

NEW EINSTEIN THEORY MAY BE KEY TO SECRETS

Electricity, Magnetism Related to Gravity, He Believes—Planes May Fly With No Engines.

New York, Jan. 24.—The most fascinating field of experiment that could be opened to man lies behind Einstein's new theory that electricity and magnetism are related to gravitation, says Dr. H. H. Sheldon, head of the department of physics of New York University.

"Such things," said Dr. Sheldon, "as keeping airplanes aloft without engines or material support, as stepping out of a window into the air without fear of falling, or of making a trip to the moon, as far as hindrance of gravitation is concerned, are avenues of investigation suggested by this theory.

"For it gives us the one link that has been missing in our theories of relations of electricity, heat, energy, light, space, time, gravitation and matter. If it stands up as a proof that electricity and gravitation are virtually the same, we can attempt at last to insulate ourselves from the force of gravitation. We know how to insulate ourselves against electrical currents, and perhaps as we learn more, the day will come when it is no more unbelievable that we can insulate against gravitation than against the equally intangible effects of electricity.

Bar Of Permalloy

"Here on my desk is a striking illustration of the possibilities. It is a bar of permalloy, an alloy recently produced in the Bell Telephone laboratories here, and its new property is unusual sensitivity to magnetism. I place it above another magnet. See, it remains suspended seemingly by air alone, an inch above. The magnet on my desk. Thus far this force of magnetism is the only means we have found experimentally of balancing the force of gravitation. Now Einstein comes with a mathematical law which shows a relation between magnetism and gravitation, that we were not sure about heretofore, and

"It sounds incredible to speak on insulating ourselves from gravitation, yet the idea is, perhaps, not much more incredible than were those in some of the previous steps that one by one have linked together the tangible things, such as iron bars, to the intangibles such as electricity and force, and upon which all our useful inventions are built.

First Step

"The first step was realization that light and heat are related. That came early in the history of mankind. The others all are recent. As the second step Jules and Rumford showed that heat and energy (energy being another word for work) are related definitely by physical laws. That idea was almost wholly incredible for a time, though now all our engines are based upon that law. One by one were shown the interrelations of light, heat, energy, matter, space, time, gravitation and electricity, until the only factor missing was the specific relation between electricity and gravitation. This is what Einstein has given us."—Asheville Citizen.

Four-H Club Poultry Wins Forty-one Ribbons

The forty-two chickens owned by 4-H club members of Catawba county won 41 ribbons at the first national 4-H poultry show at the Madison Square Garden Poultry show in New York, January 16 to 20.

"It was practically a clean sweep for the birds we entered," says C. F. Parrish, poultry extension specialist at State College, who carried the birds to the show for the club members. "We were awarded 37 blue ribbons, three red ribbons and one third place by the judges. Three of the blue ribbons and the third ribbon were won in the open classes against all competitors while the remaining ribbons were won in the club show. Only three breeds were entered though several varieties of these three were selected and exhibited. I was surprised and gratified at the excellent results.

Dean I. O. Schaub said that this was the most complete winning ever made a national show by birds grown in North Carolina. For years, birds grown by Tarheel club boys and girls have been entered in the Garden show by the late Allen G. Oliver and a number of high places have been won but such a high percentage of wins out of the birds exhibited was never made before. It shows, says the Dean, that the young people on the farms in North Carolina are as good breeders and handlers of poultry as can be found in the nation. The birds entered this year were of the Wyandotte, Plymouth Rock and Leghorn breeds. All of them came from Catawba county and J. W. Hendricks, county agent, assisted Mr. Parrish in selecting the birds to be exhibited.

The poultry judging team from State College, entered in the intercollegiate contest, won fourth place as a team though two of the individuals won first places in some features of the contest.

IDLE FARM LAND PAYS NO RETURNS

Idle land, left to wash and erode, without being put in pastures, crops or trees is a burden to the owner and pays no returns.

"There are just three things that we can do with land, aside from the small amount that is used for roads, cities, buildings and other similar purposes—we can pasture it with livestock; we can cultivate it with crops or we can grow trees on it. When such land is not used for one of these three purposes, it is idle property on which some one must pay taxes at a loss," says R. W. Graeber, extension forester at State College. "At the present time, North Carolina has 1,500,000 acres of idle farm land and about four million acres of cut over, burned forest and waste lands. All of these acres can be made to produce."

Mr. Graeber suggests that these acres be put to woodlands which will be a savings bank for the farmer to realize on in future years. Small trees or seedlings for hand-planting a forest may be had from the state forest nursery for as little as $3 per thousand. These seedlings may be obtained by any landowner in the state and the late winter and early spring is the best time for planting such trees.

