BROOKS-BERNARD VOWS ARE GIVEN

Of interest to this community was the wedding of Miss Ruth Naomi Brooks, daughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. Whitfield Brooks of Brevard, and Dr. Grover C. Bernard of Hamptonville, which was solemnized Wednesday afternoon, June 25, 4:30 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Fleming Brooks, on West Sixth avenue, Hendersonville.

The ceremony was performed in the living room before a beautifully improvised altar of ferns, hydrangea and rhododendron. Rev. Walter H. Goodman, pastor of the Presbyterian church of Kannapolis, officiated, using the ring ceremony. There were no attendants.

The bride is the youngest sister of J. F. and G. W. Brooks, of Hendersonville, and L. M. Brooks, Mesdames C. R. McNeely, W. S. Price and J. M. Zachary, of Brevard. For the past nine years she has been a teacher in the city schools of Statesville. She possesses a rare charm of grace and manner, which has won for her a wide circle of friends throughout the state.

The groom is a graduate of the Atlanta Southern Dental college and is popular in his home town.

Immediately following the ceremony an informal reception was held. The entire lower floor of the Brooks home had been tastefully decorated with colorful summer flowers. In the dining room a color motif of pink and green was carried out in the floral arrangements, harmonizing with the tempting ice course served with individual heart-shaped cakes. A shower of pink sweet peas, caught with bows of airy pink tulle, fell from the chandelier over the table which was veiled with an Italian lace cloth. The central decoration was an elaborate arrangement of delphinium, roses and sweet peas, sentinelled by silver candlesticks, holding tall wax tapers. The mints were in silver bonbon holders.

Dr. and Mrs. Bernard left for an extended motor trip to Niagara Falls, Canada and eastern cities.

The guest list was drawn from relatives and very close friends. Among those who motored to Hendersonville for the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Price, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. McNeely, Mrs. Emma Zachary and daughter, Miss Ella Zachary; Mr. and Mrs. Lem Brooks and Mrs. Phillip Price, Brevard; Edwin Chappell, High Point; Misses Mary Bell, Billy and Martha Neal Deaton and Karl Deaton, Statesville.
