BREVARD INSTITUTE NEWS

The play given last Thursday night by the Junior Class was a success in every way. It was one of the best plays we have ever had, each member of the cast giving a most creditable performance. Especial credit should be given to Miss Beard and Mr. Ader for coaching the play.

On Friday afternoon we were delighted with a lecture recital, which Mr. and Mrs. Simons so kindly gave as a compliment to the Institute students and faculty.

A large number of students were away for the Easter holidays. Those who remained at school seemed to have a happy time.

There was a special Easter service at Sunday School, and after church Miss Clark had a fine chicken dinner waiting for us.

Mr. and Mrs. Boucher left Friday or Lewisport, Ky. Mr. Boucher will soon return, leaving Mrs. Boucher and small daughter, Mary Ann, for a visit with relatives.

We are happy to welcome a new student, Miss Marguerite Garrison of Atlanta, Ga. Also glad to see Eleanor Barker, a last year's graduate, here for a visit.

The baseball season has opened up with much enthusiasm. We are looking forward to many good games.

SPRING

The spring is coming very soon, And oh! the flowers will be in bloom, And all the birds return to sing To keep us happy all the spring.

The forget-me-nots will be so blue, So shiny as the morning dew, And all the children shout with joys, It brings good cheer to girls and boys.

The Oriole will hang her nest Where other birds will never rest, She will sing and tell us all the day, She is not going to fly away.

If all the people loved the spring as I do,

I am sure they would always be true, And every one would have a part In spring I love with all my heart.

RED CROSS CHAPTERS STRENGTHEN FORCES FOR DISASTER RELIEF

Launch National Campaign to Perfect Preparedness Plans in Every Community.

A nation-wide campaign to strengthen plans for preparedness against disaster and for emergency relief has been launched by the American Red Cross through its Chapters. The program is intended to perfect disaster preparedness committees in the ten thousand communities reached by Red Cross Chapters and their branches.

When carried out, through committees of men and women in the communities, it will insure that should a disaster come, an organization for emergency relief, including every modern method science has perfected—such as the radio, the airplane, the motor car and watercraft—can be mobilized to bring assistance, with the promptitude applied by the Red Cross in recent major disasters, such as the West Indies hurricane and the Mississippi Valley flood.

These enlarged and strengthened plans for disaster relief are set forth in the revised Red Cross manual, "When Disaster Strikes," which has been placed in the hands of every Red Cross chairman throughout the nation. The plan to encourage adoption of these added disaster preparedness methods was begun at this time because Red Cross records—covering 48 years of disaster relief—show that the period of the greatest number of disasters, large and small, ranges from the early Spring through the early Fall.

The Record of 48 Years

A historical summary of Red Cross disaster relief since 1882, shows that the society was active in giving relief in 938 domestic disasters and its expenditures in those relief operations were $49,594,000. The three groups of calamities appearing most frequently were: cyclones, tornadoes, hurricanes and other storms, 231; fires, 131; floods, 126.

During this period, the Red Cross also has given assistance to distressed peoples of other countries in 153 disasters. Total expenditures for relief at home and throughout the world, in 48 years, amount to $77,354,000.

In the four most recent major disasters, among the greatest which have ever visited the American continent, Red Cross expenditures for relief totalled $29,188,908. Only in the event of large disasters such as the Florida hurricane of 1926, the Mississippi Valley flood of 1927, the New England flood of the same fall, and the West Indies hurricane of 1928, does the Red Cross seek contributions from the general public for relief work; and frequently these are not ample, as in the four disasters listed, the Red Cross donated $1,338,201 from its own treasury to aid in the work. In the event of smaller disasters, the cost of the relief is met largely from Red Cross resources.

No Community Immune

No community is immune to great disasters of one type or another, the manual shows. One preparedness measure that can be adopted is a survey of the surrounding country, with the assistance of engineers and other experts to determine the type of disaster to which the section is subject. Hazards resulting from the presence of rivers and lakes, subject to overflow, of mines, munition factories, and other industries wherein dangers from explosion and fires may exist, are singled out for consideration.

