

GRECIAN DANCERS AT THE SESQUI

These dancers have selected for their graceful performance the keystone shaped pool in the court yard of the Pennsylvania State Building at the Sesqui-Centennial International Exposition in Philadelphia, which celebrates 150 years of American Independence. The spot is one of the most beautiful and artistic on the exposition site. The Exposition continues until December 1.

Pennsylvania's Contribution to the Sesqui

Here is the Keystone State's building at the great Sesqui-Centennial International Exposition at Philadelphia, celebrating 150 years of American Independence. In this huge structure Pennsylvania is displaying her progress from the arrival of Penn to the present day. The building is one of the handsomest on the big exposition grounds and has proved a rendezvous for hundreds of thousands of people who have come from near and far to see the magnificent exhibits established by forty-three of the leading nations of the world. The Exposition continues until December 1.

CHAMBER DINNER PROVES SUCCESS

Horace Kephart And Dr. Daniel Brysan, of Bryson City Heard—Quartet Delights Audience.

Thirty-five or 40 people gathered at the Franklin Hotel here Monday for the first of the chamber of commerce dinner programs. The affair proved, on the whole, decidedly successful, and it was agreed that another similar program should be given again soon. At the conclusion of an excellent dinner, President Henry G. Robertson called the board of directors of the organization to order, and those present had an opportunity to see the board in action—a regular business meeting was held.

Immediately following the business session, the party was delighted with two original selections rendered by a male quartet composed of T. J. Johnston, Jr., Gilmer Crawford, Robert Johnston and T. W. Porter, Jr. The quartet was repeatedly called upon for encores.

The chief address of the evening was that of Horace Kephart, of Bryson City, author of "Our Southern Highlanders," who held his audience closely for a 15-minute address crammed full of common sense, humor, sane advice, and inspiration. Mr. Kephart contrasted conditions in this section of the state today with those prevailing 10 years ago. Good roads, he said, have brought wonderful progress to the mountain counties; he predicted that the Smoky Mountains National Park will do more.

Dr. Daniel Brysan, president of the chamber of commerce at Bryson City, followed Mr. Kephart, and made a strong plea for Western North Carolina towns to forget their petty jealousies and work together.

"When you promote Franklin," he declared, "you are promoting Western North Carolina and Bryson City. The whole of Western North Carolina is potentially one big town. In the past we have been working too much alone. When we get our roads completed the world is our oyster."

P. G. Kiser of Charlotte, deputy commissioner of the Department of Revenue, was present, and made an excellent talk, lauding Franklin for forming a chamber of commerce, and expressing his good wishes.

Truett-McConnell Meeting May Become Annual Event

Plans are now under way to make the Truett-McConnell meetings an annual affair. Drs. George W. Truett of Dallas, and F. C. McConnell of Atlanta, have been invited to return next summer. Dr. McConnell has agreed to come, and Dr. Truett will return if he can so arrange his engagements as to come back to Franklin he has said.

A permanent and larger tabernacle is to be constructed, officials of the local Baptist church have announced. There has been some discussion of the community erecting such a tabernacle, to be used as a summer auditorium. While no definite steps in this direction have been taken, so far as can be learned, the Baptist church has definitely decided to build the tabernacle should it not be erected as a community affair.

The meeting that closed last Sunday night was the second held here by Drs. Truett and McConnell, these two noted divines having been here last summer. More than 40,000 people, from far and wide, were in attendance, it was conservatively estimated.

SUPERIOR COURT TO OPEN HERE MONDAY

The regular two-week term of Superior court for Macon County will open here Monday morning, with Judge W. F. Harding, of Charlotte, presiding, and Solicitor Grover Davis, of Waynesville prosecuting the criminal docket. The criminal docket is expected to be completed by Wednesday of next week.

On that docket are a number of liquor cases, among them being that in which James Palmer who has frequently acted as deputy sheriff, is charged with retailing liquor. The case of Kinsland vs. Kinsland, on the civil docket is of interest in that it has three times been taken to the Supreme court and each time that body has granted a new trial.
