Foreign—

Mionetti Serrati, Italian, who went to Russia, to attend the meeting of the Third International Socialist deputy of the Italian parliament, and editor of Avanti, has been arrested in Rome, Italy, on a charge of conspiracy against the state.

Two sons of a Spanish nobleman, telegrams to London newspapers say, are gifted with "X-ray eyes." Tests have shown that the youths' abnormal vision enables them to read through silver, brass or iron.

Mustapha Kemal, speaking before the grand national assembly of Turkey, made the statement that the issue of peace was up to the allies, who, he said, had only to recognize Turkish judicial and economic independence.

Ambassador Harvey's reference to the Balfour note in his address at the Pilgrims' dinner called forth an anonymous communication to the London Times recalling with great deference and with all respect to his excellency the statement printed in the Times on August 26, last.

The struggle of wills in the Ruhr centers on the issue of taxation. Following announcement by the German government that all goods upon which taxes had been paid to the French and Belgians would be confiscated by the civil authorities, the situation is very tense.

A mine explosion outside the Roman Catholic cathedral at Dublin, Ireland, during a mission service, caused many women in the congregation to faint. The building was not damaged and no one was hurt.

The universal suffrage bill was defeated in the lower Japanese house of the diet after Premier Kato said that the government had under consideration the extension of the franchise.

The visit of Francis J. Lowe, secretary of the American organization of Friends of the Irish Free State, who is in Dublin on a mission of peace and trade, and who predicts peace by St. Patrick's Day, was commented upon favorably by the Freeman's Journal at Dublin.

An "Island paradise" into which the occupants of the eternal flight cannot enter, is disclosed by the results of the Okinawa Islands. It is the island of Hahaione, in the mouth of Stromboli harbor, and the total number of inhabitants is five, seven and nine. Other islands in the group offer less competition.

Washington—

The appropriation of $1,000,000 by the relief bill, which has been added to the 4 billion dollar appropriation bill by the senate appropriations committee.

The Wilson cabinet, that soldiers were executed in France without the necessity of a trial was denounced, the committee appointed to investigate reported unanimously. This ends the matter.

The connected nomination of Walter L. Cohen, negro Republican leader of Louisiana, to be customs comptroller at New Orleans, was finally denied when the senate rejected the president's nomination.

President Harding has complied with the senate's request for more information concerning the administration's plans for entering the permanent court of international justice at The Hague, set up under the league of nations. He informed the senate that the United States has no intention of entering the court on a basis of compulsory arbitration of all international disputes, that he contemplates no negotiations with other powers in this regard.

Selection of Postmaster General Work to succeed Albert Fall as secretary of the interior, and of Senator Harry S. New, of Indiana, to become postmaster general, was announced at the White House.

Dr. W. M. Burton of Chicago, president of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, branded as false and wholly untruthful charges of price-fixing made against the company in testimony before the senate manufacturer's subcommittee on inquiry.

Choice between a republic and a free state by plebiscite of the Irish people was recently demanded by the national conference of the American Association for the Recognition of the Irish Republic on threat of a nationwide boycott on British products and insurance.

Senator John Sharp Williams of Mississippi, who retires voluntarily from a long public service career March 4, called on the president and told him he would not say goodbye, as he might come to Washington again some time.

Representative W. Bourke Cockran, Democrat, who had represented a New York City district in the house for many years, and who was internationally known for his oratorical abilities, died as the result of a stroke of apoplexy. He was born in Ireland and was educated in France and the United States.

Dispatches from Manila, P. I., say that murder and suicide with the woman as the dominant role had replaced a suicide pact as the police theory of the deaths of George Baldwin, actor of New York and San Francisco, and Mrs. Ann B. Schlessinger, middle-aged stenographer. Mrs. Schlessinger was known to have bought a bottle of poison just previous to the death of the actor and the woman.

America appears to be losing its sweet tooth. During 1921 confectionery to the value of $312,958,000 was manufactured in the United States, according to figures announced by the census bureau. This represents a decrease of 30 per cent compared with 1919. It is more than twice the amount, however, manufactured in 1911. During 1921 there were 2,254 establishments devoted exclusively to the manufacture of confections, having an annual output of $5,000 or more. This represents a decrease of nearly 200 per cent compared with 1919.

Producers of Pennsylvania anthracite are netting an average profit of $1.60 per ton at present wholesale prices, according to estimates placed before the federal coal committee by a United Workers' committee and made public.

Domestic—

Payson Smith of Boston, state commissioner of education in Massachusetts, was elected head of the department of superintendence, National Education Association, at the election, held at the annual convention of the association in Cleveland, Ohio.

Merton D. Hill, Chicago millionaire, who defeated Mrs. Winnifred Mason Duck for the Republican nomination for the congressional vacancy left by the late James R. Mann, has discovered that Mrs. Hill has only begun to fight. She declares that her victorious opponent spent far more than $5,000, the amount the law allows him to spend for congressman, and that she will contest the election.

Edwin J. Troy, 48 years old, former secretary of the chamber of commerce of Mobile, Ala., shot and killed himself at his home in St. Louis, Mo. He left a note to his wife saying his notion was due to failing health.

