ROUND ABOUT THE WORLD

A Condensed Record Of Happenings Of Interest From All Points Of The World

Foreign

The Soviet (Russia) central executive council has decided to suspend the issuance of paper money.

An Anglo-Turk war in the Near East has been averted by the decision of the two countries to accept a temporary league of nations adjustment of the difficulties over the boundary between Iraq and Turkey.

Former Premier Stanley Baldwin and the Conservative party have been returned to power in the British empire, and election returns so far indicate that Baldwin has an adequate majority with which to control the house of commons as soon as they accomplish the perfunctory business of voting Premier Ramsey MacDonald and the Laborites out of office.

All arrangements for the new international French loan have been completed, says the Paris Le Journal. The loan will be issued from November 12 to December 10 in slices of five hundred million francs.

President Obregon probably will be minister of war in the cabinet of President-elect Calles, it is authoritatively stated in the City of Mexico.

Mrs. H. F. Davison, formerly Miss Anne Stillman, was set upon and severely injured by Estimo dogs belonging to her mother, Mrs. James O. Stillman, at Grand Anse, Canada.

When Giuseppe Serifini, youngest of the four Hochelaga, Canada, bank bandits, hanged at Montreal recently, walked to the scaffold, three slender steel saws were carried in the sole of his left shoe.

It is announced in Paris that Edouard Herriot's Socialist French government has recognized the union of Socialist Soviet republics and for the first time since Kerensky was thrown out of Petrograd there will be normal relationships between France and the territory formerly ruled by the czar.

Washington

Another wartime leader was laid to rest in Arlington National cemetery when the body of Major General William G. Haan, who commanded the Thirty-Second division in France, was interred with full military honors.

The largest cotton area in thirty-two years in India is indicated in a cablegram received by the department of agriculture from the Indian department of statistics which gives the area planted to October 1 to be 21,785,000 acres.

Secretary Daniels' famous pre-prohibition "bone dry navy" order is to be modified by Secretary Wilbur—but only to an extent which will permit thirty gobs to partake of soda pop aboard ship.

A study of the flight of the Shenandoah to the West Coast and return is expected by President Coolidge to furnish information upon which may be based a final decision as to a flight by the air cruiser to the North Pole.

Secretary Mellon appealed to the American people in a radio address at Washington to stick to "well tried economic principles" in solving their problems.

Funeral services for Henry C. Wallace, secretary of agriculture, were held in the east room of the white house and the body, in care of members of the family and close personal friends, was taken back to Des Moines, Iowa.

The finding of two $5,000 United States gold bonds in a woman's glove in a rooming house at Washington gave the house banking and currency committee of charges of duplication of treasury securities.

Attorney General Stone in a formal ruling has advised Secretary of the Navy Wilbur that he is authorized under the law to grant licenses for the use of German radio patents seized during the war by the government and held by the navy department.

Domestic

"Barney" Oldfield, former star of the automobile race tracks, under his true name of Vorna El Oldfield, brought suit for divorce against his wife, Rebecca, at Los Angeles.

Eight defendants, who were to leave Mobile, Ala., to begin terms in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta after being convicted of conspiring to violate the national prohibition law last spring have been given a respite for another 30 days.

Apprehension at Minneapolis, Minn., of William Klatte, alias William Allen, who has been sought throughout the country for more than eight years in connection with a murder at White Plains, N. Y., January 15, 1916, was disclosed by Floyd B. Gibson, county attorney.

E. R. Wise, Pawnee county deputy sheriff, and Frank Mohan, city marshal of Jennings, were wounded in a gun fight with four bandits who robbed the First National bank of Jennings, Okla., of approximately $3,500.

Imports of gold into the United States in September, totaling $6,600,000, were the smallest since February, 1920, according to the monthly review of the Federal Reserve bank of New York. Exports increased to $4,600,000.

