The Brevard Wednesday club met Wednesday, November 27, at the residence of Mrs. A. H. Harris.

The program was in charge of Mrs. O. L. Erwin, on the subject, "Civic Sports, or Sports from the Commercialized Spandpoint." Mrs. W. E. Breese read an article on the Olympic Games, from Harper's Magazine.

About fifty books were donated to the rural circulating library, in charge of Mrs. S. P. Verner.

BREVARD MUSIC LOVERS CLUB

The Music Lovers club met at the home of Mrs. J. M. Tatum, Monday evening, with Mrs. J. B. Picklesimer as joint hostess. The subject presented was Italian folk music. Miss Eva Call and Mrs. J. F. Winton both read articles.

The Italians are among the most talented and music loving people of the world. Unlike many other nationalities, the masses of ignorant and otherwise uncultured people, know and sing readily selections from the greatest compositions. For this reason it is difficult to draw a line between folk music and that of known composers. In the early days of the church the Gregorian chants were taken by the people and fitted to new words. In later years popular airs from opera were treated in a like manner.

"Santa Lucia," "O Sole Mio," and "Finiculi-Finicula," although not true folk songs, are among the most popular and widely sung in Italy. Mrs. Winton sang "O Sole Mio" and directed the singing of the other two by the club. Mr. Alvin Moore sang "Ticky, Ticky, Tack."

The business meeting centered around the general activities of the club after Christmas. Various members volunteered to help in the selling of health seals.

After the meeting the hostesses served a delicious salad plate. Poinsettia seals and mint cups emphasized the Christmas note in the decorations.

MRS. JOSEPH S. SILVERSTEEN ENTERTAINS AT BRIDGE

A delightful social event of the Thanksgiving season was a bridge party given by Mrs. Joseph S. Silversteen Tuesday afternoon, entertaining at the Pierce-Moore Hotel with eight tables of bridge and sixteen tea guests arriving at the conclusion of the games.

A color motif of green and yellow was carried out effectively in the room decorations, in the tally cards, the candy favors and refreshments, in all of which the chrysanthemum note was cleverly predominant.

Delightful prizes were given at each of the eight tables to the following: Mrs. H. N. Carrier, Mrs. Bates Patton, Mrs. David G. Ward, Mrs. A. H. Harris, Mrs. Walter Duckworth, Mrs. Patton Kimzey, Mrs. W. J. Wallis, Mrs. H. C. Ranson. An honor guest gift was presented to Mrs. Julia Shackner, and a tea guest gift was drawn by Miss Alma Trowbridge.

A delicious course luncheon was served at the conclusion of the games.
