THE VOICE OF THE STONES

Stones speak. They have a voice, especially when they are memorials of great and noble deeds. Every where throughout the Allied countries, in England, Scotland, and Ireland, France, Belgium and Italy they have been dedicating memorials of the great World War, and our own country has been erecting monuments for the noble part she took in the battles of the giants. It is right and just that she should do so "Lest We Forget."

I am glad that Transylvania county in the Old North State has resolved to erect a memorial arch as a gateway to the Pisgah National Forest. It is a splendid thought. God give her grace and courage to carry it through. It will speak to the present and coming generations of those principles of freedom, justice, and humanity for which Americans live, and dare to die.

I am persuaded that whenever a member of the American Legion looks upon it he will hear it speaking to him of God and country, and bidding him uphold and defend the Constitution of the United States of America, maintain law and order, foster and perpetuate a one hundred per cent Americanism, preserve the memories and incidents of their association in the Great War, inculcate a sense of individual obligation to the community, state and nation, combat the autocracy of the classes and the masses; make right the master of might; promote peace and good will on earth; safeguard and transmit to posterity the principles of justice, freedom and democracy; consecrate and sanctify their devotion to mutual helpfulness.

"Hats off," so say we one and all, men, women and children and join with them in the one common duty of us all, to love our country, support its Constitution, obey its laws, respect its flag and defend it against all enemies.

C. D. C.

P. S. Would that every man, woman and child might have a share in the Memorial Arch.

DONE

"Done?" Yes, we finish our day's work and spend the remaining hours at what we think is rest. But come to think, our eyes work 12 to 18 hours every day and during that time there is never a stop or rest. A perfect pair of eyes is rare. Nature is seldom exact, so it is highly important, if you suspect your eyes need assistance, that a reliable optometrist be consulted—one whose knowledge, skill and experience are assurance of correctly fitted glasses.

Japan has an American spy scare. Tokyo police arrested an American on the charge of running a motor boat without a license, and incidentally searched his lodgings for incriminating documents. We didn't know we were so wicked.

It has also been previously demonstrated that when an interurban car and a locomotive dispute the possession of a grade crossing something unpleasant is likely to happen to the interurban car.

In undertaking to find out how and why Pullman cars are named, the Scientific American invades the realm of forbidden knowledge and lays its open to punishment for impious presumption.

An Illinois woman has won a prize for "America's best cookies," and newspaper account says they were the kind that mother used to make. No sense—the best cookies were the kind grandmother used to make.

While the great war cost more than 10,000,000 lives, all armies dealt more successfully than ever before with the problem of protecting themselves from contagious disease. The degree of success varied widely in different countries, and full details on some points are yet to be compiled; but enough is known to warrant that general statement. In our own Spanish war, for example, at least twenty men were killed by disease to every one claimed by hostile bullets and shells. Even the Russian and Serbian forces in the great struggle made a better record than that.

Why You Should See The Lumber Dealer First About Owning Your Own Home

It is a well-established fact that many homes which are "built to sell" are both poorly constructed and contain only the cheapest of materials. Consequently the layman who knows nothing or very little about materials or construction often does not get full value for his money when he buys a house which is already constructed.

It is often thought that the lumber dealer is merely a merchant whose business consists wholly of selling such materials as are required for construction work. Instead, he is a man with a thorough knowledge of and wide experience in all matters pertaining to building. He is the one man who renders, and is able to render, more real service without cost to builders and prospective builders than any other party or parties connected with the building industry. In the matter of homes—small homes especially—are his advice and service of special value to the builder. To consult a reliable lumber dealer about Owning Your Own Home is to insure yourself of getting the most and the best for the least money.

Many people who would like to build instead of buying hesitate in so doing because they believe that to build requires paying the entire cost at one time. This is not so. It is just as easy to finance the building of a home as it is to buy a ready built home on terms. We will gladly explain to any prospective home owner how easily the financing problem can be solved.
