FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 2, 1923

Money talks, but in Russia it's usual talk.

Some of these round-the-world aviators must suffer terribly from tired feet.

It is not always the spooniest persons who make the most stirring remarks.

There's all the difference in the world between a stout woman and a fat one.

"Robespierre not a Trotsky."—Headline. No old Robie was a cheap piker beside Leon.

Germany is attempting to stop the sale of furs to outsiders, realizing that it is a cold world.

When a grass widow begins to pity a married man, the poor stomp is beginning to need it.

"Dodging automobiles is a healthful exercise," says a physician. "If you are successful in the dodging."

It must be delightful to drive an airplane straight ahead and not have to detour every ten miles.

Paderewski with a cold must be a very cautious statesman. If he sneezes he is quite apt to be misquoted.

The movement to limit the age of jokes can make a good start by limiting the jokes on women's ages.

Montreal is first in the field with a "No-Longer-Skirt League" to stick to current fashions. Line forms on this side.

The meek may inherit the earth, but the rent they now pay would indicate that they are buying it on the installment plan.

About the time a man begins to have some hazy notions on the income tax along comes the changes in the football rules.

Many fathers are complaining about the exorbitant prices for coal, but wait until they get the college boy's expenses for "books."

The perils which a motion picture actor faces for film purposes are largely artificial. The studio has its real personal dangers, nevertheless.

One trouble about golf is that a fellow always makes the best shots when playing alone, and nobody believes the tale he tells about them.

The king of Siam could hardly be called a chip off the old block; his father had 300 wives and he is just marrying at the age of forty-seven.

NOT GUILTY OF BEING "USED"

Naturally the Editor of a newspaper is only human and yet in spite of every precaution to eliminate cheap propaganda from their newspaper columns, occasionally some unscrupulous jay will put across what looks like a good news item and maybe misleading propaganda. It takes a mighty clever newspaper publisher to always be able to distinguish between an advertisement, propaganda or news. The Brevard News, under the present management, has never intentionally published any propaganda, misleading or otherwise. Nor are we at all interested in the career of any lawyer or his petty cases. We do print the news or as much as our limited vocabulary will permit and if someone accuses us of being some one's "puppy dog" or the mouthpiece for any corporations, rings, etc., he does the present editor an injustice and we can only plead not guilty and frankly say that we are not pulling anyone's "chestnuts out of the fire".

MR. SHIPMAN OPTIMISTIC

Thos. H. Shipman, who returned last Thursday from a ten days northern business trip, says a general revival in business conditions seems to be in progress all over the United States.

He further stated that from interviews with leading national financiers there seems to be a growing sentiment among the northern capitalists to invest vast sums in the Southern States. "There are many good reasons for this," says Mr. Shipman. "The forty-four hour work day adopted by many of the Northern skilled labor unions, the splendid all year round Southern climate, excellent working conditions and vast undeveloped resources together with the raw material are the main factors in this movement according to the banker.

"Tom" pointed out that the wonderful undeveloped water-power possibilities of Western North Carolina and especially in "The Land of Waterfalls" was attracting considerable interest by those who are interested in future power sites. He waxed enthusiastic in his predictions that we had a wonderful future in our country if we can locate and establish manufacturing industries here. He spoke in a very serious manner of the splendid opportunity the citizens of this community have if they will continue to stand shoulder to shoulder and work in harness for a greater country, and he deplored the fact that there were not, at the present time, a greater movement to inaugurate more power in order that we could speed up the location of greater annual weekly payrolls. He pointed out that cheap power was one of the greatest factors in establishing industries.

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Zachary wish to thank their many friends and neighbors for the kindness and sympathy and floral gifts during the illness and death of their little daughter.

Every minute of day and night, 32,334 letters are dropped into mailboxes. The total is 1,400,000 an hour. Small wonder, that a letter occasionally goes astray. Our destructive sense rages at these isolated delays. It rarely occurs to us to give credit for the vast majority that are delivered on time, for the constructive instinct has not yet conquered the destructive tendency in man's brain. Observing a few isolated cases, we accept them as applying generally—crime in particular.

TRANSLYVANIA MAN RECEIVES MUCH PRAISE

We find in a copy of a little publication "The Survey" featured on the front page a Brevard native son, W. J. Scruggs. Mr. Scruggs has made a mighty creditable record with The National Map organization during the past three years and he is going to be with them again this summer. He finishes the first two years in medical work at the University of North Carolina in June and is going to complete his education either at the University of Pennsylvania or Jefferson Medical College at Philadelphia.

Very truly yours,
 NATIONAL MAP COMPANY
 Fred Jones, Asst. Mgr.

HEALTH ARTICLE

There are at least 500,000 people in North Carolina who pass a large part of their lives in that twilight zone between being really well and recognizably sick. They are impaired in body and spirit by constipation and that miscellaneous group of ills usually designated indigestion. Intelligent people from the class in which they exist and elevate them to that group of the population which is really healthy and vigorous.

But these are only a small part of the population of the state who suffer from mistakes of diet. Of the large number who each year are sick abed, and of the nearly thirty thousand who annually die, certainly most are the victims of a system of faulty nutrition.

