ROOSEVELT WINS IN SWEEPING VICTORY

Majority Of Electoral Votes Will Equal That Given Hoover Four Years Ago

STATE AND COUNTY IN DEMOCRATIC COLUMN

Many Republican States Go In to Democratic Column in Tuesday's Election

Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt was elected president of the United States Tuesday's election, carrying his party to complete victory throughout the nation. While official returns are not in from all the states, indications are that Roosevelt has carried more than forty of the forty-eight states and will be elected by a majority that will equal if not exceed that given President Hoover four years ago.

The Democratic landslide did not stop with the national ticket, but continued its sweeping course and carried several states from the Republican column into the Democratic ranks.

North Carolina went Democratic by majorities that will approach the 200,000 mark. Ehringhaus, for governor, is leading the state ticket in votes, while Reynolds, for United States senator, will be several thousand votes behind Gov. Ehringhaus.

Transylvania county elected a full Democratic ticket by majorities topping the 600 mark.

Henderson county, once a strong Republican county but captured by the Democrats two years ago, was kept in that party's line-up in Tuesday's election by unprecedented majorities.

SUMMER RESIDENT DIES IN BREVARD

Following an illness of several months, Mrs. Jack L. Oliver died Friday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Erwin. Mrs. Oliver suffered a stroke of paralysis early in the summer and her health had been rapidly failing since that time. She was 68 years old.

A brief funeral service was conducted at the Erwin home at 2:30 Saturday afternoon at which Rev. West, pastor of the Brevard Baptist church, officiated. The body was then sent to the former home of Mrs. Erwin in Portsmouth, Va.

Mrs. Oliver and her husband had been spending their summer vacation in Brevard for the past 12 years. Mr. Oliver, until his retirement recently, was connected with the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph company. Their home is in Charleston, S. C.

Mrs. Oliver was a member of the Trinity Methodist church in Charleston and was well known there and in Brevard.

Surviving her are her husband, two sons, Dr. H. Carr and Dr. Jerome Carr and one sister, Mrs. Mollie W. King, of Portsmouth, Va.

APPEAL MADE FOR ORPHANS OF STATE

(From the Orphans' Friend)

Thanksgiving Season should be a time for rejoicing and giving thanks: a time when all should join in this spirit. This should not be a mere emotion with no outward expression, but should cause those who are fortunate and able, to think of those who are less fortunate and less able. This year, the relief of distress is the big outstanding objective of unselfish motives. Among the large group needing aid in our state are the dependent children—especially those bereft of home and parents. The orphanages of the state have brought large numbers of these under their care, and Church and Fraternal Society have assumed a large responsibility.

The Orphanages are experiencing a hard time this year. The capacity of people to give has been considerably lessened—hence the income of all Orphanages is considerably less.

Among the orphanages the Oxford Orphanage stands out as the oldest—sixty years old this year. More than 7,000 children have received its benefits and the present population is three hundred and seventy-five. These are to be housed, clothed and fed, shoes provided; as well as educational advantages and the care of their health. It is a large task—only thirty per cent of the children are of Masonic parentage and the family is made up of children from all over the State. There are some in the Oxford Orphanage family from this county and Superintendent Proctor sends out a call for all Orphanages at Thanksgiving but more especially for that large family of which he is the head. Help the Orphanages this year for in so doing you are helping in the States program of relief, and, at the same time, helping children who, through no fault of their own, hold out pleading hands for a chance and call for one to invest in them.

PROHIBITION NOW TO THE FOREFRONT

Leaders More Determined Than Ever That 18th Amendment to Stand

REMOVED FROM ARENA OF POLITICAL BATTLE

Many Voted Democratic Ticket With No Idea of Being for Repeal.

Washington, Nov. 9.—Now that the election has swung toward those who believe the 18th amendment should be repealed, the fight to be waged by the prohibitionists becomes more acute. It can now be fought out without the movement itself being involved in a political battle. Leaders in the prohibition movement have long wanted the situation to become one of straight-out contest between prohibitionists and those who want repeal. The question has been thrown into the political melee until it has been a hard and difficult task to obtain a line-up on the strict question of repeal or continuation of prohibition.

