NAMUR NEWS

We have been having some very pretty weather for the past week. Mrs. Dela Hinkle and Jessie Cash went to Toxaway Tuesday. Mrs. M. M. Cash seems to have good luck with her cherries. She has picked 30 gallons off one tree and has many more to pick. H. K. Sitton returned to his cottage here after a three day's visit to his many relatives in Pendleton, S. C. Julia Breedlove died Tuesday morning about 4 o'clock. He lived six miles below Namur, and was buried at the Toxaway cemetery. In order to get to the burying ground—which was fifteen miles distant—the route taken on account of the condition of the roads was thirty miles. The funeral party went to Tomassee, took the old turnpike leading to Cashier's, and finally reached water falls to Lake Toxaway the Toxaway cemetery. From White-water Falls to Lake Toxaway the roads are impassable. I don't suppose there will be a voter from this section that will cast his (or her) ballot this year, because it will be impossible to get to the voting precinct. The roads are in such condition that you can hardly travel them with an empty wagon. Several parties have come a portion of the way from South Carolina, but turned back on account of the condition of the roads.