Many of the waste acres now found all over the state might be put to profitable use in this way, he says. When trees are planted, the idle land is made to work for the owner instead of against him. Mr. Graeber will be glad to assist any farmer in planning a farm forest. The county agents of the State College extension service can arrange demonstrations showing the best methods of planting these young trees and once a stand of seed trees is secured on an area, the whole acreage will soon be seeded. There are a number of excellent farm forests in the state that were started by handplanting several years ago and these forests are now paying the taxes on this land.

Valuable New Bulletins Available to Farmers

Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 29.—Ten new publications that will be of interest to farmers of North Carolina have recently been published by the experiment station and extension service at State College.

Each of these publications is available to readers of The Franklin Press on application to the agricultural editor.

All ten will receive prompt attention and the publication will be mailed as soon as possible.

The list is as follows:

- Bulletins
- No. 260—Systems of Livestock Farming For the Mountain Region of North Carolina.
- No. 261—Value of Lime on Cecil Loam Soil.
- No. 262—Value of Lime on Norfolk Sandy Loam Soil.
- Technical No. 33—Method For Measuring Drag of Cotton Fibers and the Relation of Physical Properties of the Fiber to Yarn Quality.
- Extension No. 173—Terracing Farm Lands.
- Extension Folder No. 8—Tobacco Plant Beds.
- Apromony Information Circulars
- No. 20—Results of Cotton Variety Demonstrations.
- No. 21—The Quality and Yield of Cotton as Influenced by Fertilizers and Soil Types.
- No. 22—New Fertilizer Materials and Their Uses.
- No. 23—Plan of Organization Used in the Community Improvement of Cotton in North Carolina.

The experiment station and extension service does not maintain a large mailing list of farmers to whom bulletins are sent. Most of the publications are distributed through the county agents or on request from individuals. But those who wish to have definite information on a particular subject should write for a publication dealing with the subject. The research workers and specialists have prepared and published a number of other valuable bulletins which may be had free of charge.

Dr. F. C. McConnell

Resolutions adopted by the First Baptist church of Franklin, N. C. Inasmuch as Dr. F. C. McConnell is well known to our members and much beloved in Franklin, at which place he preached during the Triennial McConnell meetings, and

Inasmuch as many of his relatives live among us, and regret with us his recent departure to be with the saints above;

Therefore be it resolved: 1. That we feel that the Baptist denomination has lost a great and good leader, a faithful preacher of the word of God, and an able advisor in its councils.

2. That we have lost a sincere friend and fellow-countryman. The people of this mountain region love and admire him for his modesty, Christian culture, and religious statesmanship.

He spoke very feelingly to our church on his last visit at the prayer meeting service. We little thought at the time it was the last time we would see him.

We send to his loved ones our deepest sympathy and Christian love. DR. H. T. HORSLEY, ALEX MOORE, FRANK I. MURRAY, HERMAN CHILDERS, W. M. LEE, Committee.

"SARGON BRINGS HAPPINESS TO US"

After 8 Years Suffering, Atlanta Woman Restored to Health—Husband Also Benefited.

"Sargon and Sargon Soft Mass Pills brought health and happiness into our home after I had suffered for eight long years, and proved as wonderful in my husband's case as in my own.

"My liver was out of order and I suffered with habitual constipation. My condition became badly rundown, and I was weak, nervous and irritable. I didn't have enough energy to do my housework. I would try and eat, but everything disagreed with me. Gas would form so bad I would loosen my clothes, trying to get comfortable. "For years I couldn't eat foods that contained starch or acid, and I had to give up meats entirely. I was in almost constant pain with sick headaches, and had frequent dizzy spells. I was always taking calomel but got only temporary relief.

"My husband was in about the same condition that I was. We decided to try Sargon. After the first bottle we knew we had found the right medicine.

"Think what it means to eat a good, hearty meal for the first time in eight years! That is what I do now, three times a day. I eat everything I want, without the least touch of indigestion. My liver is active again and my color is good. The sick headaches and dizzy spells are a thing of the past, and my general health has improved one hundred per cent. I sweep every room in the house now, every day, without tiring and feel like a different woman in every way.

"Sargon Soft Mass Pills have ended my constipation. They are the most wonderful laxative I have ever taken. They do their work thoroughly but without the least bit of gripe or nausea, something I can't say for any other laxative I ever took.

The above statement was made a few days ago by Mrs. Daisy Thompson, well known and highly esteemed resident of No. 6 Beck St., Atlanta.

Sargon may be obtained in Franklin from Perry's Drug Store. Adv.
