

FARM NOTES.

(By J. W. Lindley)

Cultivators should be kept going whenever land is dry enough, but care should be used not to cultivate when land is wet, as it does more harm than good.

Don't (lay by) too early, but keep the cultivator going for the benefit of the replants. Weeds use plant food that the corn should have.

If you have not already done so, plans should be made for sowing every available acre in grass and clover. Prices of farm products are low, so it is essential to improve the soil, then when prices are again on a satisfactory basis, we will be prepared to make larger yields, which means greater profits.

Don't neglect putting out some celery, for this, among other vegetables, contains large quantities of vitamins which are very conducive to good health. More vegetables and less meats, is a good rule, especially during hot weather.

Planted any late corn for roasting ears yet? Plan now to have late corn and beans, for when frost comes the corn may be cut, and stood up in barn or shed, and the corn will be good for table use for two or three weeks.

Don't forget to keep your tomatoes sprayed. Plants properly handled, should continue to produce ripe tomatoes until frost.

AT BAPTIST CHURCH:

Rev. T. W. Raymond, D. D., will preach at the Baptist Church next Sunday morning and evening in the absence of the pastor, Rev. Chas. C. Smith, who left Thursday, for Durham, where he will spend the month of July. During that time Mr. Smith will wind up his affairs in that city, returning here permanently the first of August.

CARD OF THANKS:

We wish to thank all the friends for their acts of kindness and sympathy during the illness and at the time of the death of our son, Ellis Barton, and of our infant.

ROSMAN ITEMS:

Miss Dora Reece of Quebec has accepted a position in the office of the Gloucester Lumber Company.

M. A. Mull and family of Brevard spent last Sunday with relatives in Rosman.

We are glad to learn that Mrs. A. O. Kitchen is still improving after her operation and will be home soon.

When you meet Uncle Joe Wilds on the street now you meet him with a smile for he has only been married 5 years and there are four children at his home, the last one being a boy.

Rev. Ed. Summey came over last Saturday from Pickens, spending Saturday night and Sunday at Lake Toxaway, returning to Rosman Monday, to begin a revival meeting Tuesday night, which is now in progress.

Many people of Transylvania Co. will be sorry to hear of old Bro. Deator Jackson's death. An aged minister who has spent more than ten years in this country. He has preached and labored for the salvation of the lost in many sections of this county and done much and lasting good for years to come. Bro. Jackson was born in Rutherford County. Was born in 1842. He joined the Baptist Church in 1857. From that time on, until death he was an active servant for the Lord and has led hundreds of souls to Christ. But on the 30th day of last May it being his 79th birth day God called him from his labor below to that happy home beyond this veil of tears. He leaves only two children to mourn their loss: Mrs. A. J. Jarrett and Moses Jackson. His body was laid to rest in the Piney Mountain cemetery, ten miles beyond Asheville.

NOT DUE TO SEX ALONE.

Brevard Women Have Learned The Cause of Many Mysterious Pains and Aches.

Many women have come to know that sex isn't the reason for all backaches, dizzy headaches and urinary disorders. Men have these troubles, too, and often they come from kidney weakness. To live simply, eat sparingly, take better care of one's self and to use Doan's Kidney Pills, is bound to help bad kidneys get better. There is no other remedy so well recommended by Brevard people. Ask your neighbor! Read this case: Mrs. E. E. Loftis, Whitmire St., Brevard, says: "I had kidney trouble and don't know what brought this complaint on. I felt all run down, my kidneys were out of order and dizzy spells often came over me. I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills and got a supply and after using them I soon felt like myself again. Continued use relieved me of this trouble."

WONDERING ABOUT BLUE LAWS

Opponents of blue laws would create the impression that no one but long-faced church goers favor laws forbidding work, or commercialized amusements on Sunday.

We shall offer evidence to show that this is not the case.

No one wants the State to meddle with anybody's religion, or to try to compel any one to be religious. But few people will deny that a weekly rest day, and the personal liberty of attending service if so minded, are as much desired, and much more needed by the mass of working people — and professional people — than the personal liberty of making money, or amusing themselves is needed by their employers and patrons.

We wonder if the anti-blue law agitators contend that all laboring people work seven days a week — or only some working people. And if some should rest, why not all? Working people wonder where their personal rights come in.

Actors are not generally credited with being ultra-religious. Yet an English Actor's Association has recently pledged itself to "Oppose, by every means in its power, the opening of theatres on Sunday, also to take steps to preserve Sunday as a day of rest for actors."

If this is an exhibition of "Surly Puritanism", verily, Puritanism is showing itself in unexpected places.

As to gambling, there may be economists today who maintain that lotteries and public gaming houses serve a useful and constructive purpose, but one does not recall them. Has not every State legislated against them? If life would go back to eighteenth century conditions, it should frankly so state. And if not to those conditions, it should tell us what stopping place "Twixt then and now" it would advise: What blue laws it would repeal, and which it would retain.

Lastly about tobacco. The Anti-Saloon League and the W. C. T. U. have explicitly denied that they are trying to force through laws forbidding the use of tobacco. If some members are doing so individually, it is one of their personal rights to work for such a law, and how they are to be restrained from doing so is a problem for life to solve.

Neither of the organizations mentioned are in the habit of concealing their aims. For some decades the W. C. T. U. has stood by its guns, in the face of amazing abuse and ridicule. Its aims and purposes were known to all men. It is one thing to discourage the use of a practice that does more harm than good, and quite another thing to seek to compel its discontinuance — as was done with intoxicants.

Since these official denials have been issued, one can but suspect that these rumors of anti-tobacco laws are part of the wet propaganda to discredit prohibition leaders.

Here is an example of the method used. It is quoted from the Indianapolis National Enquirer.

"There have been several fires lately in government buildings, in which valuable records were lost. It was felt that better fire protection was needed. Accordingly the Senate amended the Sunday Civil bill directing heads of departments to issue anti-smoking orders in government buildings. The house shouted it down and it was written up in the papers as an attempt of the Anti-Saloon League to forbid smoking!" We wonder why.
