"Dodson's Liver Tone" Straightens You Up Better Than Salivating, Dangerous Calomel and Doesn't Upset You—Don't Lose a Day's Work—Read Guarantee

You're bilious! Your liver is sluggish! You feel lazy, dizzy and all knocked out. Your head is dull, your tongue is coated, breath bad, stomach sour and bowels constipated. But don't take salivating calomel. It makes you sick; you may lose a day's work.

Calomel is mercury or quicksilver, which causes necrosis of the bones. Calomel crashes into your bile like dynamite, breaking it up. That's when you feel that awful nausea and cramping.

If you want to enjoy the nicest, gentlest liver and bowel cleansing you ever experienced just take a spoonful of harmless Dodson's Liver Tone tonight. Your druggist or dealer sells you a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone for a few cents under my personal money-back guarantee. Each spoonful will clean your sluggish liver better than a dose of nasty calomel and that it won't make you sick.

Dodson's Liver Tone is real liver medicine. You'll know it next morning because you will wake up feeling fine, your liver will be working, your headache and dizziness gone, your stomach will be sweet and your bowels regular. You will feel like working; you'll be cheerful; full of vigor and audacity.

Dodson's Liver Tone is entirely vegetable, therefore harmless and can not salivate. Give it to your children.

Panama Canal Zone Is a Little Sample of United States Transplanted

By COL. J. J. MORROW, Canal Zone Governor.

The Panama canal is a key position in the nation's defense and in development of international commerce. For the trade of the west coast of South America with Europe and the Atlantic seaboard of the United States, which is the bulk of the foreign trade of that section, the canal is practically the sole passageway. For the grain, lumber, salmon and fruits of the west coast of North America the canal affords easy transit to Europe as well as to the Atlantic coast of the United States and Canada. The trade with China, Japan and the rest of the Far East area, principally from the Atlantic coast of the United States, exceeds in bulk that over any other of the trade routes except the United States eastwise trade. These are natural and established trade routes; and they indicate a growing business of exchange in which the United States occupies a central position of advantage.

In the naval strategy of the United States the canal is invaluable. It permits the concentration of virtually all the power of the navy on either coast or at any point between—the Canal Zone in itself an important supply and repair base—and its rapid movement over any part of the coast line of the United States. In the broader field of influence the Panama canal is a key position for the United States.

All who pass through the canal or call at its terminals get a first-hand impression of American manufactured goods, of American equipment and methods, of American standards of living and of business. It is a thorough exhibit; and I am pleased to say that it has been an excellent exhibit. Our Canal Zone is a little sample of transplanted United States, as well as the site of great construction; and as such I believe it is having considerable influence in directing the people in the countries of the west coast, northern South America, and of Central America to looking toward the United States rather than Europe for leadership in progress.

In a practical way the requirements of our quarantine service have brought home to the neighboring countries the advantages of having ports sufficiently sanitary to allow ships coming from them to escape detention at the canal.

Water Power Developed and Undeveloped Totaling 54,000,000 Horsepower

By JOHN R. MILLER, Southern California Edison Company.

In the United States today there is water power developed and undeveloped amounting to 54,000,000 horse-power. Seventy per cent of this water power is west of the Mississippi, and of this 70%, 100% is in the Pacific Coast and Mountain States and 20% is in the three Pacific Coast states.

At the same time there is in the United States 111,200,000 horse-power in water power potential, but of this 65,000,000 horse-power is in hydro-power which should not perhaps be used in this analysis, or at least not all of it. Of the balance, 23,000,000 is used by public utilities and 23,000,000 by manufacturers, mines and quarries. Of this prime power power 10% is located east of the Mississippi and 90% west of the Mississippi.

Now, if water power were utilized for steam power, assuming a 20% efficiency of all of the equipment involved with a water power source, the 23,000,000 horse-power would be equivalent to 4,600,000 horse-power. This is a very small amount of power, especially when compared with the 111,200,000 horse-power potential of the United States.

"But I Think That Mr. Flynn Must Be a Thoroughbred and a Gentleman"

By R. WHITEHEAD, Letter in Value of People.

I don't know William S. Flynn, governor of Rhode Island. I don't know his politics. I do not think much of his politics, being myself a Republican.

But I think that Mr. Flynn must be a thoroughbred and a gentleman. In an interview he is quoted as saying: "I was not born with a silver spoon in my mouth. My father was only a peddler, but I was brought up to live a hard, useful life, to honor my father and mother, to be true to all men, to respect law and promote order, and I have tried to carry out these fundamentals."

Here at last is a man who gives to his parents some credit for his success. I am not a father myself or a mother, either. But I am weary of the public men who shirk to the four corners of the earth that they are self-made; that when almost infants they were obliged to get out and shift for themselves; that everything they have become is absolutely due to their own efforts. Did their fathers and mothers all die the day they were born? Have they no tenderness in their hearts, no consideration for the feelings of their old parents?

The Only Official in China Who Regards Himself as a Public Servant

By ROBERT GILBERT, in Asia Magazine.

Wu Peifu is a small man, very slight, with diminutive hands and feet, but as hard as nails and as acute as a cat. He has a narrow, well-shaped head, soft amber eyes, and the slightly aquiline features which are the mark in both China and Japan of the aristocrat. On the parade ground he is something of a martinet, but no one minds because he works as hard as any soldier. In his headquarters he is the most unassuming and in some respects unimpressive military officer in China.

He is probably the only public official in China who sincerely regards himself as a public servant. Having the power of a dictator he will not assume the functions. His plea invariably is that he has no right to interfere in such matters. He removes tyrants and creates opportunities for the people to call their parliaments or set up the officials they want, but he says he has no authority to do these things for them.

Once the fighting is over, his major ambition always seems to be to get into the most inconspicuous corner available and wait hopefully for the people to do the rest. Meanwhile the people are waiting for him to move, and the usual result is mutual disappointment.
