FARM NEWS

By L. A. AMMON
Those selling garden and truck seeds and plants tell me that there is no unusual demand for same, except cabbage. That hardly looks like feeding the expected crowd this summer. A little more on everyones part will help win the favor of many who want only fresh vegetables. Let's do this one thing and lord it over Hendersonville and Asheville.

Heard of a few seed potatoes in Gloucester, and one small batch on Little River. Let's put out more of this crop, as the surplus can be sold farther south at good prices. Looks like $2 per bushel in August.

G. M. Garren, of Biltmore, now State corn specialist, says that the best all-round time to plant corn is when the dogwood is in bloom. A case where our Experiment Stations have found the farmers were right. Plant with the bursting of white oak buds is good in some parts of the country.

Chicken Truck Thursday. Prices about the same. Do not expect the prices on hens to last much longer, as the Jewish festivities last only through this month.

If you are interested in poultry, you will do well to attend the night school offered by Mr. Glazener, at the High School each Friday night.

Practical discussion among the class will be one big feature of the night school. Come learn, and swap experiences.

Soy bean orders will go off Saturday. See me or Clyde Ashworth by that time. We are afraid to order many extras, because of the present state of mind. Few definite orders are in as yet.

Fruit is safe so far, and chances look good, as it is warming up without a frost in most parts of the county. Rain saved the day, and gave moisture for harrowing and for the seed to go in later.

From the looks of apple blooms now, the second spray can be started about Friday. Three to four pounds of lime-sulphur to fifty gallons of water, and if you wish to kill lice add one teaspoon of black-leaf 40 to each gallon of water, and one bar of melted soap will help make the whole spray stick longer.

This spray should be aimed at the young unopened blooms, and not so much at the body of the tree. Some trees will be in slight bloom while others will not be near blooming, so all you can do is to hit midway. Be light in spraying the open trees as you will kill many bees, and that is against the setting of fruit, and the man who has bees.

Our big need as I see it is for more truck and broiler chickens, that we may feed our visitors in a royaux fashion this summer.

PLANS DISCUSSED FOR ERECTION OF $350,000 HOTEL

Several of the business men of Brevard met Tuesday night to discuss the tentative plans for a $350,000.00 hotel for Brevard. The result of the meeting was that a corporation should be formed and that work be started at once to secure the erection of a hotel at an early date.

It is expected that ground will be broken inside of 30 days and that the hotel will be completed during this season. The proposed hotel, which will involve expenditure of $350,000.00, is to be owned and operated by Brevard people. The company will be entirely controlled by local men, and officers of the corporation will be announced in the next issue of the News.

The details of the organization, finance, construction, etc., have been placed under the direction of Mr. Thomas A. Montmeny, whose credentials were thoroughly gone into and approved at this meeting. Mr. Montmeny has a record for accomplishments in similar matters that will assure the successful completion of this project.

Mr. Montmeny was formerly assistant manager of the Mizner Development corporation, developers of Boca Raton, the outstanding development in Florida; he was general superintendent in charge of the construction of the Daily News Tower in Miami; developer of an 80 acre tract that was purchased for one million dollars and successfully developed.

Following is the copy of a letter from the Ocean City Bank of Delray, Fla., in regards to Mr. Montmeny.

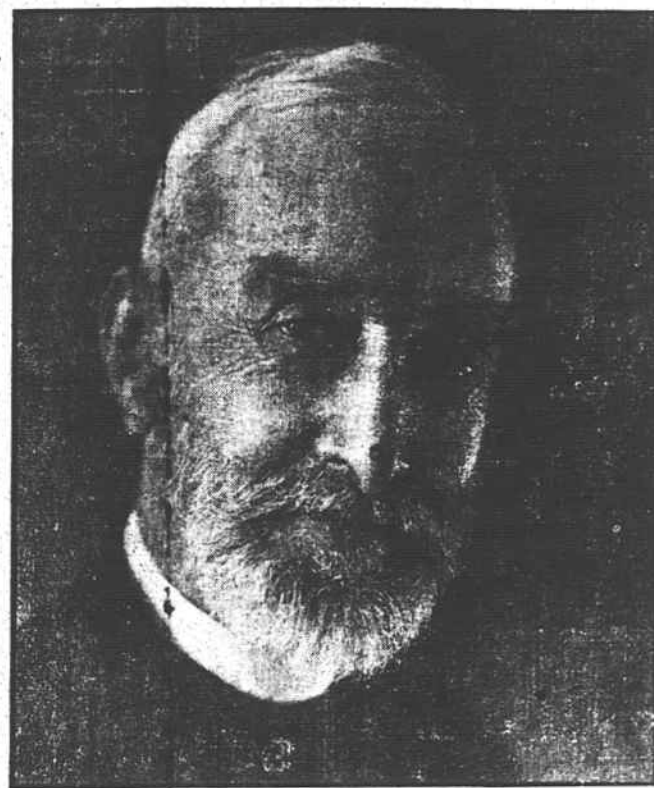

Dear Sir:

Replying to your letter of March 31st, asking for information on Thos. A. Montmeny:—

Mr. Montmeny has been a valued customer of ours for the past year, during which time his business has been conducted in a thoroughly satisfactory and business-like manner.