Gasoline containing tetra-ethyl, the mysterious "looney gas" compound, no longer may be sold in New York city. The board of health adopted a resolution prohibiting its sale after the death of the fifth of the 33 laborers affected by the fumes while experimenting with the mixture in the Bayway, N. J., laboratories of the Standard Oil company.

Counsel for the government accused Chicago packers of attempting to restrain competition in the hog market by eliminating Chicago traders.

"One was killed here." As gentle reminders to motorists that Chicago's steel toll is too high, big blue signs with these words inscribed will be placed on lampposts throughout Chicago wherever traffic fatalities have occurred.

The death toll from the "looney gas" poisoning of workers in the research laboratory of the Bayway, N. J., plant of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, has been increased to 39 by the death of William Kregge, 49 years old, of Elizabeth, N. J., in Reconstruction hospital, in New York City.

Commercial organizations in Fargo, Grand Ford, Bismarck and Mandan, all in North Dakota, have sent telegrams to Coolidge urging the appointment of John Lee Coulter, president of the North Dakota agricultural college, as secretary of agriculture to succeed Henry C. Wallace.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Patterson of Lynchburg, Va., told a jury in the federal court in New York City that detectives entered their room at night in the Atsor hotel and questioned them as to whether they were married and were awarded $3,500 damages.

G. Harold Gilpatrick, former state treasurer and cashier of the First National bank of Putnam, Conn., occupied a cell in the New Haven county jail, awaiting transportation to a state federal penitentiary, having been convicted of embezzlement.

Directors of the Nickel Plate railroad at Cleveland declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1 1/2 per cent on both common and preferred stock for the last quarter of 1921, both payable on January 2, to stock of record November 15.

Two masked men the other afternoon in New Orleans held up a bank in the residential section of the city and escaped with $12,000.

The body of Hughie Halligan, 27, who, in company with several friends, left his father's home, Baxley, Ga., one day recently, has been found face downward in a ditch near that city, following his disappearance.

Gen. B. W. Haldeman, 78, commander-in-chief of the United Confederate Veterans, wearing the honors of long active years, answered the final roll call at Louisville, Ky., recently, and has gone to rejoin those comrades in gray whose cause he had served since it first called him, a boy of 16, from his school books.

DON'T ALWAYS DROP PEARLS OF WISDOM

Commonplace Ideas Issue From Lips of the Great.

The words of famous personages, addressed to mere ordinary mortals or overheard by them, naturally are remembered, though they are often in themselves comically unworthy of remembrance. Authors and orators, even those who are most impressively capable of what Scott called "doing the big bow-wow" in print or on great occasions, must often descend to small talk—sometimes indeed to talk quite microscopically unimportant.

"I understand, Mrs. Underwood," said Mr. Clay, "that you are the mother of seven children."

"I want to tell you something very important," said Mr. Clay. "I want to impress on you that when a child has washed his face it is most important that in order to strengthen the sight the eyes should be wiped toward the nose."

A group of young girls standing near the main staircase at a reception attended by Daniel Webster—so one of them related in her old age—saw the great man, with his thunderous brows drawn above his deep-set dark eyes, slowly make his way down from the dressing rooms and speak to his hostess. They listened breathlessly for memorable words.

"Mrs. X," he said, "it is very dim at the turn of the upper hall, and I have just stepped on something there. There were others pressing forward from behind me, and I did not pause; but it must have been, from the sensation I experienced as my foot descended upon it, either a lady's muff or a cat. If it was a cat, I trust its demise will not grieve you deeply."

Fortunately, it proved to be only a muff; but half a dozen girls for the rest of their lives could not recall the impressive figure of Webster to mind without seeing a cat under his foot—like St. George stepping on the squirming dragon in old prints, as the narrator put it.

At her first dinner party, when she was only fifteen years old, an English girl, Louisa Courtenay, who lived well into her nineties, was seated near Wordsworth and next to Southey. She was of course eagerly attentive, awaiting the high discourse of the two poets. Wordsworth ate solemnly and did not talk at all; Southey, too, addressed himself gravely and exclusively to his roast mutton.

