JOHNSON WOULD NOT PERMIT PAYMENT IN BONDS OF THE TOWN

course could not be pursued; that taxpayers must pay their street assessments in cash; that the people who hold the bonds are entitled to their money, and because a local citizen happened to hold some of the bonds, to let them pay street assessments with these bonds would be unfair to other bond-holders.

Following is a copy of the letter received by Mayor Ramsey from Director Johnson:

"Mr. Ralph H. Ramsey, Jr., Mayor, Town of Brevard, Brevard, North Carolina.

"Dear Sir:

"I am in receipt of your letter of February 1.

"Property owners who owe paving assessments cannot pay their assessments with bonds of the Town of Brevard. These assessments are payable in cash, the same as any other bonds, and the people who hold the bonds are entitled to their money. Because a local citizen happened to hold some of their bonds, to let him pay his assessment with them would be unfair to the other bond-holders, and the Local Government Commission would not consider it at all.

"Yours very truly,

"CHAS. M. JOHNSON,
"Director of Local Gov't."

Raleigh, Feb. 3.

Many citizens believe that Director Johnson is taking the wrong view of the question. It is said by some citizens that if the holders of the bonds now past due are willing to sell same at 60 cents on the dollar, it should not concern any one else except that bond-holder; that if a citizen who owes the town can buy these bonds at any given price, the town, owing payment on the bond, should be permitted to accept the bonds in payment on street assessments. The further fact is pointed out that citizens of Brevard are also citizens of North Carolina, and as such should have the same consideration that is shown the bond-holders away from here. In other words, if a citizen of Brevard, already hard pressed to meet his various tax payments, can save a few dollars and not hurt the town of Brevard, it is to the interest of the town and to the state that he be allowed to salvage whatever he can in buying the town's past due paper and making settlement of his debts to the town with the same.

Brevard is already behind some $56,000 in notes, bonds and interest. The town owes past due short time notes in the amount of $20,100; past due bonds in the sum of $20,500; and past due interest in the sum of $16,112.50. The town officials have all but worried themselves in a frantic state of mind in trying to find some way of meeting these past due payments. Now that they have a chance of retiring some of these past due obligations by accepting them in payment of street assessments, it is not felt that the state central body in Raleigh should prohibit the transactions.

Many homes will be sold by the town in an effort to collect street assessments, and the town will have to bid in much of this property, leaving the officials in no better position to meet the town's obligations than they were before the sale of the property.

Many people are hoping that Mayor Ramsey can convince the Raleigh authorities that it is best to permit the town to go ahead with its proposed settlement of its obligations by which many citizens may also, at the same time, settle their obligations to the town.

VIVID PICTURES OF TWO YOUNG MEN AS SEEN BY OBSERVER

Beyond her years as evidenced by the premature gray hair and wrinkled forehead, she looked like a woman before the officers started up the train steps. This little old woman placed trembling arms about the shoulders of her manacled son, to say farewell to him as he was being taken to some dark prison. The old fellow stood beside her boy for a moment, and then stooped down to kiss him for the last time. In rough brusque manner the manacled man pulled his arms and pushed her away. She started down the aisle, wiping the coursing tears from her wrinkled cheek with the corner of her cotton checked apron. The crowd watched her wend her way down the train steps, across the station grounds, to an old buggy.

Some man in the crowd rebuked the young prisoner for his heartless treatment of his mother, whereupon he burst forth in a rage, declaring that if she had been a mother indeed to him when he was a boy that he would not be in manacles, a prisoner. She let him run wild, while she petted and pampered him one day, neglecting him altogether on other days, too busy with her other interests to pay him any attention, he blubbered out. At first he got into mischief, then meanness, then a life of crime. Now the jail for him, and a heartbroken existence for the mother.

In watching the work being done through the Boy Scout Movement these two pictures come to mind. One man, a great man, kneeling at his mother's feet, giving her the praise that had been accorded him; the other man, a prisoner, turning from his mother, repulsing her kiss, warding off her caress.

GRIST SAYS GARDNER HAS INCREASED HIS MANSION EXPENSE

While do you want—a son that is being acclaimed in the old home town, kneeling at your knee and giving to you the honor and the glory of his life, or a manacled son, a hand-cuffed son, spurning your love as officers haul him away to be placed behind the prison bars?

Think it over.

Meanwhile, it is asserted, Mr. Grist is holding up the January pay of the Child Welfare force because members will not come to his office for a conference.

Some there are, in part those who have grievances they want aired, who are cheering the Labor Commissioner on from the sidelines. Others are saying he has an abundance of brass, gall, nerve, but is showing a lack of judgment in sweeping and numerous attacks he is making.

CARD OF THANKS

Mrs. W. I. Reece will hold in grateful remembrance all expressions of sympathy and kind deeds, during the long illness and recent death of her father.
