ment Once a Year, and Call It Gamalmennasamsati. -----What a word! Translated it means "old people's party"—an institu tion that is held once a year round Christmas in the little fishing town of Isafjord in Iceland. The party, which is given by a union of (2) young people, is the one big event in the lives of the old people of the place. The, begin to talk about it in March, and it is their chief topic of conversation until December. Early in the year, too, the 90 members of the union begin to make preparations, for, as there are to be between 360 and 460 old people, much preliminary work is necessary. For example, the young men and woulen must see that good "party" clothes are provided for all the old people who need them; it would net do for them to go in shabby clothes. The party must have an air of prosperity as well as good cheer. The festival starts at five o'clock institutions of in the evening and does not close until on the following morning. First there is a big tea. Then when all are satisfied and things have been cleared away comes a play, which the old pcople dearly love; then there is a concars, during which all the old Icelandic and Danish songs are sung. After the ME concert the young men and women. play games with the oid people, and then wind up with all the old-fashioned dances. And they must see that each old person has at least one dance with ! some member of the union.

> During the war the old people would often ask anxiously; "Will there be a party this year?" For they realized, that it was almost impossible to get fruit of any kind or the sugar with which to make the great variety of little cakes of which the old people as are so fond. "Oh, yes," was the cus tomary answer, "the party will take place at the usual time." And it did, for the 90 young members devied themselves sugar and fruit so that the old Youth's Companien.
