

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES and COMINGS AND GOINGS

Mrs. T. S. Munday Entertains at Bridge

An enjoyable affair of the past week was the bridge party and tea given by Mrs. T. S. Munday last Saturday at the Munday hotel in celebration of the 70th birthday of her mother, Mrs. M. A. Rowell, and also honoring Mrs. John Awtry, who recently returned here after spending the winter in Florida. Ten tables of bridge were in play. Spring flowers added their fragrance and beauty to the rooms used for the games.

Mrs. W. A. Rogers was winner of high score prize, while the prize for low score went to Mrs. J. W. Roper. Mrs. J. S. Conley cut for the consolation gift.

The honor guests, Mrs. M. A. Rowell, of Manchester, Ga., Mrs. John Awtry, of Franklin, but recently returned from Cullowhee, received lovely guests prizes.

The hostess served delicious refreshments at the conclusion of the games.

Winners in Camel Contest To Be Announced Shortly

Barth Hopkins was taken to State's Prison at Raleigh last Saturday with a broken nose suffered in a futile attempt to escape from the Macon county jail the night before. Loyd Burgess, negro, who joined Hopkins in a mad dash for freedom, succeeded in evading capture and is still at large.

The two men were quartered on the second floor of the jail. Hopkins, in some manner, prized the lock from his cell door and then broke open the door to Burgess' cell. When Jailer W. M. Edwards, bringing the two their supper, pushed open the heavy iron trap door at the top of the stairs from the lower floor, the prisoners dived headlong over his head, scrambled to their feet and dashed from the jail.

'REDUCING' TO OPEN WEEK AT MACON THEATRE

Marie Dressler and Polly Moran will be seen at the Macon theatre starting Monday in "Reducing," their second co-starring comedy.

From all reports this picture duplicates the success of their earlier laugh feature, "Caught Short." The principal scenes are laid in a beauty parlor, which gave Director Charles Riesner all sorts of opportunities to get laughs out of the attempts of obese ladies to get thin and underweight ones to add a few pounds.

It is said that electrical reducing and exercising machines, permanent hair wavers, mud baths, steam rooms and a variety of other beauty appliances all play their part in making this comedy one of the funniest produced at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios.

Information is that the picture also has its share of dramatic moments built about the double romances of Anita Page and William Bakewell and Sally Eilers and William Collier, Jr. This permits Miss Dressler to give moviegoers another characterization in the vein of her recent success, "Min and Bill." The cast is further augmented by the presence in a featured role of Lucien Littlefield, who lends his inimitable comedy talents to the part of Miss Dressler's mail-carrier husband.

Mrs. Gnaggs—Before we were married you used to say you could listen to my voice for ever.

Mr. Gnaggs—Well, at that time I had no idea I'd ever have to do it.
