

NEWS OF INTEREST TO FARMERS

Farmers Day

Attention is invited in the ads and program of the next Farmers Day appearing in this issue of the Press. Five hundred circulars containing the ads and the program will be distributed throughout the county. Especially is attention called to the Vegetables Growers meeting at the court house on Farmers Day February 25th.

The farmers of the county now have the opportunity to contract for 300 or 400 acres in vegetables at prices agreed upon in advance. It is estimated that this will put into the pockets of the farmers of the county approximately $75,000 per year. If the farmers contract for the acreage mentioned above a canning plant will be established without cost to the farmers.

It should be remembered that the farmers' cash crop—timber products will soon be exhausted and it is high time that they were investigating other sources of income. Come to the court house on the 25th and have this matter thoroughly explained.

Tampa, Fla. Feb., 16th, 25.
MR. JOHN V. ARRENDALE,
Franklin, N. C.
County Agent,

Dear Mr. Arrendale—I have just received your letter dated Feb. 14th, and I will be there for the 25th. However, I don't believe I can get there ahead of time as you suggest, but you can tell all the farmers you see I will be there for the meeting of the 25th.

Yours Truly, JAMES S. MOODY
Editor's Note—Mr. Moody is the man who wants to contract for 300 or 400 acres of vegetables to be paid for in cash at contract prices.

TWIN EGG

Mr. Jesse Sheffield's hens are so anxious to help make a living that they are beginning to lay twin eggs. These hens also have a great deal of consideration for the women folks since the twin eggs the hens are laying come without the shell in order to save the trouble of breaking the eggs. Mr. Setser the rural mail carrier on Route Four was exhibiting a twin egg found in the nest at Mr. Sheffield's. The egg is without shell and consists of two full sized eggs connected by a small neck and very much resembles an hour glass. Mr. Sheffield's hens will probably fly to town hereafter and lay their eggs in a box at the Farmers Federation in order to save some one a trip to town.

Information Concerning Your Onion Sets

The set growing district, where practically all sets in this country are grown, suffered from a long cold wet summer. The result was that most all sets grew too large and were even dug in wet ground and had no chance to become hardened or firm. White sets were not good at all, yellow sets were a little better, and I will have them for you as long as I can get them, though the supply is limited and will not last all the season. It will be to your interest to use onion plants. The plants are very satisfactory and I believe you will continue to use them each year after you try them once. I will carry them in stock this year, as well as the sets and cabbage plants, potato plants later. C. T. BLAINE. F27.

H. M. Curran, Extension Service, Bureau Agriculture, State of North Carolina, was in Franklin Monday conferring with Supervisor Shields and County Agent Arrendale relative to the use and disposal of the minor timber products of the 10,000 acres of farmers' woodlot in this state. Altho at present Mr. Curran is the only one in the state doing this kind of work and in fact one of the few in the United States, this being a new industry comparatively yet from all indications the state will put several new men in this field this year. Mr. Curran advocates, and is working earnestly to that end, bringing industries such as creosote acid plants and such to the place where the acid wood and other timber by products may be had more readily. With this idea in view, he will try to interest manufacturers in the idea of placing such mills in such sections as this where these industries are of commercial importance. He explains that big timber can be sent to a far market but that small stuff must be taken care of very close to where it is grown. He also advises the County Agents to get behind this scheme and advise the farmers about the future values of judicial selections and thinning of wood-lot crops. Mr. Curran has had an extensive experience in this line having been with forestry and agricultural Bureaus in the Philippines for more than seven years and has had other experience thruout the United States. Needless to say the Forestry officials and the County Agents gave their hearty approval and promised all the assistance they were able to give.

Red Clover

As a soil builder and hay crop, red clover has a very important place among the farm-crops of Macon county. Within the next few weeks most of the land sown in wheat should be seeded with red clover. To add with and make the clover hay more easily cured a few pounds of Tall Meadow oat grasses to the acre should prove profitable. Owing to the fact that seed are higher this year than they were last, some of the farmers are thinking they cannot afford to sow clover this year. When the prices of seed are investigated it will be found that the cost of seed for an acre of clover will not be more than one dollar above the cost last year. What is a dollar to compare with the soil improvement, and the hay from an acre of clover for two years. Sow Clover even if the seed are at a higher price. Sow Clover.

Everett's Concert

The violin and banjo concert at the court house last Saturday night given by Mr. J. H. Everett and L. S. Patterson, assisted by local talent from various parts of the county, was intensely enjoyed by a large number of people. The house would have been filled, no doubt, had the weather conditions been more favorable. The music consisted of classical compositions, old Southern melodies and rollicking tunes that made it difficult for many in the audience to keep their feet still. Rarely ever has an audience in Franklin been so thoroughly entertained.

W. A. Norton has now taken over the Franklin Bakery from the old firm. George Carpenter says he just cannot get away from from the oven.

Richar Hudson's new house on Main street is now about halfway completed and from present appearance will be a credit to any town.

Prosperity Increasing

The Press this week has been forced to increase its size from 8 to 10 pages in order to accommodate the merchants who are anxious to let the people know what they have for sale. The fact that the dam will be under construction at an early date and that work on the Georgia road will begin soon is making business conditions better already.

To take advantage of the increasing prosperity the merchants with few exceptions are fully aware that they must advertise to keep abreast of the times. Notice the advertisements in this issue of the Press and take advantage of the many opportunities offered. On any day of the week especially on Saturday and on Farmers Day, go to the store of any merchant who has advertised and judge for yourself whether the people read the advertisements. The up-to-date merchant, the one who really appreciates your trade, is willing to tell you so through the columns of the Press. He wants to meet you half way with fair and square propositions. Those who do most advertising get the bulk of the trade and deservedly so.

D. R. Sellers Dies

Mr. D. R. Sellers, a highly honored and respected citizen of Macon county, died at his home 3 miles east of town last Sunday morning at 8:00 o'clock. Mr. Sellers was 78 years of age and had been in bad health for some time. The remains were buried at the new Franklin cemetery, a host of relatives and loving friends attending the funeral. Rev. A. J. Smith officiated at the burial.

How About It Franklin?

It seems from an item in the Press last week that some of the Franklin citizens are in need of police protection they do not get. It is true that Franklin is fortunate in having the man they have as police. And this police would be seen more often on the streets if Franklin could arrange to keep some of its citizens away from Cullasaja, Fishing Camps, especially on Sunday. By doing this it will add to the morality of our settlement as well as prolong the life of Franklin police. R. W.

Mr. Chas Morgan and Mitchell Asher have gone to Atlant on business.

The Joines Motor & Tractor Company has on display a touring car with balloon tires and other extras. A neater appearing car cannot be found. Balloon tires are now regular equipment when the purchaser so desires.

Mrs. D. D. Rice entertained recently for her sister, Mrs. Sullivah of Atlanta.

I am now located in the Higgins new brick building on Main Street. I have new stock, but the same old low prices and the same courteous treatment. On Farmers Day I will sell flour at cost and other things so cheaply that the buyers will be astonished. I will be glad to see my old friends in my new store. E. K. CUNNINGHAM.
