GET BROILERS READY EARLY MARKET

One of the main things for livestock and poultry producers in North Carolina to learn is the time to market. For instance, broilers were sold in carlot shipments for fifty cents per pound at the door last April. At that time the agents of the Agricultural Extension Service cooperating with the State Division of Markets received 45 cents per pound for broilers in carlots.

Next March and April, this poultry will probably be selling for 60 to 65 cents per pound and livestock specialists say that some of us will be wishing for broilers to sell. Some counties are now preparing to take advantage of this market and arranging to ship a full car of broilers about the first of April. Marketing specialists state that a full car of broilers at fifty cents per pound will bring in not less than $6,000.

This amount of money counted out to farmers at one time for poultry in early April is not idle dream, says V. W. Lewis, livestock marketing specialist. There are some counties where many cars of broilers could be shipped in early spring. If we are to continue to boast of our great climate it is time our livestock and po-producers took advantage of climate and realized its worth them in advantages over those tions where competition is so in so far as cheapness of pro-is concerned.

To take advantage producers must
