How to Wrap Christmas Packages NOTHING brightens up the Christmas scene quite as much a wide variety of colorfully wrapped gift packages. If you save, during the year, bits of ribbon and unusual pieces of bright paper, your holiday gifts will cause a great deal of comment.

One quick and easy source of colorful wrappings is wall paper. If you have no roll ends of paper saved from house refurbishing, start a "bank" of wrapping material by purchasing several rolls of inexpensive wall paper at the local paint shop.

Some years ago we had a waxing seal made for use at Christmas. It carries a holiday greeting and our names. After wrapping a package we put a piece of red ribbon around the center and held it in place with a dab of hot green sealing wax carrying the seal impression.

Don't be afraid to do the unusual when wrapping gifts. Sometimes it's fun to camouflage the contents to keep the recipient guessing until the last minute. A narrow packs go can be rolled in paper that extends several inches beyond the ends, then pull the excess together at each end like the top of a sack, with a bright bow of ribbon. The same technique can be used with a square squat package, by voor the bottom in regular fashien, then putting a "sack top" on it with ribbon or cord.

WAA officials in sponsoring the vet retail store or counter idea assert that nothing being sold is in long enough supply to offer serious competition to any merchant and that everything chosen for sale is what is most needed to meet the desires of the veterans. In many cases, items offered could not normally be afforded by the veteran at regular retail store prices.