"Young lady," said Southey, "I am glad to see that you appreciate laver. Give me some."

She did so, "and he relapsed into a silence that remained unbroken till the end of the meal."—Youth's Companion.

Modern Lochinvar

Young Lochinvar came out of the West. As he spun along the road he laughed, thinking how astounded the wedding guests would be when he dashed into the church and made off with the bride.

As he entered the street wherein stood the church he noted that it was still early, and he was glad that he had given himself a safe margin in the church, and then at the right moment spring forward and seize the bride.

But the ceremony ended with the usual kisses and tears, and the bride and groom departed for the station amid the customary shower of shoes and rice, and Lochinvar had not put in an appearance.

A few minutes after the sexton had locked the doors of the church Lochinvar came running up, breathless and perspiring.

He had just found a place to park.—Life.

"Busy" Line Told Secret

In Budapest, as elsewhere, a telephone operator sometimes plugs a call through on an occupied line. Generally one hangs up. But Stephen Zosaka, a high city official in Budapest, didn't for he was calling his wife, says the Kansas City Star.

Half an hour later Koszaka found Colonel Valerain and killed him. Koszaka gave himself up to the police.

"Talkless Phone" for Deaf

One of the most recent devices for use in communication between deaf mutes is a "talkless phone" that conveys messages by means of an alphabet printed on electric light bulbs.

THE BIG WASH

"We are so cordial," said one of the two washtubs.

"We welcome a big wash," said the first wash tub.

"We have fun when there is a big wash," said the second wash tub.

"And we like all the activity and fun of having the clothes moved about as they come in to accept our invitation to join the Big Washing Party."

"Dear me, what a big wash!" "She doesn't seem to like it so much. But still we can't help being cordial, you know."

"Now and again she seems to be very busy over other things, and a week goes by when no washing is done at all."

"My, my, what an enormous wash, what a simply huge wash!" "Well, you know we feel that as long as we did no entertaining the week before, we should surely make up for it the following week."

"Gracious, but I didn't realize the wash was as big as all this. It just seems as though I couldn't get through."

"And the joke of it is, that as she is ironing and as she is saying this, the playful soiled clothes are being joined by other playful soiled clothes for the next week's wash."

"It is a great joke." "A great joke," said the second wash tub.

The two washtubs then sang their wash tub song:

Wash tub one, Wash tub two, Oh, what splendid work we do. We keep the clothes so nice and clean, We are always cordial, We're never mean.

Wash tub one, Wash tub two, Soapy wash tubs, Clothes love you. They come along And splashily sing With you this song Where Soap is king.

That to see you Dressing up They needn't do. They come along Just as they are, With dirt and spots From near and far.

But you don't mind How dirty they seem, You welcome them With your soap-sud cream. Oh, wash tub one And wash tub two, You will always Always do.

The two washtubs did not sing now. They took a little rest, for soon another big wash would be coming along and the washtubs were going to be fresh and ready for their party.

And no matter what anyone said about the big wash, the two washtubs liked it, for what would they do with themselves if there weren't big washes?

Washtubs would have little fun in life if clothes were always clean!

What has one leg, wears a hat, and has no face? A mushroom.

What runs and cannot walk, can whistle but cannot talk? A locomotive.

Why is a butcher's cart like his socks? Because he carries his calves there.

When is a fish like an airplane? When it rises for a fly.

What is always behind time? The works of a clock.

What is the least valuable thing a man can have in his pocket? A hole.

Lesson for November 9

THE FEEDING OF THE FIVE THOUSAND

LESSON TEXT—John 6:1-15. GOLDEN TEXT—I am the bread of life.—John 6:36.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Feeds Hungry People. JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus Feeds Five Thousand. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Christ Meeting Human Needs. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—How Jesus Saves.

In the previous chapter, Jesus showed Himself to be the source of life. He here proves Himself to be the sustainer of life.

