

JUDGE THOMAS L. JOHNSON

Was born at Leicester, Buncombe county, and lived there till he began the practice of law in Lumberton 23 years ago. His kinspeople are scattered over several of the mountain counties.

He worked his way through Mars Hill College and Wake Forest college, and is essentially a selfmade man.

For 15 years he was chairman of the Board of Education of Robeson county, resigning in 1925 to accept a nomination by acclamation to the state senate. Was author of the present State Banking Act. In 1928 was nominated again to the state senate and elected. Was unanimously elected president of the senate of 1929. Was the author of the School Bill passed by that session and author of the Australian Ballot law. At the close of the session he was appointed by Governor as a judge of the superior court, which office he now holds.

Judge Johnson will be a candidate for governor in the next gubernatorial primary.

Being a product of the mountains, it is expected that the people of the mountain counties will largely support his candidacy.
