WASTE IN THIS COUNTY TREMENDOUS, SAYS JONES.

Prof. Jones, as he is known kinshiply, Professor Jones as he is known professionally, caused members of the Kiwanis club to scratch their old bald pates last Thursday at the club meeting. The professor was the speaker of the day, and being the school man that he is, spoke on matters pertaining to the schools.

Wasted energy in Transylvania county constitutes a tremendous loss, Professor Jones said, "not referring to our streams that rush down the mountainsides toward gulf and sea, and the loss sustained there in the unharnessed energy going to waste day by day. But I am referring to a still greater waste—that of the wasted energy of our school children."

Professor Jones then told of how the average school boy can stand no more than six hours a day of close application to study. Counting eight hours for sleep, that leaves 10 hours in every twenty-four for the boy to be wasting. There ought to be, according to Professor Jones, some place in which the boys could find part-time work, that they might be further training themselves in usefulness and at the same time be earning something with which to pay some of the expenses incident to their schooling.

This cannot be done overnight. The board of the county would tackle the problem, Prof. Jones believes that a plan could be worked out whereby such places could be provided for the boys and young men of the county.

It is a challenge to the men. Wonder if anything will ever be done about it.

ONE THING THAT ALL PEOPLE CAN HELP ALONG.

Harkless Barton, in charge of the County Home, is making effort to beautify the grounds about that place. It is a most worthy ambition that prompts Mr. Barton in this work, and should appeal to all good citizens. Mr. Barton is asking all who would help in this matter to bring any surplus shrubbery, bulbs, or any kind of flowers that can be transplanted, and in this manner the grounds about the County Home can be made attractive.

And why shouldn't these grounds be made attractive?

It is true that most of us look upon the "poor house" simply as a place in which to hide those men and women who have reached the end of the way, and have nothing upon which to live and no one upon whom to depend. It is hard enough for men and women who once were strong with the strength of youth, buoyed on by hope, crossing the meridian of life midst a storm of disappointments and failures, only to come to old age as charges upon the county, to be admitted to the county home. They sit there day after day, living in a world that is gone, thinking over the mistakes that brought them to the end of the journey in poverty and rags.

Beautification of the grounds about them would add much to their lives. In the cases that bloom in the spring time, these old people could live over again the days when a rosebud meant love and hope and happiness. Planting of trailing vines about the county home would bring back to those inmates the days when they sat in a vine-covered nook, and listened to the first sweet story of love, as whispered to them in the stillness of evening. In every flower and shrub and vine that can be planted about that county home there would be endless messages to the inmates, now broken and aged, of the days when the world looked bright and rosy to them.

Let's all help Mr. Barton in this fine work.

TOBACCO AS A MONEY CROP IN THIS STATE.

The tobacco crop in North Carolina last year brought to the farmers the huge sum of $99,921,600. That is an average of almost one million dollars for each of the one hundred counties in the state. Transylvania county received not one penny from tobacco, simply because none was grown here.

Every man in the county who knows soil, and knows tobacco growing, says this county will produce just as good tobacco as can be grown in the state. Why, then, is this county passing up a million dollar cash crop.

Use of tobacco is on a rapid increase. Everybody, his wife, children, mother-in-law and the cook, are smoking now, speaking broadly. There is no indication, therefore, that the use of tobacco will decrease, but, on the other hand, will continue to increase as more and more women take to smoking.

With these facts before the farmers of Transylvania county, why is there any hesitancy in raising the weed here?

There's a cool million dollars for the farmers of Transylvania county, if they will but grow the crop.

SEVERAL THINGS PROVEN BY NEWS WANT ADS.

We often express the belief that classified advertising in The Brevard News brings more results, and quicker results, for the money expended than any other form of advertising in the whole world. So many, many times have great results been obtained from these little 25-cent want ads that we repeat our assertion—there is nothing that brings greater returns on 25 cents invested than that of the want ads in this paper.

Last week a gentleman advertised that he had lost a sum of money in an envelope, and asked the finder to return same to The Brevard News. The paper went into the mails Thursday morning. Thursday afternoon two fine young ladies walked into the office and said they had found a sum of money, and if the advertiser could describe his loss, and the description tallied with their find, he could have his money.

