versity and obtained his Masters degree from the University of North Carolina. For ten years he served as principal of the Junior and Senior high schools at Fayetteville, N. C.

Mrs. W. B. Harrill will be an instructor in Home Economics. She acquired her Bachelor and Master's degrees from Woman's College at Greensboro. She has been teaching in Winston-Salem for the past two years. Mrs. Harrill will replace Miss Phyllis Cagle who has resigned.

Ernest Russell McConnell will replace Fred Friese as instructor in physical education and assistant coach. His undergraduate work was completed at Davidson College and Geneva College, New York. Recently he received his Master's degree at the University of North Carolina. After some teaching and coaching experience in upper New York state, he was a teacher and coach in the high school at Spartanburg, S. C., for eight years. While at Chapel Hill, he served on Coach Guy Snavely's coaching staff. During the war Mr. McConnell was commissioned as a lieutenant in the Navy.

W. Glenn Ruff of Independence, Kansas, has been named associate professor of music. He now holds the degree of Bachelor of Science in Music from State Teachers College, Ft. Hays, Kansas, the Master of Music Education degree from the University of Kansas, and at present is doing additional work toward his doctorate. Mr. Ruff's experience was gained in the public schools, at Independence Junior College, Missouri State College, Hendrix College, Arkansas, and at the University of Kansas.

Mr. Clayton Curtis of Pittsfield, Mass., has been designated as assistant professor in the Modern Language Department. He holds a Bachelor of Arts degree from Boston and a Master of Arts degree from Middlebury College, Middlebury, Vt. Mr. Curtis served over three years in the army. Most of that time was spent with a communications squadron in Brazil.

Rodney L. Leftwich of Ferguson, Mo., will become associate professor of Industrial Arts. After receiving his B.S. and M.A. degrees from George Peabody College, Nashville, Tenn., he continued with graduate work at the University of Oklahoma and at the University of North Carolina. Most of his experience has been gained through public schools. Mr. Leftwich has taught industrial arts in the Greenville high school, Greenville, N. C., Highland Heights high school, Nashville, Tenn., Ferguson high school, Ferguson, Mo. During the war he was in the Naval Air Technical Training Center at Norman, Okla.

Mr. Gerald Eller, a graduate of WCTC, becomes an instructor in biology. He has been attending the University of North Carolina where he hopes to complete requirements for his Master's degree soon.

Several teachers who were here last year will not return for the coming year. The late E. H. Stillwell had been a teacher at WCTC for forty years. At the time of his death he was head of the History and Social Science Department. He was the author of a book on the history of North Carolina.

Dr. W. A. Ashworth recently resigned as head of the Business Education department to take up a similar position at State Teachers College in Florence, Ala. He became a member of the faculty here in 1939.

Miss Laura Jean McAdams came to Cullowhee as associate professor of modern languages in the fall of 1937. After completing her requirements for her doctorate at the University of Kentucky recently, she will be employed at State Teachers College in Florence, Ala., as head of the Modern Language department.

W. Newton Turner, associate professor of geology, will be away on a leave of absence. He will go to the University of North Carolina on a fellowship to continue work on his doctorate.

Fred E. Freise, graduate of Boston University, came to the college last year as an instructor in physical education and assistant coach. He found it necessary to sever his connections with the college and return to Massachusetts.

Mrs. Anne Bird Engman served the past year as instructor in psychology. She will be employed in the English department of State College, where her husband will

WAYNESVILLE RADIO STATION NOW ON AIR 6:30 A.M. TO 11: P.M.

Initial Broadcast Made On Sunday P. M.; Reception Good In Jackson County

The radio station nearest Jackson County—WHCC went on the air Sunday afternoon with the initial broadcast, and came in clear and strong in Sylva and surrounding territory.

The station is in Waynesville, but the programs are being designed to cover this entire area and will be of interest to all Western Carolina. One feature of particular interest to Jackson county farmers will be the WHCC farm program, which will feature the work of the State Test farm near Waynesville.

A wide variety of programs have been arranged and will be presented daily from 6:30 a. m. until 11 p. m. The station operates on 1400 kilocycles.

