

Is Hesperus Wreck
Picture the Equal Of Down to Sea In Ships?

Productions by Elmer Clifton Provoke
Controversy in Screen Circles

Does Elmer Clifton's latest production, "The Wreck of the Hesperus," eclipse his memorable picture, "Down to the Sea in Ships," which is regarded by many critics as probably the greatest sea picture ever filmed? Clifton established an enviable reputation as a director of sea pictures when he made "Down to the Sea in Ships." The stark realism of this picture, its beautiful photography and delightful romance won for the production a most favorable reception. "The Wreck of the Hesperus," Clifton's latest directorial effort, which comes to the Idle Hour theatre on Wednesday next, is an adaptation of Longfellow's immortal ballad of the same name. Harry Carr and John Farrow prepared the story for the screen. A colorful story of New England and her rugged sea-faring people, "The Wreck of the Hesperus" features Frank Marion, Virginia Bradford, Alan Hale, Ethel Wales and Sam De Grasse. Others in the cast are Josephine Norman, Milton Hollues, James Aldine and Budd Fine.

The Harvester by Gene Stratton-Porter To Show
At Franklin Soon

Great Cast Directed by Leo Meehan

"The Harvester," an FBO picture adapted for the screen from the late Gene Stratton-Porter's novel of the same name, comes to the Idle Hour theatre next Thursday and Friday with a cast of players who truly bring to life the characters of the book, so long familiar to a wide circle of readers.

Further adding to the realism of the picture is the fact that it was produced under the direction of Leo Meehan, who is the son-in-law of the author, and through familiarity with her ideas was enabled to select players who exactly typified the characters she had visualized.

Heading the cast, in the title role of The Harvester, is Orville Caldwell, who has alternated between screen and stage for the past seven years, and who is perhaps best known through his appearance for 2 1-2 years as the Knight, the leading male role in Morris Gest's great stage spectacle, "The Miracle."

Appearing opposite Caldwell in "The Harvester" is Natalie Kingston, formerly principal dancer at the Winter Garden in New York, lately featured opposite Harry Langdon in many pictures, and more recently seen as leading lady for Milton Sills.

Jay Hunt, veteran actor and director on both stage and screen, and well remembered for his playing of the title role in the screen version of "Lightnin'," appears as Dr. Carey, and the role of the brutal Jamison is in the hands of Will Walling, another veteran with a record of 37 years as an actor.

Other well known players who are members of "The Harvester" cast are Lola Todd, Edward Hearn and Fanny Midgley.

"King Of the Pack" Coming

"King of the Pack," the latest Greater Gotham production starring the wonderful police dog actor, "Peter the Great" is said to contain more novelties and thrills than any two previous dog pictures.

In the drama of the Kentucky hills, Peter does many unusual things, among which may be mentioned rescuing a girl from a cave full of burning alcohol, holding a rope while a woman descends the face of a steep cliff and many other feats requiring strength and intelligence far beyond the average dog.

The human actors supporting "Peter" include, Charlotte Stevens, Vera Lewis, Robert Gordon, Danny Hoy, Frank Norcross and others.

"King of the Pack" will be seen at the Idle Hour theatre, next Saturday night only.

Cody and Aaleen Pringle
In Their Third Comedy

Lew Cody and Aaleen Pringle are about to make their third co-starring appearance in films.

The two whimsical comedians have just completed their roles in "Wickedness Preferred," a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production, which is coming Monday and Tuesday to the Idle Hour theatre, and is said to be even funnier than "Adam and Evil" and "Tea for Three," in which they were co-starred last year.

The new picture is based on an original story by Florence Ryerson and Colin Clement, and deals with the romantic adventures of a flighty married man and the wife of an addle-brained young woman who wants to leave her own prosaic husband and elope.

The picture was directed by Hobart Henley and much of it was filmed against backgrounds of the famous caves of La Jolla, Calif., and the exclusive new hotel, Casa Manana.
