PITY PAUL MELLON, THE POOR RICH BOY.

Paul Mellon, son of the secretary of the treasury, and heir to $500,000,000—five hundred millions of dollars—went to work last week, we are told in the great daily press, and started in to learn the banking business. He is now connected with one of his father's many banks, as his first school room in the university of finance.

We believe his daddy is making a mistake. Young Mellon's first lesson ought to be a study of human nature, and he ought to delve deep into world history, and especially ought to give serious study to the revolutions of the world, the overthrow of then existing orders, the drastic action of oppressed peoples of the world in its several stages of history. This study would be of much greater importance to young Mellon than would be the study of interest charges, merger manipulations, consolidations, and so on.

The eyes of the world are now upon Ghandi, leader in the movement to free India from the absolute domination of Great Britain. The next battle to engage the attention of the world is to be staged right here in America. One hundred and fifty years ago America was engaged in the same conflict that India is now staging. This nation was wrestling the rights of American people to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness from the British government, just as India is now doing.

Through financial combinations, mergers, and so on, a few men in America have garnered unto themselves all these things so essential to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. Old Man Rockefeller's son, Henry Ford's son and Andy Mellon's son are heirs to fortunes that are staggering in their bigness. These, with a very few lesser lights, now control more than three-fourths of America's wealth, while the 122,000,000 Americans bandy about and go upon the remaining fraction of the nation's wealth. Does any one think for a moment that these conditions will long prevail in this great America?

These huge fortunes are going to be bursted into ten thousand parts someday, in what way we, of course, do not know. But whatever it takes to turn the trick, is most assuredly going to be done, and that in a most thorough manner. It may come in the form of political revolution, with a new political party as the means; it may come through education and right thinking and acting; it may come through bloodshed and violence.

Any one ought to know that America will not much longer submit to the sad spectacle of the rich growing richer and the poor growing poorer, every day in every way. One day the cry of a hungry child will be heard above the whistle of the private yacht.

Young Mr. Mellon's big job is to learn how to hold what he has, rather than studying plans for increasing his holdings. He is young. The change is coming within his lifetime, taking it on the average. It may come before very many more years shall have passed. It ought to be here now.

That this hot weather is worldwide is evidenced in a letter received by a North Carolina lady from relatives in Scotland, which tells of the excessive heat there, and the long time since rainfall has come to relieve the situation. If there is any comfort to you in this knowledge, you are welcome to it.

What is it in man's make-up which causes most of us to experience a sneaking, unspoken wish that Otto Wood may be able to cross the Mexican or Canadian line? Wood has made his fourth escape from the pen, and is now the object of diligent search throughout the country. You won't admit it, of course, but deep down in your heart of hearts you are hoping right now that Otto Wood will not be retaken.

Winners never quit and quitters never win.

TEXTILES SHOWING GREATER ACTIVITY.

Reports of the American Cotton Manufacturers association for June show decided improvement. During the month 198,539,000 yards of standard cloths were manufactured, of which 92 per cent were sold in that month. Stocks on hand showed a decrease of over 19 per cent during June, which is great encouragement to the country. Another month or two like June, and stocks on hand will be disposed of, thereby making necessary resumption of activities in this great industry. Of great interest is the announcement that the big Statesville cotton mills have started in full blast, with orders sufficient to run for six months. Day is breaking, the sun is rising, the clouds are passing away.

Thank you, Mr. Commissioners, for that 16 cent tax cut for 1930. Now then, if the town of Brevard will make a reduction, and the infernal insurance companies will likewise reduce their exorbitant fire insurance rate, maybe a poor man will have a chance to live a while longer.

State papers got all het up last week because a maniac forced his daddy out of the automobile, whereupon said maniac, or crazy man, took the wheel and drove away. Wires and radios flashed the intelligence that a maniac was loose upon the highways of North Carolina, driving a car. Why, that's nothing new. We see the dern things every day, whizzing around curves and passing other cars and blowing pedestrians out of the road with the wind they make in sailing through the air. Why get so excited over one poor maniac driving an automobile? Surely we are accustomed to all that by now.

England's labor government has issued orders that Earl Carroll, of New York, is not to be permitted to land on British shores. That is good. Carroll, the New York theatre man, has no claim to distinction other than his ability to parade young women across the stage in the more nearly nude state than any other show man, and get by with it. New York City is about the only place in the civilized world that Carroll would be lionized. Here's hoping that other nations will refuse this man admission, and that these refusals will arouse our own pleasure-mad nation to a sense of common decency.

FROM MRS. R. C. GALLOWAY

Editor The Brevard News: Will you please allow me space in your paper for a few words? We certainly do enjoy reading The Brevard News, for it is an excellent paper, also, it is hearing the news from "down home."

I like to remember our old "Tar Heel" friends, many of whom will read this, and want them to know we still remember them all. We have been living in this state over seven years, and naturally many changes have taken place. Many remembered friends have gone on to their reward, and many of the youngsters who were in the grades have finished high school and started out on the various occupations of life.

I am very proud of the rapid advancement in Education that North Carolina is making and hope that each year will prove better than the one preceding.

We like this state for many reasons, but especially the Educational advantages. Our compulsory school law says that each child must finish high school, unless for special reasons the student must leave school before receiving a diploma. It is eighteen miles to Ohio University, Athens, O., the oldest university west of the Alleghenies, having graduated its first class in 1815. Its enrollment last year was nearly 4000. Our oldest son has just finished his first year there, and our daughter plans to enter the coming year.

