CHICKENS

Shall the three-thousand egg incubator be operated this season? It will depend on what the farmers want done.

At the poultry sale last April fryers brought 43 cents per pound, but there were less than 300 pounds. In August they sold for about half of what they were in April. In order to get many fryers for the high market it will be necessary to set the eggs early in January and have a brooder house heated with a small stove or a large lamp. If you want to try to get the high price, send County Agent Arrendale a card saying how many eggs you think you will want to put in the incubator early in January or how many baby chicks you expect to buy, late in January. If you think you will have Rock, Red or Wyandotte eggs early or later than January, that will do for hatching purposes. Write County Agent Arrendale, telling him the kind and the price you will have to have.

If eggs cannot be bought here they will have to be ordered from some section south of us.

Will you co-operate and help make Macon County a great poultry section? It depends on YOU.

Dear Santa Claus—I want a tricycle and a walking stick and Ruth a tricycle. Love and a kiss, Harry Siler Higgins, Jr.

For a firm that has been in business for only a few months we have had a remarkable trade. Our Christmas trade has been particularly gratifying. The people naturally buy where they can get honest merchandise.

The Golden Rule method can't be improved upon. We operate on that plan.

We still have a large supply of toys and Christmas books for the children.

May old Santa Claus be generous to all the little ones.