Within the last six months, the Thos. A. Montmeny Organization (continued on editorial page)

H. J. WILLIAMS GETS AIRPLANE SAFETY DEVICE PATENTED

H. J. Williams, of Brevard, has secured patent rights for a safety landing device for airplanes, which practically eliminates danger of crashes caused by engine trouble or loss of control while flying.

The device is fashioned after a parachute, which lies flat on the top wing of the plane while not in use. In case of forced landing, the safety device can be placed in use automatically, permitting the plane to descend at a minimum speed.

All advantages of the "thick wing" is given, it is claimed, without infringing on other patent rights.

Mr. Williams has spent five years in perfecting his invention, two and one-half years of which were spent in the U. S. Air service. It was during his service with Uncle Sam, during the world war that Mr. Williams first conceived the idea of a safety landing attachment, following a near fatal "spill" experienced by him.

It is the intention of Mr. Williams to sell his patent rights; a number of creditable offers have already been received by him for the patent rights.

BETTER HOMES WEEK WILL BE SPONSORED BY WOMANS BUREAU

The national Better Homes Week will be sponsored in Brevard by the local Woman's Bureau during the week of April 25-May 1, with Mrs. Oliver Orr as general chairman of the movement.

The demonstration house will be the center of interest during the Better Homes week. This house will be a small residence loaned for the week, and will be planned and furnished for a family of modest means, illustrating the best that a community can offer in home comfort, convenience, and beauty at a cost within the reach of families in moderate circumstances. The house to be used for this purpose will be loaned by the Brevard Home Builders, and its exact location will be stated at an early date.

Various chairmen of committees and subcommittees have been appointed, all of whom are busily engaged in making extensive preparations for the successful accomplishment of the various phases of the movement to be included in the week's program. The various committees and chairmen include the following: Better Homes chairman, Mrs. Oliver Orr; program, W. E. Breeze; demonstration house, C. C. Yongue; equipment and furnishing, Mrs. O. L. Erwin; finance, L. P. Hamlin; reception committee, Mrs. J. S. Silversteen; business manager, W. H. Alexander; publicity, Miss Alma Trowbridge.

THE PRAYER CORNER

HUMILITY AND GENTLENESS

In the Epistle to the Ephesians, the greatest of his epistles, St. Paul conducts us to the highest vantage ground from which moral man has ever surveyed the panorama of life and the purpose of the ages. The first half of the epistle is occupied with the heavenly standing of the members of Christ. The second half consists of detailed instructions in regard to the way in which they ought to conduct themselves in the fulfillment of earthly relationships, and in their dealings with the world. We are left in no sort of doubt as to the character and temper which they are found to exhibit.

"I beseech you," he writes, "walk worthy of the vocation wherewith you are called, with all lowliness and meekness, with long-suffering, forbearing one another in love. Let all bitterness, and wrath, and anger and clamour, and evil speaking, be put away from you, with all malice; and be ye kind, one to another, tender hearted, forgiving one another, even as God also in Christ hath forgiven you; submitting yourselves one to another in the fear of God."

In short, he tells us—for his words apply to the Christians of all time—that we ought to cultivate humility and gentleness, dispositions which are clean contrary to the ordinary habits of men, but which are the unmistakable marks of the new type of behaviour that christianity has introduced into the world.

But this is not all. There was yet another injunction of very great importance. Humility and gentleness will not suffice by themselves. They may be sadly wronged, if it can be supposed that they are in any way to be associated with feebleness. There was need to rescue Christianity from the suspicion that it is not a religion and a rule of life for able men.

It had to be made plain, that "gentleness in manner" is by no means incompatible with "firm in the act." Accordingly it ought not to surprise us that the Apostle should have added to his other counsels this: "Finally be strong." (Of this, I will speak in the next Prayer Corner.)

A PRAYER FOR HUMILITY AND GENTLENESS

O Thou most gracious and merciful God, Who hast not dealt with us after our sins nor rewarded us according to our iniquities, Thou hast shown us in Thy Holy Word, by Thy blessed Apostle, St. Paul, how we ought to conduct ourselves in the fulfillment of our earthly relationships, and in our dealing with the world. We are left in no sort of doubt as to the character and temper which we are found to exhibit:

Give us grace to follow the counsels Thou has given him for all thy children in Christ Jesus. "To walk worthy of the vocation wherewith we are called, with all lowliness and meekness, with long-suffering, forbearing one another in love. Let all bitterness, and wrath, and anger, and clamour, with all malice, and help us to be kind to one another, tenderhearted, forgiving one another, even as God also in Christ hath forgiven us, submitting ourselves one to another in the fear of God."

Bring home to our hearts the truth of these words of St. Paul, and grant us strength to show them for in ourselves as we ought to do, by cultivating humility and gentleness, dispositions which we know are clean contrary to the ordinary habits of men, but which are the unmistakable marks of the new type of behaviour that Christianity has introduced into the world. And this we ask in the name of Him, who is our Pattern and Example in all things, Christ Jesus, our Lord, Amen.
