THE PRAYER CORNER

SPEAKING AT HOME

How do we speak at home? Are we tenderly affectioned one to another? Some are all sweetness and grace only toward those outside of the domestic circle. The yard obliging as the day is long—towards neighbors and friends in whose presence they permit no outbursts of passion. Socially they are very genial. So far as the general public is concerned, they are agreeable enough.

But follow them into the household and their words do not flow smoothly. They snap up at those who stand in nearest relations to them and they are anything but gentle and considerate in the family. They explode with anger, if things do not move to suit their whims. They storm away at a great rate if anything goes wrong, at every little annoyance. Probably they often have grounds of provocation, but even they they should in increasingly learn to possess the soul in patience.

To be a Christian is to be pleasant in the home, is to refrain from violent speech there, and from is quite as bad, namely, an incessant nagging a persistent prodding.

We cannot think of the Master for ever irritating and unnecessarily assailing those He loved. He did sometimes reprove, as He did the nervous Martha who once made her self so disagreeable and occasionally He broke forth into real indignation and gave the scathing rebukes, but He was never what we term peevish. He was not a petty false leader. His general disposition was amiability itself. He went about not fretting and fuming, but doing good. That should be our prevailing temper. "Kindness."

A PRAYER

O God, Heavenly Father, we pray Thee by Thy Fatherhood, teach the hearts of parents. Give them wisdom and patience. Help them to know what to grant and what to deny. Deliver them alike from foolish fondness and from aimless harshness. Through the memory of Thy love give them such an understanding heart, a may shun all partiality and may discover and foster every seed of goodness. Make them glad to cooperate with all means of education and growth which State and church provide.

Help them humbly and surrender their children to the claims of life in the service of their fellowmen. May their love to their children be the power by which young men and women made strong. Their own child likeness may they be to their children the way to Thy Everlasting Kingdom, through Jesus Christ, our Lord and Saviour.

TO WILLIAM A. BAND, EDITOR BREVARD NEWS, BREVARD, N. C.

Dear Sir: I wish you could publish in the columns of your paper the following statement of exoneration:

I understand that from some source there has been a slander of my name and reputation, in that certain malicious persons have wilfully and intentionally made false statements and accusations against me by saying that I have been in the habit of "bootlegging" or selling whiskey in Transylvania county, North Carolina. I want to state first that this is a malicious lie. I care not from what source it comes. During my brief stay in Transylvania county, extending over a time of two years, I have never sold or offered to sell any whiskey in any quantity to anybody, and that I look with contempt and with disgust upon such flimsy flounderings on the part of persons, organizations, corporations or anything or anybody else who would discuss such subject regarding me or anybody else in public or private conference. If any person or persons or any organization in Transylvania county or in any other county knows what they are talking about, I defy them to do that I term their duty, by presenting to a Grand Jury of the Court that meets in a few days, a bill and ask that the Grand Jury act thereon. I would not be so cowardly, if I were a man, to hide behind skirts to make such accusation. If I were going to spread slander, I would spread it from man to man and not cause the same to be mixed up with women's organizations.

I realize the unpopular attitude that it places me in, to have to enter into a newspaper controversy, but I am a poor man, and I have no other way in which to express my sentiment to the people among whom I live.

Sincerely,
D. H. GILLILAND

Will the Spring Rains Catch You With a Leaky Roof?

"April showers bring May flowers"—and trouble for the man with a leaky roof!

Possibly your roof is O. K.—tight as a drum—but to just "guess so" may cost you heavily when the first hard rain comes. Why not be sure.

It won't cost anything to give your roof the "once over"—to find out exactly what shape it's in—and finding out RIGHT NOW may save you considerable expense a little later on. New plaster and wall paper do cost money, you know.

If you find that you need to make a few repairs or need a new roof, we'll be glad to have you come to us for information and prices. We do know a good bit about roofs, and what we know is yours for the asking. We carry a complete line of roofing materials, and furnish, without charge, estimates of the cost of re-roofing or making repairs.

P. S.—Speaking of Spring rains reminds us that hand-in-hand with wet weather comes MUD! And mud usually means tracks through the house and more work for mother. How about that walk you've been going to build? If you'd like to know more about CEMENT for cement walks and how much it will "set you back" we'll be glad to have you ask us. Come in or phone us!