I. Jesus' Compassion for the Multitude (vv. 1-5. cf. Matt. 14:14). The sight of the crowd always incited the Lord's sympathy. He knew that they were as shepherdless sheep (Mark 6:34). They were going forth with no one to care for them. Besides, they were ignorant, so much so that they had no appreciation of Him. Added to this, was their awful physical hunger. This condition roused the Saviour's pity. This is true of the multitude today. The crowd surges about us daily as shepherdless sheep. There is no one to care for them. Then, too, they are ignorant. Sin has so thoroughly blinded them that they are not conscious of their lost condition. Down deep in their hearts is a hunger for truth and God. The millions of earth are hungering for Christ, though ignorant of their real needs.

II. The Lord's Conference With the Disciples Touching the People's Need (5-9). This was not done for His benefit, for He knew what He would do (v. 6). He is equal to any occasion. His object in this conference may be summed up as follows:

1. To teach them their sense of obligation to the multitude. Men are slow to recognize their obligation to the great shepherdless multitude. We need to be taught the wonderful truth that God has made man His partner in the salvation of the world. We are workers together with God (II Cor. 8:1). It is a most solemn obligation to co-operate with Him in saving the millions who are groping in darkness.

2. To teach them their true helplessness in the face of such great needs. The loaves and fishes were as nothing in the presence of five thousand men besides women and children. Well might Andrew exclaim, "What are these among so many?" We may plant and water, but the increase comes entirely from God.

3. To teach them that their sufficiency is from the Lord. The mission worker needs to know that Christ is the only source of supply. Without Him we can do nothing (John 15:1-8). We can no more carry on the work ourselves than the branch can bear fruit without the vine. The branch supplies the life and strength for the production of fruit. Phillip's arithmetic is of no use in the face of such need. The Lord Jesus has all power.

III. The Lord's Method of Accomplishing His Work (vv. 10-13). We observe here the orderliness of Christ's work. He pauses to give thanks for their scanty supply, teaching us that we should always bring our abilities and gifts to God, that He might bless them to His use.

1. The Lord's part was to bless and break the bread; yea, even to create the needed supply. This part the disciples could not perform. The Lord must begin the work. The same kind of bread was provided for all, rich and poor, young and old, women and children.

2. The disciples' part was to distribute that which He had blessed and consecrated. This is true of the missionary today. His part is to take from the hands of the Lord that which He has blessed and consecrated, and distribute it among the starving multitudes. We are not responsible for the supply; but we are responsible for its distribution to all those who are hungering and perishing for the bread of life.

3. The people's part was to sit down and eat. They had no part in the provision, neither its distribution; but only to take from the hands of the disciples and eat. This is an illustration of the part obedience plays in our salvation. "When all had eaten to the full, much was left," illustrating the superabundance of Christ's salvation.

IV. The Effect (v. 14). The people recognized Him at once as the Prophet who should come. They believed Him for His works' sake.

Must Tread the Path

Wanted to Shoot

In connection with a tournament at San Diego substantial prizes were offered for the best trapshooters. The mischievous printer, however, didn't care for "t" as long as he could "c." As result all the crack trap shooters from Tia Juana are said to have invaded San Diego in a body in order to grapple the substantial awards to be made in their class. They were visibly disappointed when they found that the shooting had to be done with a shotgun. A crack shooter may carry a pistol, but he doesn't use it to scatter his ivorys. In the presence of a shotgun he is dumb.—Los Angeles Times.

Why America Must Have More Paved Highways

Almost every section of the United States is confronted by a traffic problem. Month by month this problem is becoming more and more serious.

Hundreds of cars pass a given point every hour on many of our state and county roads. Downtown city streets are jammed with traffic.

Think, too, how narrow many of our roads are, and how comparatively few paved highways there are in proportion to the steadily increasing number of cars.

If the motor vehicle is to continue giving the economic service of which it is capable, we must have more concrete highways and widen those near large centers of population.

Every citizen should discuss highway needs of his community with his local authorities. Your highway officials will do their part if given your support.

Why postpone meeting this pressing need? An early start means early relief.