This election just ended does not mean that all who voted the Democratic ticket are for repeal of the 18th amendment. Hundreds of thousands of people voted the Democratic ticket who were in nowise voting for repeal. Unemployment and depression, lack of food and fuel, caused millions to vote the Democratic ticket simply because the honestly thought a change of administration would be beneficial to the country.

Friends of prohibition are lining up now for a solid front against any effort to repeal. (Continued on back page)

REYNOLDS CLOSES CAMPAIGN HERE

Robert R. Reynolds, Democratic nominee for United States Senate, made the last address of his campaign at the Brevard High school auditorium here Monday night at 8:30 o'clock before more than 1000 persons.

Mr. Reynolds was met at the Henderson - Transylvania county line at 7:45 by a motorcade of 100 cars and was escorted to the county court house where he was scheduled to speak. However, it was impossible to seat more than a fraction of the people so speaker and his audience went to the High school building where he delivered his last appeal to the voters.

In opening remarks Mr. Reynolds stated that he does not blame the Republican party for the condition of the county. He feels that the "rank and file" of the party are all right. He attributes the "calamity" to the leaders of that party. He charged the present administration with misuse of funds and with a complete disregard for the promises of four years ago.

The speaker went into a thorough discussion of the issues involved in the campaign, spoke very highly of Franklin D. Roosevelt, who, he said, is a man who speaks the language of "the common people." He said he had met Gov. Roosevelt personally and that he was highly pleased to find him "just a man," and one who is capable of dealing with the average population.

In conclusion Mr. Reynolds urged that the people go to the polls and vote. He promised that he would make every effort to render them a wholehearted service while in office and that all would be welcome to come to see him in Washington, and that six years from now he will be back to ask them to re-elect him.

He was introduced to the people by Hon. William E. Breese, Chairman of the Democratic committee of Transylvania county.

LET EVERY MAN AND WOMAN LEND A HAND

The election is over. The American people have spoken. The verdict is decisive.

Let politics be adjourned now, and let every good citizen lend a hand to the newly elected administrations in the Nation, State and counties in their effort to alleviate the suffering of our people. Recovery from the depression was hindered during the last Congress by political interference and manipulation. With a national election in the offing, partisan men and women in both political parties hemmed and hawed, heckled and hindered efforts to bring relief. The election is over, and no man has any right in the face of widespread suffering to play politics that would hurt or hinder any measure that promises probable or possible relief to a suffering people.

President-elect Roosevelt and his advisers face a tremendous task—a task that President Hoover has all but given his life to perform. In every section and center and community of the United States there are suffering people, needing food, fuel and clothing. Business men, manufacturers and farmers stand in helpless attitude, waiting, wondering what to do and how to turn. Countless thousands walk the streets and highways, hunting jobs.

It is true that recovery has started in many sections in the United States, but this is not true in the other countries of the world. Our recovery will be slow, at best. Its pace will be set in large measure by the willingness of the American people to submerge selfish and political interests, and work together for the common good of all.

In our state the situation is acute. Counties and towns are, in effect, bankrupt, and will be so declared unless some way is found to work out from under the heavy obligations imposed upon the people. Tax bills are high and heavy, with insistent demands being made upon public officials to pay public debts and interest thereon. Our individual citizens, tens of thousands of them, have already lost their homes and their farms through forced foreclosure and tax sales; other tens of thousands now face this ruin.

With a situation like this confronting our people, is it not the part of wisdom and patriotic duty for every man to put his shoulder to the wheel and assist in bringing order out of chaos? Those of us who were victorious in Tuesday's election will remember that the victory carries with it responsibilities that are staggering in their immensity. Those of us who lost in Tuesday's election must remember that we can lose still greater things than an election.

Let all of us, as American citizens and patriotic North Carolinians, as fathers and mothers and neighbors, look into the future and realize the great fact that whatever will help a Democrat will help a Republican, and whatever will help a Republican will help a Democrat, and whatever will hurt a Republican will hurt a Democrat, and whatever will hurt a Democrat will hurt a Republican.