Extension of existing disaster organizations in communities, and organization of men and women, trained in public health and community service, will result in the saving of lives and the prevention of extensive suffering, through privation, epidemic and other misfortune, should emergency arise through disaster. These organization plans, outlined in the manual, are similar to those now existing in most Red Cross Chapters, only strengthened in some particulars. They contemplate disaster preparedness and relief committees, under which function sub-committees on food, clothing, shelter, medical aid, registration of disaster sufferers and information service, transportation and communication and finance. Co-ordination of all of the societies, organized groups and institutions in the locality is urged, so that all effort for emergency relief will be directed without conflict. Trained in advance, these committees can swing into action, and provide an orderly and systematic relief organization.

The following are expenditures made by the American National Red Cross for relief in the four most recent major disasters:

Florida hurricane, 1926	$4,477,170.07
Mississippi Valley flood, 1927	17,498,902.16
New England flood, 1927	1,299,773.98
West Indies hurricane, 1928	5,913,062.47
Total	$29,188,908.68

EGERTON SAYS FISHING IS FINE IN FLORIDA

B. T. Egerton, who has been spending the winter at Orange Lake, Fla., writes friends that he has spent a most enjoyable winter in the Florida city, but that the Southern heat will soon be driving him back to the mountains of Western Carolina. Mr. Egerton states that he has enjoyed immensely fishing in the Sunshine City, and that on a recent occasion he caught 44 fish in one day. Friends of Mr. Egerton will be glad to know that he intends to return to Transylvania County any time after the 22nd of this month.

S. S. CLASS IN SPECIAL BUSINESS SESSION

The regular business meeting of Miss Armstrong's Sunday school class was held Friday afternoon at the home of the president, Miss Annetta McClure. After the business was finished an hour of games was enjoyed. At the end of this time the hostess assisted by her mother, Miss La Verne Whitmire and little Miss Betty McClure served delightful refreshments.

LLOYD ALLISON TAKING MANY HONORS AT SCHOOL

Lloyd Allison, who is in his senior year at Weaver College, Weaverville, is making good in that institution and taking an important part in the various activities of the school. He has been made president of the Delphian Literary society, is one of the inter-collegiate debaters, takes an active part in the college prayer meetings and the religious life of the school, and holds high grades in all of his studies.

Isaac M. Hamet

Mr. Isaac M. Hamet, aged 61 years, died Tuesday at his home at Enon, following an illness of about a week. Funeral services were held at the residence at 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, conducted by Rev. Wallace Hartsell, pastor of the Brevard Baptist Church. Burial took place in the cemetery nearby.

Mr. Hamet was a native of Henderson county but has made his home in Transylvania county for a long period of years. He has been a member of the Enon Baptist church for the past 14 years, and was a well known and highly respected citizen of the community.

Surviving are his wife and one daughter, Mrs. Sula Cox, besides two sisters and four brothers.

REIDS COME HERE TO MAKE THEIR HOME IN THE FUTURE

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel M. Reid, for many years residents in Washington, D. C., have arrived in Brevard, and will make their home here in the future. Mr. Reid is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elijah D. Reid, of Oakland. Mrs. Reid is a native of Kentucky, having married Mr. Reid in Washington nearly five years ago.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Reid have been in government service in Washington, and are building them a new home at Oakland, where they will live until Mr. Reid takes a long rest and fully recuperates.

BARCLAYS RETURN TO HOME AT CHESTNUT HILL FARM

Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Barclay and family have returned to their summer home, Chestnut Hill Farm, after spending the winter months at Albemarle Park, Asheville.

MARS HILL COLLEGE IS MAKING FINE RECORD

An enviable position in the state has been won by the Mars Hill Dramatic club, and it has been invited recently to become a member of the National Honor Dramatic club.

On Saturday night this club will present a one-act play, "The Other Kitty," in Asheville in the elimination contest of the state dramatic work, in competition with Asheville Junior College. The winning college will later compete with the winners of the Salem-N. C. W. contest, and this meet will decide the cast to be presented in Raleigh.

Of local interest in this club is the fact that Miss Roberta Bryant, of Brevard, is one of its members and will be one of the participants in the play to be presented Saturday night.
