

LEGION WILL PICK BEAUTY QUEEN AT JUNE CONVENTION

CAROLINA BEACH, May 12—Approximately 40 of the loveliest girls in Tar Heel will compete for the title of "Miss North Carolina American Legion" and the beautiful $500 summer wardrobe that goes with it during the State Legion convention at Carolina Beach June 14, 15, 16 and 17, Convention Chairman W. L. Farmer announced here this week.

Legion posts already grooming their local beauties for the pageant and contest, which take place Sunday afternoon, June 15, on the resort strand, include those at Acme-Delco, A-Neboro, Beaufort, Belmont, Benson, Biscoe, Bolton, Carolina Beach, Elizabethtown, Fayetteville, Goldston, Greenville, Hertford, Hickory, Hiwassee Dam, Huntersville, Lexington, Raleigh, Shalotte, Warsaw, Wilmington, Wilson and Winston-Salem.

Music for the parade of pulchritude will be played by the Second Marine Division band of Camp Lejeune. That night the Legion Queen and her two Maids of Honor will be feted at the Coronation Ball in the resort's Ocean Plaza ballroom before an audience of several thousand. Judge Henry Stevens of Warsaw, past national commander of the American Legion, has been invited to be master of the coronation ceremonies.

A gift from Taylor's department store of Raleigh, the top award will send the Legion Queen on a grand and uninhibited shopping tour for $500 worth of the summer clothing of her dreams. She will wear the wardrobe later in the summer during a seven-day vacation for herself and her chaperone at Carolina Beach, with Carolina Beach American Legion Post 272 footing the vacation bill.

A $150 diamond ring from the Jewel Box of Wilmington and Greensboro will grace the hand of the Queen's first Maid of Honor. The second Maid of Honor will go $150 worth of beautiful airplane luggage.

STATE COLLEGE ANSWERS TIMELY FARM QUESTIONS

QUESTION: What causes hens to lay rough shelled eggs?

ANSWER: Prof. Roy S. Dearstyne, head of the Poultry department at State College, says the formation of egg shells is dependent on the calcium, phosphorus, and vitamin D obtained through the diet of the bird. The rough shells are due to uneven distribution of calcium and water throughout the shell and differences in the size of the shell pores. Probably heredity has little to do in this case, but a bird laying such an egg usually will lay similar eggs throughout its life.

QUESTION: Where can I obtain blueprints of bee hives and frames?

ANSWER: Your Extension Service county farm agent has been supplied with these plans and he will be glad to help you. If his supply has been distributed, you may write to Prof. David S. Weaver, care of the Agricultural Engineering Department at State College. Blueprint of other farm needs are also obtainable through this service.

QUESTION: When is the proper time to cut alfalfa for hay?

ANSWER: According to E. R. Collins, in charge of Agronomy Extension at State College, alfalfa should be cut in early blossom stage (about 1-4 flowers open) as the greatest yield per acre of protein is obtained when the alfalfa is cut at this stage. Cutting too early weakens the plants, and delayed cutting results in excessive shedding of the leaves.

At least three and in most cases four cuttings can be made each season. The last cutting should be early enough to allow the alfalfa to make 6 to 10 inches of new growth before the first killing frost. This fall growth period is necessary in order for the alfalfa to store enough food in the roots for winter survival and vigorous growth the following spring.

PROSECUTE 167 FOR VIOLATION OF GAME LAWS

One hundred sixty-seven game law violators were prosecuted in the 18 Western North Carolina counties during April, Tom Rollins, division supervisor of the state division of game and inland fisheries, revealed today.

The majority of the violators escaped with court costs but seven defendants in fish dynamiting cases paid mandatory fines of $100, he reported.

The greater percentage of cases involved fishermen fishing without a license or violating closed season regulations.

Warden Bart Cope of Sylva was credited with 26 arrests and convicted in the state during the Bagwell, Jr., of Asheville arrested 19 violators.

A total of 593 violators were convicted in the state during the month.
