

EXHIBITIONS OF WORK OF PUPILS

Given at Bailey and Catholic Hill Schools.

A NUMBER OF NON-RESIDENTS WERE AMONG THE VISITORS TODAY.

Interesting exhibitions of the work of the pupils were held yesterday and today at the Bailey street school. The various rooms were open to the parents and friends of the children, and the public generally. The work done consisted of oral examinations on the ground gone over by the pupils during the year, and was for the purpose of refreshing the memory of the children as much as for an exhibition. The standing attained in the work today and yesterday does not determine the grades of the pupils next year, which is determined by the monthly averages.

There were a number of visitors in the different rooms today, although the attendance of patrons was not what it was hoped it would be. These visitors included a good many non-residents of the city who were interested in the work and who were greatly pleased with what they saw. There were many complimentary remarks on the proficiency of the pupils, the readiness with which they recalled the knowledge they had acquired during the session, and their easy deportment. The neat appearance of the rooms was also a subject of favorable comment.

At the Catholic Hill school there were exercises yesterday and today, which were attended by a large number of visitors.

In Principal Lipscomb's room the grades from the sixth to the tenth had reviews of reading, arithmetic, U. S. history, spelling, civil government and music.

The fourth and fifth grades, in charge of Miss V. L. Burrell, gave exhibitions in free hand drawing and arithmetic. The sixth, seventh and eighth grades were examined in advanced geography. The freehand drawing by Robert Wallace, Maggie Bynum, Herbert Fowler and Gathier Hargrove was noticeably good, and was complimented by Mr. Worrall, the artist, who was a visitor there.

The third grade was examined in reading, spelling and drawing. The second grade gave an exhibition of reading, vocal music and free hand drawing on the board. There was also an exhibition of sewing, which is taught in all the grades, but is not compulsory.

The first A grade, second division, pupils had examinations in language, music and arithmetic.

The primary department had a pretty and interesting exhibition in addition to the oral recitations, consisting of writing, painting and drawing and sewing.

The examinations today close the work of the session at this school.

DR. JARVIS BUXTON COMES TO ASHEVILLE

HIGH TRIBUTE TO THE SAINTLY MAN OF GOD.

The Lenoir News of the 22d says: "Rev. Jarvis Buxton, D. D., who has been rector of St. James' parish, Lenoir, N. C., for the past nine years or more, has resigned the work and will move this week to Asheville. Dr. Buxton's Godly life and lovely Christian character has endeared him to all our people, regardless of denomination or station in life. His life among us has been a veritable benediction. When sickness or trouble existed there this saintly man of God would find his way to give to the afflicted spiritual comfort and encouragement, and he was ever liberal and open handed to the destitute. His venerable kindly form and face will be held in loving remembrance by our entire community, and we feel that we but voice the sentiment of all the people when we wish for him, in his declining years, a continuance of those heavenly blessings and graces with which he is so richly endowed and which he so faithfully taught to others by precept and example."

D. W. Bruton feels considerably incensed because one of the military companies carried off his son, Marvin, as a drummer boy to Charlotte. The boy is 15 years old, and went without his parents' knowledge or consent. They were at a loss to know what had become of him, and were out searching for him late Monday night until they accidentally learned that the boy had gone to Charlotte.

The Asheville ball team met its first defeat at Weaverville Monday. It was a close game, and it is said fewer errors have never been made in any game played on the Weaverville diamond. In the eighth inning Weaverville made three runs on a ball thrown from second to first. The sun was in the first baseman's eyes so that he simply couldn't see the ball. Asheville had only one inning in which to recover. The score was 10 to 9 in Weaverville's favor.

BARLEY MALT

We desire to call your attention to the appended result of a chemical analysis recently made of CHASE'S BARLEY MALT WHISKY, by the recognized highest authority in the United States upon analytical chemistry, HERBERT E. SMITH, M. D., dean of the medical faculty of Yale University and state chemist of Connecticut.

YALE UNIVERSITY. DEPARTMENT OF MEDICINE. New Haven, Conn.

Messrs. E. H. Chase & Co., Louisville, Ky.
Gentlemen:—Inclosed you will find the results of my analysis of the sample of Chase's Barley Malt Whisky which you recently sent to me.
These results show it to be a whisky of good alcoholic strength, free from fusel-oil and containing no trace of the metals, copper, lead and zinc.
In my opinion Chase's Barley Malt Whisky is, on account of its absolute purity, an excellent article for medicinal use.
Yours truly,
HERBERT E. SMITH, M. D.
Conn. State Chemist.
Chemical Laboratory, July 21, 1899.

Result of a chemical examination of a sample of Chase's Barley Malt Whisky. 100 cubic centimeters contain:
Alcohol 51.95 cub. cent. or 4.32 grams.
Residue on evaporation 0.51 "
Non-volatile matter of Ash 0.01 "
Free acid, as acetic acid 0.04 "
Reducing bodies, as dextrose 0.22 "
Tannin a trace only
Attest: HERBERT E. SMITH, M. D.
These facts commend the CHASE BARLEY MALT WHISKY, not only to the public, who seek a superior Whisky, but also to the members of the medical profession in their practice.
The consumptive will find it most beneficial, as it strengthens the Lungs, checks the wasting of tissues, and relieves the severity of coughing. The dyspeptic will find it an aid to digestion, as it relieves the stomach when oppressed with gas. It builds up the feeble and stimulates the system against malarial attacks.