Southeastern Ohio has several points of interest to history-loving students. Last summer we motored a distance of sixty miles to Marietta, on the Ohio River. We saw the monument where the first governor of the Northwest Territory, Arthur St. Clair, took his oath of office. This monument is in the center of a beautiful park on the bank of the Muskingum River where it flows into the Ohio.

Next, we visited the original old Block House built by Gen. Putnam and others, and it is astonishing how well it has stood the weather, both fair and foul for these many, many years. The younger generation who have never seen the old-fashioned furniture which was used by our forefathers, would certainly see it all by going there. The house has six rooms and each one is furnished according to its use. I wish that I could describe each piece of furniture, but will only say, every one who has an opportunity, be sure to visit the place and you will not regret the time spent.

Marietta also, has the oldest Masonic Lodge west of the Alleghenies. My husband took his Past Master's Degree in that Lodge, and saw George Washington's Masonic apron. American Union Lodge, No. 1, is justly proud of having the first president of the United States as one of its members. Lancaster, Ohio, is another point of historical interest. Every one who is a book-lover has read Zane Grey's works will remember when Lew Wetzel all alone, killed as many of the Indians.

We have been up on the mountain several times, but of course, it was more than we cared to risk to go down the side of the cliff into the cave where he hid himself and picked the Indians off as they tried to get him. The town of Lancaster is built at the foot of the cliffs, and it, also, has a public park, and thousands visit there every year.

But, while all these things are very interesting, and I am glad we have had the opportunity of visiting these and many other places in the state, don't think for a moment that we have forgotten our dear old North Carolina mountains in the "Land of the Sky," for there is no place like "Home Sweet Home" and home friends, and our greatest enjoyment is making the trip South for our vacation.

The only drawback is, that if it happens to be rainy weather, we can make the trip of more than 500 miles on a hard-surfaced road, and get within a few miles of home and have to wait for dry weather before we can get through the mud. It seems to me it would be only fair to those taxpayers in the rural communities to help them improve their roads.

Wishing you great success for The News, I am
MRS. R. C. GALLOWAY.

FROM MRS. NORTON

Editor The Brevard News:

I flatter myself to believe I have friends who read The Brevard News that would like to hear from me, and when I try to select some one to write to I think of so many that I decided to if you will give me space in your paper to write them all. Will say in the beginning that I am having a delightful trip, the only drawback is the extreme heat. About the only comfortable place I have found is in a bath tub of cold water.

Little Rock is a pretty place although I am surprised at the poorly kept grounds around the capitol building. I guess the extreme heat has something to do with it.

We, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Matheson and little daughters, Billie Jo, Mary and Martha and myself, have driven over a good portion of the city and also visited the construction work where Mr. Matheson is employed. They are building a concrete bridge nine hundred feet long. Some bridge believe me.

Mr. Matheson and his family will be located here until the job is completed which will take more than a year, he thinks, but I am leaving this week to visit other friends and relatives in the extreme western part of this state, Oklahoma and Missouri. Don't know just how long I will be away but sometime sooner or later I will land back in the old home town if I live.

Best wishes for the welfare of everybody in Transylvania.
MRS. LEE F. NORTON.
Little Rock, Ark., July 10.

MONTGOMERY WARD MAKES NEW POLICY

Time Payment Plan is Now in Effect To Continue Until September 15th

It is announced elsewhere in this issue of The Brevard News and in nearly 900 leading newspapers throughout the country, that Montgomery Ward and Company, inaugurates one of the most unusual merchandising policies the country has ever seen, according to officials. Announcements have been sent to the company's ten million customers, telling them that from now until September 15, any item in the company's catalogue or retail stores except groceries, will be sold on Ward's time payment plan.

Heretofore, the company has confined its time payment selling to such items as washing machines, furniture, stoves, furnaces, etc., and in the face of present business conditions with the general tightening of credit by most retailers, this action on the part of Montgomery Ward and Company, is a significant move.

George E. Everitt, president of the company, in announcing the new policy, expresses the belief that there is plenty of money and purchasing power in America and that greater prosperity can be brought about by creating an inclination to buy on the part of the public. Mr. Everitt points out that the average weekly payroll of America today is conservatively estimated at eight hundred and forty million dollars, that the registered savings accounts in the country total over twenty-seven billion dollars, and are steadily increasing he added.

Yes, there is ample buying power and we believe that general business will improve when the buying public is satisfied that retail prices reflect the lower commodity levels. In our judgment, commodity prices are scraping bottom today and Montgomery Ward and Company has placed and is placing orders for millions of dollars worth of merchandise at these new low levels. Months ago we cut prices accordingly, and again in the last sixty days have made further reductions on such merchandise as piece goods, work clothing, plumbing supplies, etc."

The latest move on the part of Montgomery Ward and Company, will be welcomed by business leaders and people everywhere. No doubt a move like this by Montgomery Ward and Company, with its far flung distributing organization of Mail Order Houses and Retail Stores in every part of the country, will have a decidedly uplifting effect on business prosperity, stated Mr. Everitt.

B. H. Martin, manager of the Asheville store. Mr. Martin anticipates a great public response to the new policy which he put into effect at the local store Thursday.