"You cannot maintain an AI nation with a C3 population," declared David Lloyd George, ex-premier of Great Britain. And you cannot raise the standard of the population without improving the diet. Here in North Carolina we are paying the penalty of having concentrated too heavily on meat and bread, and excluded milk and vegetables.

The human body needs three kinds of food: fuel food, building or repair food, and regulating food. It is very much like an automobile engine, to do the best work it must have the right mixture and the proper quantity.

Two essentials that must be present in the diet are a variety of mineral salts, as lime, iron and phosphorus and vitamins. These are found in abundance in milk and in the green vegetables which grow so readily in North Carolina soil. Tomatoes, cabbage, carrots, cauliflower, celery, lettuce, onions, parsnips, fresh peas, and both white and sweet potatoes, are all rich in vitamins, and in addition contain more, or less the important mineral salts that are so necessary to good health. Moreover, they contain these mineral salts in a readily assimilable form, prepared by Nature for human needs.

Bulky foods are also necessary in order that the digestive system may properly function, and the wastes of the body be eliminated. These are provided by the leafy vegetables, which therefore counteract constipation, giving adequate work to teeth, jaws, stomach and bowels.

The time spent in making a garden and producing for the family tables the various vegetables so easily grown in this State, whether it be on the farm or in the town, is a wise investment in the health of the family, and the "Live-at-Home" policy advocated for the farmers of North Carolina is not more important even from the economic standpoint than from the standpoint of health and physical efficiency.

Sincerely,
 W. J. WALLIS.

THE PRAYER CORNER

"THE DEMONSTRATIVE"

Love dies, or at least languishes without expression, and, however cold some may be constitutionally, they like to see the demonstrative, and the pulse quickens at the experience of some endearment.

What is needed in the home, in society, in religion is less of the self-contained and secretive life and more of the demonstrative. Christ Himself is not above desiring some manifestation of the deep devotion that may be burning in the human heart. The greatest of earth never outgrows a yearning for the affectionate.

This is illustrated in the case of Lord Nelson, the great English Admiral, when he received his mortal wound at Trafalgar, and when he was carried by viarines down below to die, though he knew he had triumphed and had thus justified the naming of his flag ship "The Victory," which still swings in Portsmouth harbor, he yet wanted to see Hardy, his chief subordinate, who, for a while, could not leave the deck where, under his direction, the historic sea fight was being fought to a finish, and England's supremacy on the ocean was being fully established.

But at last the dying hero was permitted to see the beloved Hardy, to hear from him of the victory completed, and there, ere his spirit took its flight, with a touch of nature which makes the whole world kin, he made that pathetic request at which many eyes have since moistened; namely, "Kiss me Hardy."

Amid a flood of emotions which the sturdy mariner could not repress the coveted caress of the lips was bestowed on the cheek and also on the forehead of the illustrious naval commander, who thereupon sank to his final rest like a child falling asleep after a mother's loving good night.

The captain of our salvation doubtless desires to receive from us some token of what our inner feeling toward Him may be. Impression should always be followed by expression.

A PRAYER

Our Blessed God and Father, we know that expression is a law of Christian life and growth, and therefore the Psalmist says: "Oh that men would praise the Lord for His Goodness."

We know we ought to praise Thee as well as one another, for that is something which even Thou dost crave, and hence the command. Let the redeemed of the Lord say so: "What we need in the home, in society and in church is less of the self-centered and secretive life, and more of the demonstrative." We know that Christ Himself is not above desiring some manifestation of the deep devotion that may be burning in our hearts. Oh Thou great Captain of our Salvation, Thou dost desire to receive from us some token of what our inner feelings towards Thee may be, even as the great English Admiral desired to receive from the beloved Hardy, a token of his love and affection. May we, too, fall asleep with Thy kiss of love and peace upon our lips. In Thy beloved name we ask it, Amen.

Overseers in an Eastern school have announced that gambling will warrant the dismissal of a student. It appears that no one ever worked his way through college waiting on a green baize table.

Chicago doctor claims that when people live together for years they begin to look alike. You've heard that before, but have you yet seen an aged couple that you couldn't tell apart?

Wholesale Human-Mutilation.

Forty thousand pairs of ears and 40,000 noses, the war trophies of that famous and painfully thorough Japanese General Hideyoshi, lie beneath the plain stone marker and grass-grown mound of the "Mimi-Zuka," or Ear tomb, a short distance from one of Kioto's main streets.

They were deposited there as evidence of the valor and success of Hideyoshi's expert carvers, and also to serve as emphatic warning of the fate all who crossed that determined warrior might expect.

The ears and noses are not, however, the bounty of any recent exploit. Hideyoshi was the strong man of Japan more than three centuries ago, and his gruesome trophies were once the valued property of 40,000 Koreans who had foolishly resisted the Japanese general's invasion of their native land.

If those pessimists who are bewailing the white-livered complexion of the times would think some original, progressive and constructive thoughts they might find the public gratifyingly appreciative.
