

Mead Has Broad and Liberal Policy For Re-employing Vets

The Mead Corporation, Paper Maker to America, has issued a beautifully printed booklet from its home office at Chillicothe, Ohio, setting forth the policy and procedure for the reintegration of servicemen returning to hourly rated jobs in their various plants, including the Sylva Division.

It is the policy of the Corporation to provide for the orderly reintegration of servicemen into the organization who were employees of the firm before they went into service. It is their policy to return the veteran to his former job, or provide a job which will enable him to engage in job activities while adjusting to, or recovering from a service disability, or assist the veteran in securing the additional medical care to which he is entitled as provided for by the Veterans Administration.

In the event a promotion has been given that the veteran would have been entitled to try for he will be returned to his former job for a period of not less than ninety days to become acclimated to the work. At the end of the period of acclimation, if it is the opinion of Management he is qualified, he will be promoted, in accordance with the seniority plan in effect at the time of his return, to the job he would have been entitled to try for had he been present.

When a serviceman, who is a former employee of the Corporation receives his discharge, the first step he should take after visiting home is to contact the selective service board showing that he has been properly discharged. He then visits the company and is interviewed by a plant representative and reviews Mead's policy for reintegration. Following this he is given a physical examination and then welcomed back into actual job duties.

AAA Committeemen To Be Elected November 30

Jackson County farmers will take time out from seasonal work on November 30 to elect AAA community committeemen for the coming year. Three community committeemen and two alternates, as well as a delegate to the county convention, will be elected in each community in the county. The delegates will later elect the three-man committee which will administer AAA activities within the county.

"The problems of reconversion require the best farm leadership," D. C. Higdon said, "and if the present committeemen are measuring up to their jobs, then farmers should turn out and give them a lot of confidence. If new blood is needed, farmers have an equal duty to elect the best leaders available."

In Jackson County, Mr. Higdon said, approximately 2300 farmers are eligible to vote for committeemen this year. Eligible farmers are those who participated in the 1945 agricultural conservation or crop insurance program.

"Solution of the postwar problems ahead of us is the vital concern of every farmer. Consequently, it is to his own best interest to vote in the coming elections—to make sure that the men administering AAA programs in the county are the ones he wants to represent him."

Watch next week's paper for announcements of time and place for each community election.
