were designed or built; now the opposite is the case. However, sociologists to the contrary notwithstanding, there are many large families, and these large families want homes planned so that there are enough bedrooms to go around. At the same time they want homes that are up-to-date in appearance and in interior arrangement.

A modern, convenient eight-room house—a house containing five bedrooms—is shown in the accompanying illustration. This home was designed especially for a family of good size. The two first-floor rooms that are to the kitchen. Adjacent to the dining room is a breakfast nook, where meals can be served without the work of preparing the dining room. At the same time the nook is partially separated from the kitchen. A large pantry with an outside window is back of the breakfast nook. On the other side of the room is the entry from the rear porch, with a closet at one side.

Economy in the use of the space in this house is continued to the second floor, where the architect has ingeniously provided five good-size bedrooms in addition to the bathroom. The stairs lead to a central hall on the second floor, out of which open four bedrooms on the corners and the fifth in the center of the building at the front. Every bedroom has two windows, and all but one have good-sized closets. The bathroom occupies the same position at the rear of this floor as the front middle bedroom, and from it through a French door the canvas-covered rear porch is reached. A large balcony over the sun parlor adjoins both of the bedrooms at that end of the house.

The steep pitch of the roof provides a large and airy attic, wherein is de-used by all the members of the family are unusually large, while on the second floor there are sleeping accommodations in plenty.

From an exterior standpoint this home leaves little to be desired. It suggests the Colonial type of architecture in that it has an entrance placed in the center, with the Colonial balance at either side. The large sun parlor at one end is a modern addition that is found in all present-day good homes.

The house is rectangular in shape, which means that it can be erected at the minimum of cost. At the same time the roof is so designed that the plain effect of this shape of house is taken away. The building is of frame construction, set on a concrete foundation to grade and brick foundation walls to the first floor sill. Above the walls are covered with stucco over either wood or metal lath or some one of the patented stucco boards. The brick foundation walls and the brick porch and sun parlor pillars add to the attractiveness of the exterior.

The entrance leads to a central hall out of which run the stairs. To the right is the living room, 15 feet, 3 inches, by 25 feet, which is unusually large. In the center of the end wall is a large, open fire-place, and on either side are French doors leading to the sun parlor, 10 by 19 feet. On the opposite side of the house at the front is the dining room, 16 feet, 6 inches, by 15 feet, 3 inches. Back of the dining room is the kitchen, 9 by 11 feet.

Study of the floor plans that also accompany this article will show the good features that have been put in-sired a couple of more bedrooms can be partitioned off, or the space used for storage. The height of the roof also will tend to keep the house cooler in summer and warmer in winter.

The basement extends under the whole house, with the exception of the sun parlor. It is reached by stairs leading out of the kitchen and, as the whole building is 40 by 26 feet, there is plenty of room for the heating plant, the fuel storage room, a laundry and storage rooms for fruits, vegetables and lawn and garden tools.

From this brief description it will be realized that this house is one that will appeal to the head of a large family who wants to build a home to house them comfortably and at the same time has not a large amount of money to invest. The rooms are many but are arranged so that the work of caring for the home can be done with the smallest expenditure of energy. Every convenience and comfort are provided for.

Such a home as this in these days of high rentals would be held at such a figure that it truly is "cheaper to build than pay rent." The first thought of the architect who designed this home was to give the home owner the maximum amount of space, and a comfortable and handsome home at the least possible cost.

Was Borrowed Middling.

Gen. Robert E. Lee was a frugal man. His ordinary dinner consisted of a head of cabbage boiled in salt water and a pone of corn bread. It is told that on one occasion a number of gentlemen had an appointment to dine with the Confederate warrior. General Lee had ordered his servant to provide a repast of cabbage and middlings. A very small bit of middling garnished the dish when it was brought in; so small was it, in fact, that the guests were stricken with undue politeness and each in turn declined it, and the middling remained on the dish when the dinner came to an end and the guests arose to go. Next day the general, remembering the untouched middling, ordered his negro servant to serve it up for dinner. The negro hesitated, scratched his head and at length said: "You see, Marse Robert, de fac' am this: that theah middlin' was borrowed middlin', and I's done give it back to the man wheah I got it fum."

Kicking at Bills.

"I think Amelia is afraid there will be the devil to pay when her William asks her father for her hand."

"I wouldn't be surprised if he did foot her Bill."

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

Special Care of Baby.

That Baby should have a bed of its own all are agreed. Yet it is more reasonable for an infant to sleep with grown-ups than to use a man's medicine in an attempt to regulate the delicate organism of that same infant. Either practice is to be shunned. Neither would be tolerated by specialists in children's diseases.

Your Physician will tell you that Baby's medicine must be prepared with even greater care than Baby's food.

A Baby's stomach when in good health is too often disarranged by improper food. Could you for a moment, then, think of giving to your ailing child anything but a medicine especially prepared for Infants and Children? Don't be deceived.

Make a mental note of this:—It is important, Mothers, that you should remember that to function well, the digestive organs of your Baby must receive special care. No Baby is so abnormal that the desired results may be had from the use of medicines primarily prepared for grown-ups.

Where is Relief From Blazing Skin Diseases?

Must I Endure Forever the Torturous Itching?
The skin is fed from the blood, and upon the condition of the blood depends whether or not your skin will be healthy and free from boils, pimples, scaly irritations, red eruptions and other disfiguring and unsightly disorders.

The sensible treatment that will show real results is a remedy that will cleanse the blood thoroughly and kill the germs that cause the trouble. And for this purpose no remedy ever made can approach the record of S. S. S. which cleanses the blood of the disease germs, at the same time building up the general health.
