RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT IN HONOR OF PROFESSOR EDGAR HERMAN STILLWELL

History furnishes repeated examples in the experiences of men wherein their most cherished interests rooted in the common heart of their immediate groups or communities are deeply affected by losses or sorrows. Happiness can not go unbroken, and joys are constantly being checked by incidents of saddening effect. Society is thus constantly reminded of the mutability of life and therefore of the conditions that give form and character to its various human spheres of interest.

This great truth has been especially impressed upon the community, the churches, the college, and other like groups at Cullowhee within these recent weeks. In the death of Professor Edgar Herman Stillwell a particular far-reaching sorrow has fallen like a pall on the hearts of an unusually large number of people. It is, therefore, in a moment of solemn reminiscence that we, as fellow members of one common group in which the major portion of his life's energies were spent, now pause to pay this special tribute, inadequate though it be in its expression of the honor due him:

WHEREAS, for more than forty years E. H. Stillwell was a member of the faculty of Western Carolina Teachers College, sharing in the history of its growth through numerous well-marked stages fraught with hardships and discouragements as well as with rich and happy moments of success; and

WHEREAS, during his service as a teacher in the College he exemplified so nearly completely all the essential qualities of a great teacher—genuine scholarship, profound enjoyment in the applied art of teaching, love of his subject, sympathy and respect for and understanding of his students, broadmindedness and integrity in the infinite relationships within the classroom, faithfulness to duty, fidelity to the established standards of his profession; and

WHEREAS, in the religious life of his community, he set an enviable example as Chairman of the Board of Deacons of the Baptist Church, teacher of the College Sunday School Class, founder of the Joint Methodist and Baptist Wednesday Night Bible Study Class, clerk and historian of the church, Sunday School Superintendent, and liberal benefactor to church endeavors; and

WHEREAS, in the intricate relationships with his fellow-teachers and with those in administrative authority, his every act was marked with a spirit of unselfishness and a true regard for the rights and wishes of others; and

WHEREAS, he found time to devote his services to public speaking to civic and religious groups, and to the arduous task of an author and writer of numerous historical data concerning his native mountain region; and

WHEREAS, the life and character of the deceased was such as to command the love and respect as well as to merit the emulation of all who knew him—therefore be it

RESOLVED, that in the sense of all who knew Professor Edgar Herman Stillwell, not only in all the local organizations of his home community in which he labored, but throughout the entire State, in which his services were so effectively rendered, that in his death a great loss has been suffered both by individual friends and by society in general; that, because of this peculiar consciousness of loss, copies of this resolution be committed for permanent preservation, (1) to the Secretary of the Faculty of Western Carolina Teachers College, (2) to the Secretary of the College Board of Trustees, and (3) to the College Librarian; moreover, that copies be sent to the Sylva Herald for publication and to the immediate family of the deceased, in token of the love, respect, and esteem toward him held by those who are thus seeking to honor him.