The management of the station have told Sylva civic leaders that they will be glad to broadcast matters of general interest originating from here. Several tentative programs are under consideration.

The station is modern in every detail, and equipment of the latest type was used throughout the construction of WHCC. Elaborate studios are in the Park Theatre building, occupying the entire second floor. There is a large reception room, two broadcasting studios, two business offices and an engineering room. The walls are specially treated with acoustical tile, and heavy carpets on the floors.

The transmission building is on the Howell Mill road between Waynesville and Lake Junaluska. The 150-foot tower is on a 3-acre site, with 8 miles of copper wire plowed in the ground as part of an extensive ground system.

The station is operated by the Smoky Mountain Broadcasters, Inc., with W. Curtis Russ, president, Holt McPherson, vice president, William Medford, secretary-treasurer, Robert M. Wallace, general manager, J. E. Massie, M. T. Bridges, C. N. Allen, E. S. Slack, Aaron Prevost and Wayne Corpening, owners.

The station personnel, besides Mr. Wallace, includes: Zeno Wall, Jr., commercial manager, George Flowers, program director, and announcers are Harry "Blue" Robinson, E. MacFarland, and Howard Choate. Donald Hunnicutt is chief engineer and Frank Wilbur is operating engineer. Miss Mary Moody, who recently graduated from WCTC, is secretary.

Stocks of grain brought over from last year in North Carolina show 424,000 bushels or about 23 percent less than a year ago.

North Carolina's 1946 ice cream manufactures, at 16,364,000 gallons, were 70 percent more than 1945 and almost four times the 1940 output.

The current outlook for North Carolina's commercial peanut crop is exceptionally good.

Two part-time instructors will not return this year. Miss Phyllis Cagle, formerly of the Home Economics department, will teach in Tennessee. Rev. R. T. Houts of the music department will devote all his time to his church, the Cullowhee Methodist Church.

Several changes outside the teaching staff are: Elizabeth Hammond Scott, formerly an assistant of the librarian will not return; Carrie B. Bryson, dietitian, was recently married and is living in Texas; Stedman Michell, who has served a number of years as superintendent of the college farm and dairy, has been designed as superintendent of buildings and grounds; Mrs. Cella Ashbrook, former secretary to the president of the college, will become assistant registrar at State Teachers College in Florence, Ala., where her husband will be on the teaching staff.

Parris Decorated

ited to the Belgian army and Belgian government during the war, Mr. Parris worked closely with that nation's underground club, Le Neuf Provines. He was an honorary member of the club and was the first U. S. correspondent to be allowed full information on its most secret operations and the only American newsman to sit in on meetings of the Circle of Condemned, made up of a group of persons in London who had been condemned to death by Hitler and had escaped from Belgium. The Circle of Condemned, some members of which were in the government, checked closely on all reports of underground activities coming from Belgium.

The Sylva man, after going to Brussels, gave the world the first picture of what civilian life in Belgium had been under the German heel.

In the capital city he was the guest of Andre Covin, chief of the Brussels underground forces in the early days of the war, who later escaped and came to New York. Covin flew back to Brussels with Parris, riding on the same plane. Here he was reunited with his wife, who had been an underground leader after his escape, and his two children.

The Associated Press correspondent tells an interesting story about his arrival in the Belgian capital after liberation from the Nazis. He had the great pleasure of riding with Covin from the airport to the palace in a jeep, with his vehicle leading the parade of returning statesmen. "Here is the government," he shouted to the happy but surprised people along the streets. "French Pretty Bad"

"My French was pretty bad but I was able to make them understand me," the newsman said, making it clear that he considers this one of the most exciting experiences of his lifetime.

Members of the government had been placed in a van for the trip from the airport to the palace.

Mr. Parris, who was the youngest American diplomatic correspondent during the war, was the first U. S. correspondent to wear civilian clothes on the continent after the German overran the countries there. The Belgian government in exile was the first to return home.

Underground news contacts were maintained on the continent by Mr. Parris all through the war.

The Sylva man has been a close student of efforts to form an international organization for the promotion of peace, having covered United Nations sessions at San Francisco, in London, and in New York. He will be on hand when the United Nations assembly reconvenes Sept. 16 in New York.

Mr. Parris, in collaboration with
