OFFICER SIMMS

Make plans now to grow a few hogs next season. The neighbors can help you make a carlot for sale co-operatively. This affords a surprisingly good cash income when money is tight.

Tell your home town editor you like his paper, or why you don't. He is doing a job which, left undone, would make your community not much of a community.

ROSMAN SCHOOL NOTES

Vocal and Instrumental Music have been added to the course of study in the Rosman schools, and they are under the direction of Miss Beth Duncan of Elberton, Ga. Miss Duncan is a graduate of the Agnes Scott School of Music, Decatur, Ga., and also holds a Normal Diploma from the American Institute of Applied Music, New York City, and has had several years of successful experience as teacher of vocal and instrumental music in public schools.

The Rosman schools will close on December 15 with a high school play, and will reopen on January 2, 1923. Many of the teachers expect to spend their vacations at their homes.

On Friday evening, December 8, the elementary schools will put on a program in the high school auditorium. The proceeds from these two entertainments will be applied on the school piano, which, by the way, the schools have more than half paid for.

The three girls' high school teams of basketball, organized with Miss Hunter as coach, are doing some real interesting team work. The boys of the high school are doing very creditable playing on their new baseball diamond.

The average daily attendance has been the highest this year in the history of the schools. Last month showed an average daily attendance of 96 per cent and the number of tardies is being reduced to a vanishing quantity.

All the Rosman teachers attended the Teachers' Assembly at Brevard on Saturday, November 18, and enjoyed very much the social feature of the meeting accorded by the Brevard teachers.

There are now eleven teachers in the corp and the new building is found inadequate to the accommodation of the school, and an overflow school is being housed in the old building.

The schools are closed Thursday and Friday of this week for the usual Thanksgiving holidays.

Henry McCall, who recently underwent an operation on his throat at Stokes' hospital at Brevard, has returned home.

Mrs. Ethel Brown of Etowah spent Sunday with Mrs. C. V. Nicholson.

Miss Sophia McCall of Hendersonville spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. McCall.

Miss Jennie Gillespie is on the sick list.

Less Ray recently purchased a Ford.

ROSMAN ITEMS

Prof. J. E. Ockerman and wife spent last Saturday in Brevard.

Milas Galloway of Wolf Mountain was a visitor here last week.

Elias Curree was on the sick list last week.

J. E. White's little son is suffering with a sprained ankle.

After many weeks of illness, we are glad to see Mr. Earnest Paxton able to be on the streets again.

The baby girl of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Hawkins died here last week with sore throat. Her remains were carried back to their old home at Cashiers Valley for burial.

Rev. J. M. Owen of Jackson county will preach at the Baptist church here Saturday night and Sunday. Don't fail to hear him.

A lady in Montana, in writing a letter to our county paper in mid-summer stated in her letter that crops there were forced to ripen too soon on account of the drought. We were wonderfully blessed with local showers here during the summer months, but in early fall the late crops were forced to ripen too soon for the lack of rain. The dry weather has continued so long here that many of the beautiful mountain streams were almost completely dry. The millers who have been blessed with plenty of water for many years tell us that it is impossible to grind now. There are logs and rocks to be seen in the bed of French Broad River today that perhaps haven't been uncovered since the dry year of 1846, according to a statement heard by the writer.

We are always glad to hear from the missionary fields, especially those with whom we are personally acquainted. Miss Olive McNeal and Miss Sally Batham, who were with us last fall a year ago, report some interesting occurrences. There was some talk for a time changing these missionaries from their station with the enlightened native to another field of less enlightened. This change greatly concerned the natives of Mayasa station and they were very anxious to know if they were going to leave them, for they love those who first came to them and led them to the light. When the report came that the change was to be made the natives dropped their heads and as soon as possible hastened to their rooms to weep. At last word was brought back that no change would be made. How the natives rejoiced and took courage. The cry is great for more laborers who are willing to sacrifice for the Master's cause.

The driver ants and spotted leopards give the missionaries much trouble. One night a leopard caught and killed their watchdog, but God wonderfully blosses and protects His children in "Timne Land" Africa. They covet our earnest prayers, for God's blessing is upon them and their work.

SEMI-MONTHLY FARM NOTES

Weather
The weather of the past two weeks, ending November 18, has been fair and mild, with occasional showers in some localities, which have made fall plowing and seeding progress favorably. This work has been belated this season on account of dry weather in the early fall, and there is still much need of rain for seeding of small grains and further plowing.

Corn
The preliminary estimate for corn this year is 50,520,000 bushels, which is higher than that of the December estimate of 1921, but is not up to the five-year average. The yield per acre of 20 bushels is slightly above the average, while the quality of 84 per cent is one per cent lower than last year. Many ears of the late corn were not filled and light. Some weevil damage was reported.

Small grains show low yields and prices are correspondingly low. These crops, however, are raised on a small scale and have little effect on the general crop value for the state.

Tobacco
This year's tobacco crop is estimated at over 300,000,000 pounds, which is 50,000,000 pounds more than a year ago. The scales to date, as reported by the independent warehouse total 144,900,000 pounds. This is 41 percent more than the sales to the same date last year, but the market opened considerably earlier this year. The average price for the October warehouse sales was 30 cents, as compared with 31 cents a year ago. While the quality is generally better than last year, the yield per acre estimate of 590 pounds is below that of 1921. Prices are good.

Cotton
The forecast cotton production of 730,000 bales for North Carolina is evidence enough that the boll weevil has spread over practically all of this state's cotton belt. The weevil has ravaged even the northern counties of this state and also gone far into Virginia. Ninety-seven per cent of the total cotton area is weevil-infested. This means that this is our last good cotton year.

The total ginnings for the state is 577,094 bales, as compared with 581,807 at the same date last year. Johnson county leads the state with 41,825 running bales and Robeson runs second with 39,041. Scotland, Cleveland, Harnett, Stanly, Halifax, and Nash counties follow in the order named, all of which are over the 21,000 mark.

Truck
The fall crop of Irish potatoes is comparatively small. Early potatoes brought much better prices than at present. The heavy fall production of potatoes in other states has caused a slump in prices, and farmers wisely raised their heavy crop early in the season when prices were good.
