HEART BEATS AFTER DEATH

Throbs for Forty Minutes When Shock Illness Is Fatal to California Girl.

Bellevue, Cal.—Upon examining a girl who died, her physicians, who declare the girl's heart beat for 40 minutes after she was pronounced dead, an autopsy will be performed on the body of Miss Betty McQuinn, fifteen years old... (text continues)

Six-Foot Snake Defies Traffic "Cop" Now York—A six-foot snake was killed when it refused to stop for a traffic policeman. Traffic was suspended when the reptile appeared. Wounded one man. Men rushed from cars. Motorists leaped from cars. The police man took his club and beat it to death. The snake was white with green stripes.

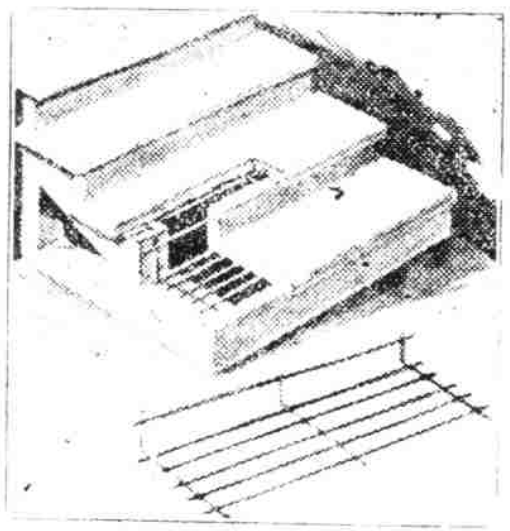

If two people in England agree to a subtle pact and only one dies, the survivor can be convicted of murder. So rules the court of criminal appeal in London. It's a fair decision. As the court puts it, "the survivor is guilty of murder because he maligned and abetted the other person to take his life. He limited the crime of murder." Here the discussion bounds into hypnotism.

Petrograd now has 200,000 unemployed. It used to have 2,000,000. The survivors are ragged and hungry. City owners in Russia in recent years have been good to the land—owners.

CONCRETE STEPS IN UNITS

Idea Has Been Found to Give Excellent Results, Both as to Looks and Durability.

Reinforced-concrete steps are now being manufactured in units that may be joined in such a manner as to produce a continuous surface.

Reinforced-Concrete Steps Which Are Manufactured in Units, Showing How the Round Iron Rods Are Placed in the Product.

sent an appearance of a solid flight of stairs when completed. Even unit consists of a tread and a riser above it. The steps are reinforced by one-fourth-inch round iron rods, and while constructed strong enough to meet any ordinary requirements, are so light that they may be easily handled by two men. A gritty granite surface is used which makes them practically slip-proof and, at the same time, a careful curing process renders them sufficiently hard to resist abrasion, thus giving the product additional wearing qualities.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

FATAL DISEASE OF TURKEYS

First Symptom of Blackhead Is Slowness of Movement—Poulters Need Clean Quarters.

The first symptom of that fatal disease of turkeys, blackhead, is slowness of movement. A poult coming down with this disease will show symptoms in the early stages, but he will come trudging in after the rest of the poults have come in to roost just first just a few feet behind, gradually getting further and further in the rear of the housecoming poults, until finally the evening comes when he stops by the wayside.

When the first lagging is seen, shut the poult up, give him only sour milk to eat, and give a dose of copper salts. He can have all the chopped nettles, dandelions or onions he will eat, but that is all. The droppings of infected poults should be buried. Poults will not thrive if fed where there is the filth of other poultry. Keep them clean—that is, free from lice and mites, feed them clean food on a clean board or trough, and give them drinking water that has not been fouled.

POULTRY NOTES

The hen that lays 150 eggs a year is doing very good work.

Winter eggs should be the constant object of poultry flock owners.

It is not so much what is fed as how it is given that brings results.

Frozen combs are a good sign of poor ventilation in the henhouse. It's not so much the cold as the humidity.

Chickens that are sick or unwell and doing poorly should be culled out at all times. The spindle-necked, long-headed, shallow-bodied pullets should be eliminated as soon as they are covered.

Use one male bird to every ten or fifteen hens of the heavier breeds, and one to every fifteen or twenty lighter hens to give good fertility.

Wyandottes have a standard weight of 8 1/2 pounds for cocks; 6 1/2 pounds for hens; 7 1/2 pounds for cockerels and 5 1/2 pounds for the pullets.

Geese generally mate in pairs, but occasionally where you have two or three ganders you can work in an extra goose and find that the egg will be fertile; otherwise not.

"Art is bunk," says a learned college professor. We think he has been misquoted. The great truth he must have meant to enunciate is that bunk is an art.

Is Laziness keeping You in the clutch of the Landlord

As Mr. Kibler says in the above clipping: "Some people regard a home as a drag and so make the trouble involved an excuse for continued rent paying."

If you are one of those people, you are letting laziness keep you in the clutch of the landlord—letting it rob you of several hundred dollars a year, not to mention the peace, pleasure and comfort found only in a Home of Your Own!

Any home owner will tell you, as does Mr. Kibler, that planning one's home is the beginning of a great adventure.

Are you going to miss out on one of the most pleasurable experiences of life merely to avoid going to a little trouble—trouble that really isn't trouble at all? Are you going to let people say of you: "He's a blamed lazy and slow to own a home of his own."

After you think it over we don't believe you will. We believe that you will want to begin at once to plan a home of your own.

We cordially invite you to come to our place of business and, with no obligation, talk over with us
