

The Twenty-Fifth Series in the Brevard Building & Loan Association Will Open March 19th, 1921

Thrift, systematic saving, yields not only Capital and Profits but self-respect and ultimate independence. No one thing in its midst has done or can do more for the upbuilding of a Town than a prosperous and active Building and Loan Association, backed by the active co-operation and patronage of its people. It ministers to the community in three distinct ways:

- 1st. To the wage earner who wants to buy or build a home and pay for it in easy installments that are now eaten up by rent.
- 2nd. To the one who can and should be saving against the time of need that some day comes to practically all of us.
- 3rd. To the one who already has a modest nest egg that it is desirable to invest where it will yield a good rate of interest, free from personal care or taxation.

The monthly or weekly installment plan provides for the first two, and paid-up stock meets the needs of the last class.

Remember that the Association is purely mutual and that every dollar of its earnings, over and above its modest expense account, goes back to the members in profits.

Classes 2 and 3 supply the needs of Class 1, with good profit and perfect safety to themselves; and if the people of this community give this Association the patronage and support it deserves, probably twenty new homes can be financed and built this year.

Another information desired can be obtained from the Secretary. Come in and help make Series 25 the biggest and most helpful in the Association's history.

T. H. SHIPMAN, President

G. E. LATHROP, Acting Sec. & Treas.

With the Joyous Easter Message

Why All Mankind Hails the Morn of the Resurrection

Easter morning—the most joyous of all the mornings of the year, the one great day of gladness, supreme above all others on the calendar, the Morn of the Resurrection.

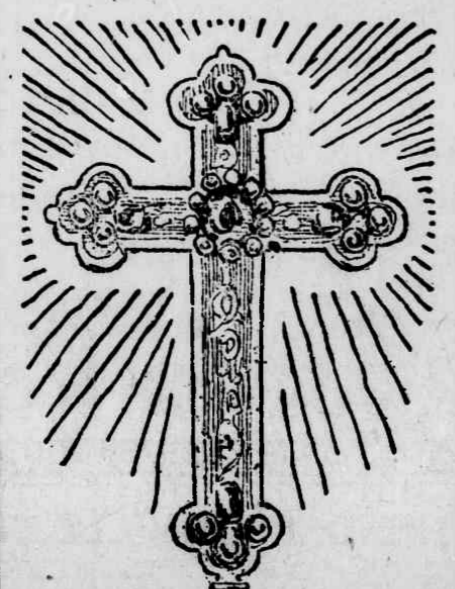

And why is this the gladdest day of the year?

It is the gladdest of all days because it typifies the hope that beyond the grave there is another life than this. It speaks the promise that we shall rise again from the dust of death, that we shall be reunited with those whom we have loved and lost, that we shall open our eyes in another world where there is no parting again, no sorrow, no loss, no pain.

Compare this hope with all other hopes that man can have, and they sink into insignificance.

If the sons of men believed that this life were the only life they could ever know, if they believed that the grave is the end and that when they were laid away with the dust from which they came there would be no awakening, not only would the dearest hope they could possibly have been taken then from them, but the world would then become a place unfit for habitation.

Without the hope of resurrection from the grave man would surely sink at once to the low level of the beast. But that this is not his belief, and that man has, instead, a firm and a full hope to live again, is what makes Easter the one great joyous day of all days.

FOR A BETTER BREVARD

"How can we best advertise our own dear town?"

So asks a good merchant, and he wants to be shown.

Here is the answer straight from the shoulder:

"Make it such a place as shall charm the beholder."

In sweetness and cleanliness we must excel.

If we want health-seekers with us to dwell.

Remove unsightly buildings and tumble down parts.

Tidy up vacant lots and burn up your old carts.

Haul off the old cans and rake back yards clean;

And you'll soon have a city that's fit to be seen.

Plant flowers and shrubbery, fruit and shade trees;

Don't begrudge the small boy his lawn cutting fees.

Remember the adage that's truth to be seen:

"Sweep before your own door and the town will be clean."

Yes, clean up in morals as well as appearance.

(For we have a few vices that need an out clearance.)

Then when we are cleaned up both inside and out:

We will feel so much better and ready to shout.

Then fill up your lungs with me; all ready, pard!

Shout! "We'll all pull together for a Better Brevard."

ERNEST H. NORWOOD.

BREVARD INSTITUTE NOTES:

The Adelpian Society gave an open program on Saturday night consisting of a short comedy, a very effective gypsy drill, music and recitations. It was rendered with much spirit, and showed very careful preparation.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Montgomery of Buffalo, N. Y., are visiting their daughter Virginia, who is one of our students.

Mrs. Orr and Miss Poindexter attended the Alumni Association meeting at Hendersonville last week.

As the fine weather comes on, the various athletic associations are pushing their practice work forward and getting things in order for commencement games.

Maurice Tourneur presents
JAMES FENIMORE COOPER'S
AMERICAN CLASSIC

The Last of the Mohicans

With an All-Star Cast

THE STORY

Uncas, a Mohican Prince, rescues Alice and Cora, two daughters of Colonel Munro, and also Major Heywood, who is in love with Alice, from Magua, an untrustworthy Indian guide.

They take refuge on an island in a secret cave, but in the morning are again captured, but Uncas, Chingachook his father, and Hawkeye make their escape and rescue Alice, Cora and Heywood and take them to Fort Henry, which is commanded by Colonel Munro.

After a siege of several days the Indians and French capture the Fort and a horrible massacre follows. Alice and Cora are taken prisoners. Uncas, Heywood and Hawkeye, the only survivors of the massacre, trail them and rescue Alice, but Magua and Cora again escape.

Uncas, after trailing them all night, arrives just at the break of day on a high cliff where he finds Magua and Cora. In the fight that follows Cora and Uncas are killed by Magua, who in turn is killed by Hawkeye.

In a beautiful valley maidens scatter flowers over the bier of Cora, while on the majestic hilltops Delaware Braves pay final tribute to The Last of the Mohicans.

Early American history repeats itself in this great Indian Classic as the picture was made in the same locality and the massacre of August 10, 1757, was repeated and lived over on the same spot on Aug. 10, 1920.
