BY REV. NORVIN C. DUNCAN

For the past two weeks the writer has been engaged in conducting Teaching Missions on the great Commission, a movement in the Province of Sewanee to deepen the spiritual life of our people, and to arouse vision in regard to the great program of extending the Kingdom of God. I have come in contact with many others who were engaged in the same work, and have gained much help and inspiration. But the finest of all the addresses which I have heard came from a layman. It was chock full of facts, clearly and forcefully stated, and giving a true and comprehensive appraisal of the condition of the world today. He pointed out the forces which have brought about the present condition and declared that the only way to meet the situation was to

Thanksgiving Rites Conducted at Coweta

All-day services were held at Coweta Baptist church Thanksgiving Day.

Opening services were conducted by J. H. Shook, with the reading of the 23rd Psalm, followed by song service which continued until noon. Then followed a reading by Rev. Keen, from Dillard, Ga., who turned the services over to Rev. Eugene Eller of Franklin. After prayer Rev. Eller read the 103rd Psalm, bringing to our hearing a very interesting message concerning the Every-Member canvass for the support of Christ's cause in the world.

An offering was taken for the support of the orphan children, which amounted to $11.50.

Dinner was served on the ground. After dinner a special song was rendered by a male quartet composed of John Holt, John Angel, Verral Siles and Nath Chastee.

Mrs. Eller then made a very interesting talk on "Stewardship," also telling us of the many ways in which we can be useful in Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. work.

Rev. Keen was then heard in a comparison of our free privilege of worshiping God today with our forefathers in the long ago who were greatly abused in their struggle to hold up the cause of Christ. He made many facts plain to us why we should be thankful for the free privilege of worship we now have as well as many other facts such as forgetfulness toward those who are in a more needy condition than we.

Rev. A. S. Solesbee closed the service in a very few words. Reminding us that in the long ago people forgot God, his work and his mercies just as they are doing today.

We wish to thank every one for their good behavior, the preparation of the food, and their presence in the church of God.
