ART EXHIBIT HELD
BY TRAINING DEPT
ELICITS COMMENT
The art exhibit being held by the teachers' training department of the Franklin high school this week is attracting many visitors, and is eliciting the praise of all spectators. This splendid collection of 150 fine prints reproduced directly from the originals is said to be the most artistic exhibit ever displayed here. The originals of these are in the most famous art galleries of the world.

The exhibit was arranged by Miss Helen Burch, director of the teachers' training department, and is open to the public from three to five o'clock each afternoon this week.

Our Service

Is Unfailingly Dependable

We take professional pride in our dependability for prescription work. People come miles to have a prescription filled here because they know it will be carefully done by registered pharmacists of long experience. Ours is a drug store in the good old sense of the word—and our prices on prescriptions are now, as always, as low as possible.

ent state administration. Our farmers not only put their main reliance in crops; they put most of their annual investment in growing crops for sale—cash crops. The live-at-home idea would supplement these cash crops with more consumption of food and feed crops, and it would supplement crop farming itself with a larger amount of livestock and livestock products.

The school students should become acquainted with the agricultural conditions existing in their own section. One reason why they should understand the importance of the live-at-home program is that they can help secure good will of their parents and neighbors for this movement, through understanding the idea themselves and through discussing it with their parents and asking questions about it.

School children should become interested in this movement and should become informed about it at once, because if the live-at-home program is to become as helpful in this state as many of us believe it may, it should be put into effect this year—1930.

The Small Start

IN BASEMENT or attic many a thriving business of today has had its origin. A humble beginning—but careful management and financing have carried it on to success.
