STATE COLLEGE HINTS TO FARM HOMEMAKER

By RUTH CURRENT
N. C. State College

Commercially canned tomatoes have been scarce on grocers' shelves for some time, and the size of next season's commercial pack is uncertain. Homemakers should can only perfect, ripe tomatoes. Speed them from garden to jar. If buying, choose tomatoes grown nearby and still garden-fresh.

If a boiling water bath canner is lacking, a practical canner may be contrived from a wash boiler or other large, clean, deep vessel with a good lid with perforations. Place a rack in it to hold the jars so that they will not touch bottom. Make a lattice rack of wood, if necessary. Water must boil all around, under, and over every jar.

Prepare tomatoes this way: Scald for easy peeling. Remove stem ends, peel, quarter. Bring tomatoes to a rolling boil, stirring as tomatoes heat in their juice. Pack clean, hot jars with hot tomatoes and add a teaspoon salt to each quart. Cover with hot juice to within one-half inch of top. Adjust jar lid, according to its type. Read directions that come with tops.

Process or heat in the boiling water bath canner—this way. Heat pint or quart jars of tomatoes in the bath of boiling water for 10 minutes. For dependable, detailed directions on home canning of all kinds of fruits and vegetables, write the Agricultural Editor, State College, Raleigh, for a copy of "Canning Fruits and Vegetables," Circular No. 271.

Dishes and ordinary family glasses washed with soap and rinsed in hot water can very well be left to drain dry, saving a considerable amount of the homemaker's time. Silver must be towelled dry, and fine glassware to be clear also needs towelling. Be sure your dish towels are clean and dry. Soggy, soiled towels are bacteria breeders and can easily contaminate dishes.

Clinic Will Be Held At Cashiers September 5

Dr. Mary Michal, head of the District Health department, advises this week that she will be at the Cashiers clinic on the morning of September 5.

She will be at the county office in Sylva that afternoon.

Sees Rocket War

CHIEF of the Navy's guided missile section in Washington, Capt. Stedman Teller envisions the next war as a Flash Gordon type, with pilotless rockets carrying atomic warheads thousands of miles an hour to "sniff out" targets. He declared the Navy has weapons now which were unimaginable a few years ago. (International Soundphoto)

HIGDON URGES USE OF COVER CROPS

D. C. Higdon, chairman of the Jackson county AAA, urges all farmers of this county to seed their entire cropland in some winter cover crop.

The chairman stated that setting out a cover crop is very important this year due to the scarcity of food and feed products throughout the entire world, and the responsibility of America in feeding the starving peoples of the world. Higdon declared that each acre needs a cover crop this winter in order to conserve the resources of the soil and to make it more productive next year.

The county AAA is now in position to furnish Austrian pea seed, crimson clover and grass seed.

FORMATION OF BAND AT SCHOOL TO BE DISCUSSED TONIGHT

W. H. Crawford, principal of Sylva High school, announced yesterday that there will be a meeting tonight at 7:30 at the high school of all citizens interested in helping to form a school band.

"We have an opportunity here in the fact that the college at Cullowhee is willing to offer 2,000 dollars toward the salary of a music instructor, who would teach here and at Cullowhee," Mr. Crawford revealed, "provided that we pay the other 1,000 dollars."

Church Of God Revival To Begin August 26

James Sanders, evangelist, will be present at the Church of God revival to be held in the Hayes Wike building just above Dick's gap bridge above Cullowhee on Highway 107, beginning August 26, at 7:30 p.m.

Meetings will be held each night

Strike—At Whom?

Financial reports make interesting reading to people who know even a little bit about what they mean. To some, they look drab because they are printed mainly in figures; many students never have learned to enjoy studying figures. Just the same, dull old numerals tell the truth in a romantic way to those who love cold facts of struggle and adventure.

Late in May it was my good fortune to have with me an annual report of one of America's largest corporations when I had to spend three hours on a day train. In the back of my mind as I rode along, was a lurking fear that I might reach home a day (maybe a week) late because of labor troubles, just then coiling to strike. My dread threw a bright light on the figures in hand.

Division of Wealth

The company about which I was reading plays an important part in the lives of more than a quarter of a million people: 100,000 employees and 150,000 stockholders. Two out of every five of these people drew wages while three out of five received dividends. The average share owner got less than $500 a year. The average employee took home more than $2,500 a year.

Daily newspapers for days had reported threats of strikes in the plants of the firm I was studying, also on the lines of the railroad I was riding, and in many other industries. Question: If all the employees of all the companies strike for what they want and get it, who will pay the difference? How will they pay it? These questions have answers and they're not secrets.

Enter Apple Conductor

The train stopped for a few minutes under the shed of a big town station and a railway newsboy came through with fresh afternoon papers. On page one, under Washington date-line, a wire story told how OPA would grant higher prices on automobiles. Nearby was another item about a 10% boost in shoe prices. Then I remembered that bread and milk and meat all had gone up recently.

Whenever you have to walk or only eat, the price gains catch you. Wages are the cost of every manufactured thing, and the consumer pays. It is too obvious to deserve proof. Not long ago officialdom was sounding off freely about how wages in Detroit could be boosted without charging higher prices for automobiles but it didn't work out that way. Why?

Strikes Are Weapons

It is because strikes are not tools. The official theory was right: Wages can go up without boosting prices but production has to be increased if it happens, and strikes don't increase production. Sudden wage increases of 18% to 30% have to come from somewhere, but where? A stockholder drawing $500 a year can't offer much of a boon to a $2,500 wage earner.

Strikes can't take something from the owners of a company that the owners don't get. That leaves nobody to pay the higher wages but Mr. Consumer whose family drives the car, wears the shoes and eats the food. A large majority of consumers are themselves workers. In the absence of increased production, a strike is a boomerang. It hits the consumer who is the worker himself.

for two weeks, and the public is invited to attend.

32 TURN OUT FOR GRIDIRON PRACTICE

Thirty-two Sylva High grid specialists turned out for the first practice session of the season last Monday night at the school field. Coach Guy Sutton, replacing Leonard Huff, who resigned last week, said: "Prospects look good, but we have some heavy games on schedule."

Outstanding returnees from last year's squad include Jimmy Nicholson, Ben Sumner, Hal Wilson and Kent Coward. Four of the practice squad are ex-G.I.s.

Beginning Monday, Coach Sutton announced, football practice will be held every school day afternoon.

The first game on tap for the Hurricanes will be the match with Hayesville here September 13, to be sponsored by the Sylva Lions club.

BUMGARNERS HAVE FAMILY REUNION

Nine children, eighteen grandchildren and two great grandchildren were present Sunday to help Mr. and Mrs. Coleman Bumgarner celebrate their 74th and 72nd birthdays. This is the 21st annual reunion of the family, held each year on the Sunday near their father's birthday. A bountiful picnic dinner was served.

The children attending were Lee Bumgarner and wife, Mrs. Dave Dillard and Mr. Dillard, Natan Bumgarner and wife, Walter Bumgarner, Charlie Bumgarner and Mrs. Bumgarner, Mrs. Clifford Cagle, Frank Bumgarner and Mrs. Bumgarner and Miss Pearl Bumgarner of Sylva and Mrs. Hal Keener of Brevard.

Old Field, Dills Cemeteries To Be Decorated Saturday