Two women and a man were killed at Philadelphia when an automobile, traveling at a high rate of speed, crashed into them as they were alighting from a trolley car in West Philadelphia. Twenty minutes later Henry G. Brock, millionaire, was found four blocks from the scene of the accident standing beside a blood-spattered motor car, weeping against a wall. He was arrested in connection with the accident.

Gadwall and shoveler, waterfowl, are in the plumage of the fall season. Edwin J. Troy, 48 years old, former secretary of the chamber of commerce of Mobile, Ala., shot and killed himself at his home in St. Louis, Mo. He left a note to his wife saying his notion was due to failing health.

Mrs. Grace Gordon, who says she is the wife of a former world champion pugilist, is in jail in New York City, voluntarily declaring she would ask the federal court to send her to the federal prison in Atlanta in order that she might be cured of the narcotic habit.

The Civil liner Loraine, Captain Kemble, enroute to Charleston, S. C., from New York City, with 150 passengers, collided in the North river, New York, with the Southern freighter, El Sud, inbound from Galveston, Texas. Both vessels were badly damaged, but were able to reach their piers unassisted.

A world conference on education in which more than four hundred million school children will be represented has been called by the National Educational Association to be held in San Francisco and Oakland, Calif., June 28 to July 2, the executive committee of the department of superintendence of the association announces.

Acting District Attorney Deor went before the New York City grand jury the other day, with the request that William H. Anderson, state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of New York, be indicted on a charge of grand larceny, and presented as his first witness the Rev. Dr. George Cahill Moor, secretary, and Bertram H. Fancher, treasurer of the league. Mr. Anderson, having refused to waive immunity, will not appear before the grand jury.

The charges of conspiracy to obstruct the recruiting of military forces against Victor Berger of Milwaukee, and the three defendants convicted with him three years ago, were dismissed in Chicago, the other day, by Judge James H. Wilkerson.

His greatest victory, after years of effort, in setting aside military regulations, which previously had permitted only bare mention of a soldier's wife on his monument, will not be carried on the monument of Capt. Otto Andree Nesmith, A. S. A., retired, who died recently.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

MARY GRAHAM BONNER

SERGEANT STARLING SPEAKS

"Now Starling Sisters and Brothers and Cousins, listen to what I have to say," said Sergeant Starling. "General Sparrow told his family the other day to be sure that they didn't let us get ahead of them. They want to be the worst fighters and the worst birds. But, ah, they're going to be second-worst for all of that. We will get the better of them. In the long run we always have."

Sergeant Starling closed his long yellow bill, gave a funny jerk to his short tail and raised his long black and green wings.

"We're better looking than they are," he continued. "We have purples and green in our glossy black feathers, and our ladies wear white spots as their own fashion. And we're a good deal larger than they are. We, too, will eat anything, we will stand any climate. Little starlings pop out of the eggs in six or seven weeks every four or five months. That is splendid, for it means that so many little starlings are constantly coming into the world."

"Some people say they cannot make up their minds whether we do more harm than good. And when I say 'some people' I mean people who make a study of birds."

"There are people who make a study of birds, who talk about birds and lecture about birds, and who know all we do. They watch us and find us interesting."

"I don't blame them in the least. I should think people would like to study birds, and how we nest and how you nest and what we eat and how we sleep, and what we do in the winter time."

"There are so many different kinds of birds and we do such different things."

"It is interesting in the first place by its own kind of people. There are lots of different kinds of birds and they do different things in different ways."

"As I was saying, people who study all about birds have a study up their noses which is made of feathers and is called a beak. I suppose they will decide it for themselves one of these days."

"That is the nicest thing about people to me in seeing that we can matter to our own way. A great help to us is the fact that there are so many of us."

"With all the little starlings coming out of the eggs we train them to be good starting children and there are huge colonies of starlings almost everywhere now."

"Just think! Six little starlings at a time and, too, the mother starlings watch over three broods a year—or at the least two."

"People have not decided whether they like us or not as I've told you. But no matter, we're a clever lot. We can whistle so that we sound like people and they'll turn around to see who was whistling. How that does make us laugh! And then we gurgle and they wonder what sort of a sound that is. We can't, too, we're smart!"

Sergeant Starling raised his head high. "So with our cleverness and our fine powers of winning any good scrap if we're given a long enough time—we will win over the sparrows. And if we're not given a long enough time, we can always take a long enough time."

As the Sergeant was talking along rushed Fire Chief Starling. He had been so named because he had always said that should there be a fire he would remember that he was the chief of one to be saved.

"Starling!" he cried, "the sparrows who built their nest under one of the eaves of a house, had an accident to their nest. They had all left the nest some time before but it had become very dry and a spark from a bottle below went up and caught fire and almost made a big fire in the people's house."

"Gracious!" said Sergeant Starling. "You bring important news, Fire Chief. We must build a nest under some eaves and then leave it to dry so it may some day help start a fire."

"Let us not allow the Sparrows to get ahead of us," the Starlings all shouted. "Let us take from them their right to boast of being the worst. The second worst for them!"
