

Children's Founders Roll
Stone Mountain Memorial

The Children's Founders Roll of the Stone Mountain Memorial is a plan whereby the boys and girls of the South may have an important and distinctive part among the builders of the world's greatest monument.

It is composed of children up to eighteen years of age who contribute one dollar to the cost of the work, and is open to all within the age limit who are descended from Confederate soldiers.

Each child contributing one dollar receives a beautiful bronze medal designed by the Sculptor, Augustus Lukeman. On the front of the medal is a miniature reproduction of the grand starway of the magnificent Memorial Hall, to be quarried out of the breast of Stone Mountain immediately underneath the central group of sculpture. On the reverse side of the medal is a miniature reproduction of the figures of Jefferson Davis, Robert E. Lee, and Stonewall Jackson, which are now being carved on the mountain. In the top edge of the medal is a perforated slot, so that it can be worn as a watch fob or lavalier.

In addition to this very interesting token of membership in the Children's Founders Roll, the name of each child will be recorded in a great Book of Memory, which will be deposited upon an altar or within a vault especially provided for that purpose in Memorial Hall. Each name will be recorded upon a separate line, and with it will be recorded the address of the child, and the name of the Confederate soldier in whose memory the child's dollar was contributed. The child will receive a certificate showing the number of the page and the number of the line upon which his or her name was recorded.

The Book of Memory is being made to order for the Children's Founders Roll. The pages will be made of the most enduring parchment paper that science has devised. The names will be recorded with indelible ink, so that the record will endure for centuries.

The Children's Founders Roll has been endorsed in the highest terms by heads of patriotic, religious, fraternal and civic bodies; by educators, clergymen, editors and historians; by officials of the States and the United States. Many thousands of boys and girls all over the South and in nearly every State outside of the South have been enrolled as members without any organized solicitation, simply as a result of occasional newspaper publicity. The Stone Mountain Memorial Association is now conducting an organized, systematic campaign, in every Southern State, with the object of enrolling a million children.

Measured in dollars, what the boys and girls contribute will be very substantial. Measured in sentiment, it will transcend calculation, for it will represent a children's tribute to heroic ancestors without a parallel in the history of any people. It will link this majestic and beautiful monument, which shall forever perpetuate a glorious heritage, directly to the hearts of the coming generation, into whose custody it will be delivered, to be handed down by them to those who succeed them.

No men ever fought more bravely, or against greater odds, or for a purer cause, than the soldiers of the Confederacy. Their blood is in the veins of our sons and daughters, and our sacred duty is to raise them up in appreciation of that splendid inheritance.

To this shrine of memory, in the creation of which they are given a major part, they and their descendants through endless generations, so long as the story of their fathers is told, shall journey upon a pilgrimage of reconsecration to honor and duty and chivalry of soul.

A child may enroll in the Book of Memory the name of more than one Confederate ancestor, by paying out a separate enrollment blank for one dollar for each one enrolled, but in such cases there must be filled each, and the name of the child must appear upon each.

More than one child may memorialize the same Confederate ancestor, by paying one dollar for each one enrolled, but in such cases there must be filled out a separate enrollment blank for each, and the name of the child must appear upon each.

The Stone Mountain Memorial Association will supply enrollment blanks to Children's Founders Roll Chairmen in every county in the South, for widespread distribution through every available channel.

Selling Automobiles
Most Fascinating
Career for Women

"Selling automobiles is one of the most fascinating careers open to women. The work is interesting and involves less routine than most other professions. Success is dependent only upon the individual's ability and effort."

In these words Miss Jill Jeffreys, of Sidney, Australia, tells why she started selling motor cars two years ago and why she is today one of the leaders in this line in Australia. Her business and pleasure is selling Dodge Brothers cars for Standardized Motors, Ltd., Dodge Brothers dealers at Sidney.

Miss Jeffreys has had many interesting experiences and her observations are of special interest. Though she is brisk, young and attractive, she does not put much faith in personality. "It counts," she says, "but knowledge and training count as much or more."

Women are easier buyers than men, Miss Jeffreys has found. "They know what they like and what they don't like, even if their reasons sometimes cannot be understood except by a woman."

"Men are apt to regard a saleswoman with tolerant amusement at first. When that attitude is broken down she gets the same chance as anyone who knows their job but in most cases it is easier for a man to sell a man."

Miss Jeffreys does not agree with the old idea that women do not know their own minds. She says: "Members of our sex are accused of being indefinite but the chief thing I find about them is that they are much more definite than men."

She prefers, however, to work with men, for in her opinion "they are more tolerant and just, and are less given to interference than are women."

Like everything else, the business of selling automobiles has some disagreeable features, Miss Jeffreys admits. The first nine months in her new work were spent in arduous training. They were what she calls "dog days," but later they proved a wonderful foundation.

Although Miss Jeffreys was the second woman to take up such work in Australia, in the two years which have elapsed since she began, a number of women have obtained similar positions with various automobile firms.

HEALTH OFFICER IN TRANSYLVANIA

The Franklin League of Women Voters and other women's organizations here have suggested that Macon county should have a full-time county health officer. In this connection, the following news item in the Brevard News, indicative of some of the work to be performed by a county health officer, is of interest:

Dr. S. E. Buchanan, recently employed as county health officer, arrived in Brevard Tuesday morning to begin his work. If the first day's activities here are to be taken as any indication of the work to be done by him, then Dr. Buchanan will be one busy man in the future.

A call was awaiting Dr. Buchanan upon his arrival to come to Gloucester. It was reported that one man in that community is suffering from smallpox, and the community wanted to take all precautions against the spread of the hateful disease. Dr. Buchanan vaccinated forty people in the Gloucester community during his first day's work and in addition to that, examined a lady in another part of the county, recommended that she be taken to the state hospital at Morganton called Morganton officials and made arrangements for the woman's entrance into the state institution.

Dr. Buchanan, in talking with The News paid a glowing tribute to the people of Gloucester, and to the natural beauty of that section "Never in my life have I seen more wondrous natural beauty than the great community up there," Dr. Buchanan said, "and as to the people, they're simply fine. Nowhere in the state can be found a finer set of boys and girls, nor those with greater promises for the future than the children I saw in the Silversteen school," the doctor continued.

As yet no offices have been secured for Dr. Buchanan, but the authorities are busy preparing a place for him. In the meantime any one of the county desiring to see Dr. Buchanan will be assisted in locating him by calling at either of the drug stores or at The Brevard News office, or at any of the county in the court house.