In this spirit, and in the light of an understanding of the awful conditions surrounding us, may we, therefore, adjourn politics and work hand in hand and heart with heart in the alleviation of our suffering people and for the recovery of our normal business in this county, state and nation?

ELECTION DAY IS QUIET IN BREVARD

Election day was comparatively here, only a few drunks, celebrating victory or drowning their grief over defeat, several fights that were not of any consequence and the usual hilarity.

The only serious trouble reported was a knife affray in which Lonnie McCrary received severe wounds and two negroes shot, one through the shoulder the other in the leg. Linden Thompson, who was shot in the leg by Clint Carter, according to information furnished by witnesses, may suffer the loss of his leg. The shootings are said to have been done by the same negro, Carter in the Davidson River section late yesterday afternoon.

A number of extra policemen were on duty to keep down disturbances.

BREVARD WOMEN AT DISTRICT MEETING

Business and Professional Women of District No. 1 Met At Hendersonville

MRS. MCCRARY CHAIRMAN OF THE DISTRICT GROUP

Sixteen Western Counties Included In This District—Great Work Done

District No. 1 of the North Carolina Federation of Business and Professional Women's Club held a meeting at Hendersonville on Saturday afternoon and evening at the Hodgewell Hotel. Mrs. Mary Jane McCrary, of Brevard, is Chairman of the District. The main topic of discussion at the afternoon session was "Finding Women in Unusual Occupations," and Dr. Elizabeth Ramsey, of Asheville, presented a form of report of the Research Committee of the Asheville Club of women in unusual occupations, most of which are in our own vicinity. Much interest was manifested and it was amazing at the number of new fields women are branching out into and most of them have come from original ideas of the women themselves. Some of the unusual vocations in this section mentioned are: owner of Danish folk school, operator of a riding academy, one who raises canaries for a livelihood, another makes and sells burial dresses. There was a great variety of unusual jobs found existing in this particular part of the state. Dr. Ramsey's report was classified as follows: Arts and Crafts, Educational, Literary, Commercial, Industrial and Professional.

Mrs. Lodena Robertson, of Brevard, was elected to serve on the nominating committee at the State Convention which meets at Asheville next June.

Miss Jane Truex, President of the Hendersonville Club, presided at the banquet. Greetings were extended by the local president and by Mrs. J. S. Forrest, President of the local Woman's Club. Mrs. Lila Ripley Barnwell, one of Hendersonville's pioneers, spoke on "Women in Politics." In her address she stressed the importance of women voting and voting wisely. She urged women to live up to the standards of good citizenship.

Miss Nettie Brogden, State President of Greensboro, spoke on "What Price Club Membership." She stated that in the present economic upheaval, this is no time for the business woman to fool her time away; that she cannot afford to look out only for self, but she must try to help others; that women have gone out in the business world, and they have been asked to help solve this economic situation. "Learn more about business" is the essence of the ten year objective set by the National Federation of the B. and P. W. Clubs. "This is one of the sanest things that has been started in our state," said Miss Brogden about the Institute of Government recently started by Mr. Coates at the University of North Carolina, explaining that not only men but women should learn more about their government of which they are a part. She explained further that our own organization is doing more for business women than any other organization in the world.

FORGET-ME-NOT DAY WELCOMED BY ALL

(By Wickes Wamboldt)

There is no more disheartening feeling than the belief that your country does not appreciate a sacrifice that you have made for it. Nothing so discourages, so depresses a man as the stark realization that although he has given his best, perhaps his all, to help his nation, and to benefit his fellow countrymen, his efforts are not appreciated or have been forgotten.

"FORGET-ME-NOT" is a plea that instinctively goes up from the heart of the fellow who has laid himself on the altar of public service. Yet so often, too often, the public does forget, for its memory unless it watches that memory, is pitifully, tragically short.

"Forget me not." Nobody likes to be forgotten, unless he has done some-