The gentleman was called to the office. After introductions he said: "I lost an envelope containing $27.19, and"

"That is all you need say," broke in the young lady. "I have your $27.19. I found it in front of the postoffice, and have been awaiting the publication of The Brevard News, believing the loser would advertise for his money."

There you are. Doesn't that prove the value of advertising in these columns?

It proves another thing. It proves that people are honest. Cuss this flapper-age and pleasure-mad generation all you may want, the fact remains that most people are honest, and want to do the right thing.

If you have something to sell—if you want to purchase any particular thing—if you want to exchange something you have for something else—just try one of the go-getters, these result-producers, these magnetic want ads in The Brevard News. Just costs a quarter.

So we hope the good work will go on.

PISGAH BANK POPULAR DURING PAST WEEKS.

The Pisgah Industrial Bank, one of the popular institutions of the town, was the center of attraction for small borrowers during the past several weeks while taxes were being paid. Hundreds of citizens borrowed money with which to pay their taxes, and are now paying it back weekly or monthly. It is estimated that the Pisgah Bank was the means of saving a large part of property of the county being sold for taxes.

The Pisgah Industrial Bank has an unusually strong board of directors, and as their loans are made only to those people who have at least two good endorsers on their notes, gives the bank fine protection. The bank makes loans on the plan of repayment by the week or by the month, running over a year's time, thereby helping the borrower to get caught up on his obligations.

In addition to the loans, the bank pays five per cent on time deposits, does a general insurance business, and is really filling a great place in the life of the community.

GLAZENER'S CLASS MAKING PROGRESS

(By J. A. GLAZENER)
The agricultural department of the Brevard High school has an enrollment of fifty boys this year. Of this number twenty-three are in the eighth grade, nine in the ninth grade, eleven in the tenth grade and seven in the eleventh grade.

Last week these boys were asked to give a written answer to the following question: "If you were going to farming in this county what farm enterprises would you develop?" Hogs, dairy cattle, beef cattle, poultry and truck with sufficient feeds and pastures for the stock was their united reply. Take it for what it is worth, but don't lose sight of the effect it will have on the progress of this county when sufficient numbers can put into practice the splendid vision they now hold.

The Visit of Dr. Branch

The outstanding event of this week in school affairs has been the visit of Dr. Ernest A. Branch, Director of Oral Hygiene in the State Board of Health. Dr. Branch's visit had been preceded by the splendid work done by that very fine young man, Dr. Pringle, State Dentist, who gave the county over three thousand dollars' worth of free dental treatment of school children, and whose work had to be curtailed by the lack of more funds. He treated nearly 500 in all; it had been planned for him to reach every school, but the funds gave out before that could be done.

Dr. Branch spent two days here—one at Rosman and one at Brevard, lecturing on the care of the mouth and teeth. He proved to be one of the finest public lecturers that ever visited the county. He was particularly happy in his talks to young people—plain, simple, direct, able to entertain and interest at the same time, of a good platform presence, well-poised and with a voice easily heard in any hall. He is also an artist with his fingers—making quick and accurate drawings to illustrate his theme.

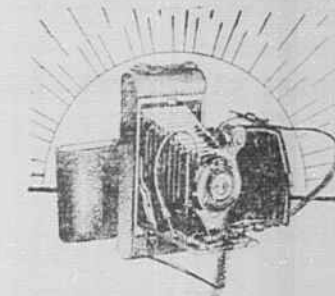

Dr. Branch showed the children how much danger there is in mouth infections poisoning the whole body. He traced the development of tooth decay through its several stages from a crack in an abcess with graphic clearness. He was listened to by the large audience with absorbed attention.

It is a pity that the visit of such an unusual man as Dr. Branch could not be preceded by adequate publicity so that our people might know what to expect and turn out in large numbers to hear him. There is so much gush and gabble turned loose on our platforms these days that when a man able to treat popularly a theme of such vital importance—a matter of life and death very often—can be heard here, we ought to know about it in advance and prepare our plans according.
