Trotter's Money Raising Sale Continues

The continuation of my great sale, I am glad to state, has met with general approval as manifest by the eager buyers that visit my store each day.

I have just added to my stock a large assortment of new goods that arrived Monday. In making this replenishment I used great care as I wanted to buy just such goods as would meet the requirements of my customers. I, therefore, gladly extend this opportunity to my friends to come and share in the profits I am sacrificing in order that they may save on their necessities and at the same time benefit me, as it enables me to raise much needed money.

Over and above all, when you leave my store you owe nothing on your purchases and I have no extra expense in bookkeeping. At the beginning of the new year you will receive no unpleasant statements of accounts due.

Prompt attention and courteous treatment by all employees in my store will cause you to feel perfectly at home. May I again ask that you come and see what a good effect will be produced under the cash-as-you-buy plan?
