Chas. Perry Ate Beans

Sitting directly opposite each other at the banquet table, some 90 Chevrolet dealers and salesmen of Western North Carolina dined, some sumptuously on a juicy turkey dinner, others far less sumptuously, and only on beans. This novel feast was held Tuesday night of last week at the George Vanderbilt Hotel in Asheville, and marked the culmination of the "turkey-bean" sales contest in which every person connected with the sale of Chevrolet cars in the United States has been engaged during the month of October.

Under the rules of the contest which pitted dealer against dealer, those winning the highest percentage of sales quota ate turkey, while those selling a lower percentage of quota during the month of October ate only beans, and paid for the winners' turkey. Good sportsmanship was shown throughout the affair, and bean eaters drew a high tribute from C. W. Luce, sales promotional manager for North Carolina. "Even though some dealers and salesmen are feasting on beans tonight, they deserve a great deal of praise. With only two or three exceptions, every dealer in North Carolina over-sold his October quota, which was set much higher than last year's sales, and so practically every person eating beans has made a record to be proud of. This fine individual work of dealers and salesmen enabled Chevrolet to deliver more cars in North Carolina in October than was possible during the three months of October (November and December combined last year," stated Mr. Luce.

Enthusiasm greeted the announcement that Chevrolet sales for the United States during October totaled 112,064 cars, the biggest single month from the standpoint of retail deliveries that Chevrolet has ever had. In North Carolina more than 4,200 units were sold.

Chevrolet dealers and salesmen from the following points attended the meeting: Tryon, Hendersonville, Brevard, Asheville, Marshall, Canton, Cullowhee, Franklin, Bryson City, Andrews, Murphy, Hickory, Newton, Lincolnton, Rutherfordton, Marion, Morganton, Lenoir, Burnsville, Spruce Pine, Boone, West Jefferson, Sparta, North Wilkesboro, Taylorsville.
