

COURT CONVENES NEXT MONDAY

Judge Moore to Preside—2
Murder Cases Scheduled—
Many Whiskey Cases—
Big Civil Docket.

Superior court of Macon county will convene next Monday with Judge Walter E. Moore of Sylva presiding and Solicitor Grover Davis of Waynesville looking after the interest of the state. Thirty-eight civil cases are docketed. The criminal docket is also large, there being 65 or 70 whiskey cases scheduled for trial and several cases of carrying concealed weapons. However, the cases in which the public is extremely interested are two murder cases, one of criminal assault and one of an affray. Allen Dills will go on trial for his life charged with the murder of Dave Waldrup last March. The death of Waldrup was the result of a neighborhood row caused by a dispute about a gate between the homes of Waldrup and Dills. Dills, Mrs. Dills and Mrs. Dills' brother, a man named Shope, had attacked and severely injured Waldrup's son. The testimony in the preliminary trial showed that when the elder Waldrup went to investigate the trouble he was shot through the heart by Dills. At the time of the shooting Shope escaped and has not yet been apprehended.

W. P. Martin will also go on trial for killing his son-in-law, Laney. This death was the result of a family row in which Martin claims that he shot in self defense.

The case of Potts and Holland charged by a seventeen-year-old girl with criminal assault will also come before Judge Moore next week.

Another case that has attracted considerable attention and which is scheduled for trial next week is an affray involving Charlie Oliver, Harry Shepherd and Cecil Holt. Holt, Shepherd and the latter's wife were held up some months ago on the Georgia road by Oliver and two deputies. Shepherd was bringing his wife
