

CITIZENS MUST LOOK AHEAD

Advice Given to Kansas City Men Applicable to Every Town in the United States.

A city ought to be willing to look at least as far into the future as real estate men do when they draft the terms of a 99-year lease. Charles Moore, the art arbiter of Washington, D. C., said in a short talk before the closing session of the Kansas City realtors' conference.

"A city like Kansas City is master of its own fate," he continued. "The European monarchs of old did some wonderful things for themselves. We are our own masters and can do what we have a mind to."

Mr. Moore urged Kansas City to do something big, to get beyond "small plans."

"Any plans we make, our sons and grandsons will find too small," he explained. "Yes, and before you die you will find your biggest plan not big enough."

"And don't look over your shoulder," he advised. "Always there is a great deal more to do than you can do in a lifetime. Look ahead, not backwards, and you won't be downcast at the progress."

The Home Fires.

Mark Twain said that a bed was the most dangerous place to be, since more persons died in bed than elsewhere. Recent surveys have developed that the whole house is a dangerous place. A man's house is his castle, perhaps, but 836 of these "castles" are going up in smoke on this one day in the United States, according to statistics compiled by an insurance company. That number of homes burn on every working day of the year. More than 65 per cent of the fires in the United States originate in residences, and 10,000 of the 15,000 persons who lost their lives in fires last year died in residence fires.

Leasing and Character.

The most highly moral way for you to live and for your children to grow up is to own your own home. Moving every year or every few years is disorganizing, wasteful, demoralizing. Work toward owning your own home and no matter how simple it may be, it will have dignity. A homestead gives character, backbone, individuality. In it develop our strongest and best impressions. It serves as many different kinds of an anchor in peaceful times as well as in stormy ones.

Record Gold Nuggets.

The largest gold nugget ever found came from Chile, weighed more than 400 pounds troy, and was worth nearly $100,000. The second largest, weighing 224 pounds, was mined in Ballarat, Australia, in 1850. The third largest was picked up at Carson Hill, Calaveras county, Calif., in 1854. It was a lump about 15 inches long, 6 wide and 4 thick, weighed 195 pounds troy, and brought more than $43,000.

French Ravine, Sierra county, Calif., was a perfect nest of big nuggets. A $5,000 one was found there in 1850, an $8,000 one in 1851 and a $10,000 one in 1855—thus proving that in mining lightning sometimes does strike more than once in the same place.

Male Deer Shed Horns Each Year.

All male deer, known as stags, bucks or harts, have solid, branching horns, or antlers, which they shed each year. Excepting reindeer, female deer, also called blinds or does, do not bear antlers, nor do the young, which are known as fawns. Antlers are outgrowths from bone and are at first very sensitive, being covered with flesh and velvety skin. When the antlers are fully developed the skin dries and is removed by rubbing against trees, leaving bare bones.
