WANTED—GASOLINE

Monday night while Chief Henry was patrolling the street he discovered two young men who gave their names as Sellers and Young, taking gasoline from an automobile parked on the street. The Chief very promptly took charge of the boys and gave them lodging in the jail. The next morning these youngsters were taken before Mayor Patton who allowed them to pay the cost, $4.80 and depart. These boys claimed to be students of the University of Kentucky.

MADDOX FORCED TO QUIT BUSINESS

"Sargon put me in better health than I have been in two years. I have gained 9 pounds, and feel full of new energy. Sargon brought these wonderful benefits after I had been forced to quit business on account of bad health."

V. S. MADDOX

"I was a strong healthy man until two years ago, then I began to suffer with indigestion and nausea, and my appetite failed. I couldn't sleep well on account of nervousness. I was cross and irritable and sick headaches were frequent."

"I had bad bilious attacks, and was so constipated I had to take calomel, castor oil, and enemas. My system was full of poisons and a rash broke out all over my body. My whole system was run-down."

"Since taking Sargon I have a splendid appetite and eat anything I want without a sign of indigestion. My nerves are steady and I sleep like a child. The bilious attacks and constipation have disappeared and all poisons have been driven out of my system. The rash has cleared and I never have headaches now."

"Sargon restored my health after every other medicine failed. It strengthened my whole system, and put me in shape for work again. I cannot say too much for this wonderful medicine."

The above statement was made by V. S. Maddox, 580 Seminole Ave., N. E., Atlanta. He was in the retail grocery business for many years. Sargon may be obtained in Franklin at Perry's Drug Store.—Adv.

Some Suggestions For People on Vacation

Most North Carolina people take their annual vacations some time during the months of July and August. This not only applies to the well-to-do in the leisure class and the office workers and job holders in general, but to the large farm population of the State, as well. In short, the roads of this state are crowded practically every day during July and August with every known type of automobile loaded to capacity with happy folks, and their baggage, off on a trip. This is a fine procedure because it enables people to become acquainted with their fellow citizens in other counties. It also enables the people of one section of the State to learn something of the manners and customs of living of the people of the other sections of the State. There are a few precautions, however, if the happiness is to be maintained throughout the trip, and safety as well as happiness follow the return home. Some of the precautions we would like to mention may be enumerated as follows:

For those who camp by the roadside or in one of the many places set aside for tourists camping, the available water supply should be carefully scrutinized, and unless it is of known and proved purity, the drinking water should be boiled at least three minutes before drinking. When there are children along who are susceptible to any one of the various communicable diseases, careful inquiry should be instituted when other children are found in the camp, perhaps coming from a far distant section of the country. If there is any danger of exposure, the party should move on or keep the children entirely separated. This precaution also applies to the travelers who stop in hotels and at the different resorts. The food consumed in the tourists camps or along the roadside should be carefully chosen. This applies particularly to milk. Milk is one of the finest foods for roadside consumption, especially for children, but unless the supply can be obtained from high class dairies or pasteurized milk in some of the towns, while passing through, it would be much safer and better to purchase some of the various brands of dry or evaporated, unsweetened milk. The dry milk, when prepared according to directions, affords a palatable substitute for fresh milk, and it is absolutely safe when taken from the can and prepared with clean retains its antiscorbutic value and is therefore a safe and reliable food product for vacationists when away from their regular dairy home supply. Dry milk water of known purity.
