

LA ROCQUE DEVOTED AVIATION CONVERT

Popular Star War Flyer in Film "Captain Swagger"

Rod La Rocque is one of the newest converts to the sport of aviation. The Pathe star learned to fly for his role of an aviator in "Captain Swagger," which presents the popular young actor as a wartime member of the Lafayette Escadrille.

So much did he enjoy his several flights during the making of the picture that Rod is studying stunt flying under the tutelage of a well known aviator. Rod prophesies that the time is not far distant when airplanes will be as universally owned as automobiles are now.

"Captain Swagger," will be shown at the Macon Theatre on Friday next. Sue Carol has the leading feminine role opposite Rod, with Victor Potel, Ulrich Haupt and Richard Tucker playing other important characterizations. E. H. Griffith directed "Captain Swagger," which was produced for Pathe by Hector Turnbull.

Vivid Drama of Air Has Novarro at Head of Cast

Thrills of naval aviation form a spectacular background for "The Flying Fleet," Ramon Novarro's new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer vehicle playing Monday and Tuesday at the Macon Theatre. Novarro plays a young flying officer in a vivid drama of the airmen of the sea. Sensational reviews, battle practice, a rescue at sea with a burning airplane as a beacon, and other sensational evolutions, with hundreds of navy planes in the air, are among the thrills.

Most of the picture was filmed in the air and aboard the navy's great airplane carrier ships. George Hill, director of "Tell It to the Marines" and "The Cossacks," directed the new production, in which a notable cast appears. Anita Page, noted for her work in "The World," "While the City Sings" and other plays, is the heroine, and Gardner James, famous in "Hell in Heaven," Ralph Graves, "Blarney," Eddie Nugent, Carr Summer Gatchell and many others of note are in the cast.

The navy's famous "suicide squadron" stages sensational stunts in the air for the picture, and many famous navy aviators are seen in the air "shots."
