Lola, the "Red Rose of the Forest," as her people called her, will marry Houston A. Ward, one of the wealthlest and most accomplished young men in Southern Texas.

And this happy culmination grows out of a singularly beautiful romance, one scene of which is blood-curdling and exciting enough to form the nuclus of a highly successful melo-drama. It was while flying for life from a prairie fire and a herd of stampeded steers that the love of the young cou ole was first revealed, and in such dangerous surroundings was their troth plighted.

Houston A. Ward, who is certainly eager to become the son-in-law of one of the most notorious Indian chiefs that ever shed blood on the borders of Arizona, is the son of old Shanghal Ward, a famous mustang king of the

The old man died a few years ago, The old man died a few yoars ago, leaving his only son a splendid fortune in lands, mustangs and cattle. Young Ward's boyhood was divided between Texas and Illinois. He usually spent the summers on his father's ranch, and the winters in the north there he attended school.

As the result of this simple career he possessed a fine education and ne is rather proud of certain trophies won on the playgrounds and a diploma won in the class-rooms of the college at Campaign, Ill.

Last summer the grass was scarce in the Rio Grande valley, and Houston Ward shipped some 400 or 500 head of cattle to the Indian Territory.

A DOG SCHOOL.

An Institution in Paris Devoted to Iu M. Edward Gillette's school of etiquette for dogs in Paris canines are trained. The school room is a large square apartment, furnished with a few rugs on its polished floor, some chairs and a table or two. On the school assembling in the morning the roll is called. The teacher, looking exceedingly dignified, taps his desk and the dogs immediately form in line.

Then, in a pleasant but commandin voice, he calls the dogs' names in retation, each animal being trained t respond with a sharp, quick bark and wag of the fail. The first lesson afer the performance of the regulation discipline is to learn to welcome visitors. No matter who comes into the room unexpectedly, each dog is taught to greet the newcomer with a low, short bark. The animal must also without leaving streaks of dust on keep far enough away from the visitor to cause him no discomfort. Each dog goes through this performance three times, and returns to its place in line

If a dog is unruly, it is marched to a chair in the corner of the room and made to crouch on its hind legs beside it and pray for haif an hour. Then the dogs are taught gallantry. For instance, if you drop your handkerchlef at one end of the room and an educated dog happens to be at the other, he will scamper along to pick it up, then ome running after you with a few barks to attract your attention, after which he surrenders his burden most fastidiously. The dogs are taught to pick up any dropped article in this
