

COUNTY SCHOOLS OPENED MONDAY

Enrollment of 3,000—Franklin and Highlands Schools to Open in September—List of Teachers.

Fifty-four of the 56 schools in Macon county opened Monday morning, for an enrollment that is expected, when the figures are tabulated, to run close to the 3,000 mark. Teachers in these schools assembled here Saturday for a teachers' meeting, to receive supplies, and for instructions. The 56 schools are being taught by 88 teachers, or an average of one teacher to about 32 pupils, on a basis of estimated enrollment.

The two other schools—those at Highlands and Franklin—will open the first Monday in September, it was announced by County Superintendent M. D. Billings, just six weeks later than the country schools.

When these schools open, a total of between 3,500 and 4,000 school children will be enrolled in this county, it is estimated. Last year's enrollment of white children was 3,625.

The list of teachers, in the 54 country schools was made public last week by Mr. Billings. The 16 teachers for the Franklin school and the seven for the Highlands school will be announced later, he said. The list of teachers who began work Monday follows:

THE KITCHENKOOK

The KITCHENKOOK is a gas stove. It places the convenience of city gas service, with its speed and cleanliness, at the disposal of every home, no matter where located.

It has all the desirable features of city gas, with even greater cooking speed at lower cost.

KITCHENKOOK makes and burns its own gas from ordinary gasoline, producing a clear, blue flame which is entirely free of smoke, soot or odor, not only while new, but permanently.

Comparative tests show that the KITCHENKOOK produces more heat than city gas, that it is fifty to one hundred per cent faster than kerosene, and that the operating is less.
