W. O. W. NEWS

W. H. GROGAN, JR.
District Manager

The political campaign is now over, the citizens of America have spoken and their voice must be obeyed, its now up to each of us to do our part to help restore confidence and stability in our sections of this great Country. Each of us regardless of our party or beliefs must step in the line of battle and fight like men and drive from these United States, depression, hunger, idleness and idle talk and get our minds on concrete, constructive and up lifting things of this life. We must do our part to relieve our suffering fellow citizens until they are given employment and become able to support themselves and their families.

Sovereigns: Lets you and I start campaigning for the good old W. O. W. Fraternity, we know the high principals and purposes that our order stands for, we know it has been a great help to thousands of American homes, we know thousands of homes are now protected by the Woodmen of the World. We also know there are many more thousands of homes that should be protected and it is for these unprotected homes that I am asking you to campaign for at this time.

There should be no widow or orphan left without sufficient insurance protection to tide them over until their new conditions could be adjusted, therefore may I consider you ready to enter this campaign to get our protection extended to those homes that have no protection. We need campaign speakers to bring the facts to the people, its not necessary to speak at the Court House or to large crowds, just speak to the fellow that works with you, to your neighbor, to your friends wherever you find them. What ever else you do campaign for the good old Woodmen of the World.

ERADICATE SCALE BY WINTER SPRAYING

Few home orchardists realize the damage done to valuable fruit trees by scale insects. Once this trouble gets started in an orchard, it spreads rapidly and soon infests the trees in a large area before the owner realizes the extent of spread or damage being done.

"There are few orchards in the State not infested with scale and this infection should be eradicated with spray before any new growth begins next spring," says C. H. Brannon, extension entomologist at State College. "Examine the trees to determine the amount of scale present as infestation spreads rapidly. We have been using oils with considerable success in scale control and especially is such spray valuable where oyster shell scale or scurfy scale is known to occur. Lime-sulphur was the standard spray for years and if this is applied thoroughly at the proper strength, it will eradicate the ordinary infestations."

Good results in controlling scale depends upon three things, Brannon says. First, the proper material must be obtained; second, it must be correctly mixed, and third, it must be carefully and thoroughly applied. A great deal depends upon the spraying machine used. Good results cannot be obtained with a broken-down, worn-out machine.

Because spraying has been neglected to a great extent during the past two or three years, scale insects are on the increase in North Carolina and for that reason the Extension service at State College has prepared a spraying schedule for both apples and peaches which may be obtained on application, either to Mr. Brannon or the publications office of the College.

FORGET-ME-NOT DAY WELCOMED BY ALL

thing that makes him wish to be forgotten. But how it cuts a fellow to be forgotten, when he has done a deed that entitles him to the everlasting remembrance of his country.

A hero is no less a hero because chance failed to give him an opportunity that blazoned his name across the front pages of national newspapers and brought a bucketful of medals of honor. Some of our greatest heroes have never been heard of. Some of our greatest heroes have done their work unrecognized, un-honored, unsung.

Among the greatest heroes of the World War are disabled veterans whom you meet every day, but whose acts of bravery and whose careers of service have never been brought to anybody's attention.

Our known heroes are not likely to need to call on us for assistance. They have been so well advertised that their causes automatically receive consideration.

But it is our unknown heroes, who should concern us. It is they, whom we should make a point of not overlooking. We must strive not to overlook them. We must make some effort to keep them in mind or we shall forget them.

For our own sakes we should welcome Forget-Me-Not Day which will be Saturday, when warm hearted public spirited persons, will sell forget-me-nots on the streets of this city for the benefit of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War.

Buy a forget-me-not Saturday. But it first of all for your own sake, that you may not forget. You cannot afford to forget. And buy it in the second place, for as little or as much as you care to give, that the men who became disabled fighting your fight, and who are not receiving enough, or anything from the United States government, may not suffer for lack of the bare necessities of life."

We invite the mayor and the board of aldermen to walk out Broad street as far as the town limits and if they don't order a new sidewalk built, we miss our guess. ### "THE FORGET-ME-NOT SPEAKS"

(By William Ellis Register)

"Little pale blossoms of tint sky blue,
Why are you worn to-day?
Why is everyone buying you?
What do you stand for, pray?"

"I stand for a cross in Flanders field
And the Kerne, and the wood of Belleau."
For the khaki line that would not yield—
For the prayers from lips that death
has sealed—
I stand for wounds that have not healed,
And Hospital beds in a row.

"I stand for horrors and wounds and
scars,
For bodies shattered and torn;
For battlefields reeking beneath the stars
With sacrifices to the war-god Mars;
For an end to the reign of Kings and Czars;

"For the mem'ry of warriors racked
with pain,
Mangled while facing the foe;
Belgian soil bears a crimson stain
Where they offered their all, un-
thinking of gain,
(They know NOW their sacrifice was not in vain!)
In their hospital beds in a row!"

NEW FORD SIX SAID TO BE IN MAKING

A six-cylinder engine developed some time ago at the Dearborn engineer laboratories, and improved sufficiently to meet current motoring demands, has received a preliminary approval by the Ford officials. The tentative plans in regard to the six-cylinder car provide for its sale at around $350. It has a wheelbase of approximately 106 inches with bodies similar in design to the V-8 line for next year. The first of a group of its own retail sales and service stations is being established in Buffalo, N. Y., by the Ford Motor company. The stations will supplement but not replace present dealer representation in the larger cities, where such action is deemed necessary.—Wall Street Journal.

fort to bring about repeal of the 18th amendment. These leaders now look upon the contest as being more easily waged because of freedom from the political aspect. In other words, the question can now be fought out on the strict line-up of friends and foes of prohibition. While the national Democratic platform calls for repeal, it is not believed that repeal is any nearer today than it was before the election. But the situation demands the earnest work and watchful care of every friend of prohibition.
